MAN AND WIFE OF SON MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN IN HOME

DOORS LOCKED AND WINDOW SHADES DOWN

Woman Killed by .38-Caliber Bullet, but no Weapon of That Description Is Found in East St. Louis House.

The finding of Mrs. Clara Richwine, 35 years old, wife of a barber, and her father-in-law, William Richwine, shot to death in their home, a bungalow, at 460 North Fifty-first street, just outside the East St. Louis city limits, yesterday afternoon, has presented a mystery to the police and St. Clair authorities.

The theory of robbery was eliminated when a thorough inventory by Mrs. Richwine's husband, Perry E. Richwine, showed that nothing had been taken. Richwine owns a barber shop at 405 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, about six miles from his home.

Mrs. Richwine was found dead on a table in the dining room. She was nude. A blanket was spread over the table. Her body lay on this and two pillows were under her head. There was a bullet wound in her left temple with powder marks around the wound, indicating the shot had been fired at short range.

Man Has Two Wounds.

William Richwine was found dead on the floor in a rear room of the basement which he used as a bedroom. He was shot in the left temple and near the heart, neither wound showing powder burns.

All the doors of the house were locked and the shades of all windows were pulled down.

The police today began examination of finger prints which were found on a mirror which had apparently been removed from the table on which Mrs. Richwine's body lay.

In a cedar chest in the bedroom, adjoining the room where Mrs. Richwine's body lay, policemen found a .25-caliber automatic pistol, a belt partly filled with cartridges and a cartridge clip containing six cartridges. Other weapons found in the house were a loaded shotgun in the attic and a loaded rifle in the bedroom. Policemen said the shotgun and rifle had not been discharged recently. Inquiry showed the automatic pistol belonged to Mrs. Richwine, who kept it in the cedar chest.

Autopsy on Woman.

An autopsy today showed that the bullet which killed Mrs. Richwine was a .38-caliber revolver bullet. In view of this the police did not think the finding of the automatic pistol was significant.

Richwine today told of a man who kept his wife's company before her second marriage and who gave her a diamond ring. This man is now serving a term in the Chester, Ill. penitentiary for murder. Richwine said the convict had written letters to his wife threatening to harm her if she did not return the ring and telling her that on his release from prison he was "coming to get the ring." Though the man is still in prison Richwine says he thinks the convict may have employed some other convict recently released to recover the ring and that the murder was committed in attempt to do this.

The discovery of the shooting was made about 4 p. m. by Earle Recklein Jr., 13 years old, son of Mrs. Richwine by a former marriage, who lived with her and his stepfather and step-grandfather in the house where the shooting occurred. The boy went home from school after stopping at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Wehring, 704 Alhambra Court. Finding all of the doors locked, he entered through a basement window.

Boy Flees When He Sees Body.

The boy found William Richwine dead on the floor. He at first thought Richwine had fainted, but when he saw blood he crawled out through the basement window and ran to the nearest house, 503 North Fifty-second street, about 400 feet away, and told Lee Wilson, a soldier home on a furlough, who notified the police.

Policemen forced open a door and entered the house. Inspection of the house showed that Mrs. Richwine had done the family washing in the basement. The clothes, still wet, were hanging there. In the basement kitchen were two buckets of water and a mop. Half of the linoleum had been mopped, while the other half had not been touched.

Richwine's right arm was broken about two weeks ago and he had

CARPENTERS' UNION VOTES 25 TO 1 AGAINST CUT OF 20 PER CENT IN WAGES

Largest Craft in Building Trades Council Casts More Than 2000 Ballots in the Referendum on Building Revival.

The Carpenters' Union, which is numerically the largest of the unions affiliated with the Building Trades Council, has rejected by a vote of about 25 to 1 the proposal of the Master Builders' Association for a 20-per-cent decrease in wages as a means of stimulating building operations.

The second proposal on the ballot, which was to enter into new agreements for a period of one year, also was rejected by the same ratio.

This is the first of the building trades crafts to receive complete returns on the proposal, and the view in trades union circles is that the action of the carpenters foreshadows the ultimate result.

Receive $1.25 an Hour.

The vote means that the carpenters will cling to the prevailing basic wage scale of $1.25 an hour for the present, as the ballot provided no alternative to a 20-per-cent decrease to $1 an hour.

About 2200 men voted on the proposal at special meetings. The ballot was secret. The organization has between 4500 and 5000 members in good standing, but about 2200 of these are cabinetmakers, boxmakers, furniture makers and ship carpenters, who were not eligible to vote on the building trades proposal.

The locals which voted are No. 5, Broadway and Chippewa; No. 47, 3024 Olive; No. 73, 3024 Olive; No. 185, 3024 Olive; No. 417, Kienlen and Easton; No. 602, Millwrights and Machinery Erectors, 3024 Olive; No. 1739, Maplewood; No. 2550, 3024 Olive.

Other Announcement Next Week.

The result of the balloting will be reported by the secretaries of locals at the regular meeting of the Carpenters' District Council tonight, and after approval by the council will be forwarded to the Building Trades Council, which will announce the result of the balloting in the other trades a week from tomorrow night.

The vote was taken following an investigation of local building conditions by a joint committee of the Building Trades Council and the Master Builders' Association, prompted by an exhaustive survey published in the Post-Dispatch of Nov. 8 last, in which it was shown that building projects aggregating $20,000,000 were being held in abeyance by high costs.

Director of Public Welfare Cunliff, by appointment of the Mayor, entered the investigation as the representative of the public, and a special survey made under his direction confirmed that of the Post-Dispatch, showing further that projects aggregating $15,000,000 would be started by next summer if costs were reduced 30 per cent.

To attain this end, Cunliff suggested that, as a first means, labor be asked to agree to a reduction in wages from $1.25 to $1 an hour. The union committee agreed to submit the proposal to a vote of the unions affiliated with the Building Trades Council, aggregating about 12,000 workmen, approximately 10,000 of whom would be eligible to vote. Thus the carpenter who voted on the proposal comprise about 20 per cent of the total.

After this suggestion had been accepted by the unions, the Master Builders' Committee added the second proposal, that which provided for new contracts for a period of one year, these contracts to revise working conditions.

Since the result of the carpenters' action has become known, the union leaders say that the proposal for new contracts complicated the ballot and lost votes for the proposed wage reduction.

3 CHILDREN KILLED, 21 INJURED BY TRAIN

Fast Freight on Pennsylvania Strikes School Bus in Fog Near Van Wert, O.

By the Associated Press.

VAN WERT, O., Jan. 10.—Three children were killed instantly and 21 others were injured this morning when a school bus was hit by a Pennsylvania fast freight at Golby Crossing.

Nine of the children were seriously injured and two of them are not expected to live. Twelve of the children were only slightly injured, and were taken to their homes.

The dead:

Lucile Fackler, aged 9.

Jessie Fackler, aged 14; sister of Lucile.

Mary Imler, aged 7.

Those fatally injured and expected to die:

Joseph Overholt, 17, the driver, and John Steegman, aged 12.

The accident occurred at a crossing just one-half mile from a centralized school. The bus driver, Joseph Overholt, stopped the bus at the crossing, got out and looked up and down the track.

Not seeing the approaching train because of a heavy fog, he started to drive across the track when the engine struck the bus.

"Pretty Soft" Over There, With All the Marks One Gets for a Dollar, They Say.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Many of the 996 American soldiers who arrived from the Rhineland yesterday on the transport Cantigny said they were sorry to come here. Life had been "pretty soft" over there, they said, with all the marks one got for his American dollar.

Fifteen of the soldiers were accompanied by foreign-born wives, 10 French and five German.

PEPPER TAKES SENATE SEAT VACATED BY PENROSE'S DEATH

Oath Is Administered by Vice-President Coolidge at 12 O'Clock Today.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—George Wharton Pepper took the oath of office today as a United States Senator from Pennsylvania, succeeding the late Senator Boies Penrose. The oath was administered by Vice President Coolidge at 12 o'clock.

Pepper Says He Will Be Candidate for Full Term.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—George Wharton Pepper, Philadelphia lawyer, who was appointed United States Senator by Gov. Sproul to succeed the late Boies Penrose, will be a candidate for the entire Penrose term, expiring in March, 1927, he has announced. The appointment holds good until the November election. Pepper, it is expected, will be a candidate at the May primary for the nomination.

Pepper's announcement, coupled with a statement by the Governor that he expected Pepper to be a candidate for the complete term, ended speculation as to whether Sproul himself would run for the office this year. The Governor's statement came as a surprise to some of his friends. He had the unprecedented opportunity of having been twice in a position to resign the governorship to take the senatorship, first through the death of Senator Knox and then by the passing of Senator Penrose.

Pepper, in a statement, said the tender of the senatorship had been made without any restriction.

HARVEY'S DOCTORS SAY HE NEEDS ONLY A LITTLE REST

Injury in Auto Accident So Slight He May Attend Council Session at Cannes Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

CANNES, Jan. 10.—George Harvey, American Ambassador to Great Britain, who was injured in an automobile accident yesterday morning, had recovered to such an extent last evening that his physicians said he probably would be able to attend Thursday's session of the Supreme Council.

Any fear that complications might develop from Harvey's injuries were dissipated by an examination made by the doctors, who said that 36 hours of rest and quiet probably would be all that was necessary for the patient's complete recovery.

David Lloyd George, British Premier, and Aristide Briand, French Prime Minister, visited Harvey during the day.

Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, replaced Harvey yesterday in attendance on the session of the Supreme Council. He also will be present at the session today.

$754,000 WAS MISAPPROPRIATED BY MEININGER

Circuit Attorney Announces Shortage of Missing Night and Day Cashier, Carried as Cash Items.

EXAMINER FIGURES LOSS AT $414,000

Declares Assets Found Will Reduce Depositors' Loss to $150,000—Grand Jury Begins Inquiry.

Developments today in the affairs of the closed Night and Day Bank showed that Arthur O. Meininger, fugitive $5000-a-year cashier, misappropriated $754,000 from the bank, and that, in view of assets discovered, this now appears to mean an actual loss to the bank of about $414,000, of which the stockholders must stand $260,000, in the wiping out of the capital stock, surplus and undivided profits, and the depositors, by present calculations, must stand $154,000 or more.

The deposits, although not yet checked by the bank examiners, have been figured at a total of $2,820,000, so that a loss of $150,000 to $200,000 would still leave the depositors more than 90 cents on the dollar, and might even leave a possibility of a reopening with little or no loss to depositors.

Circuit Attorney's Announcement.

The total amount of Meininger's shortage, $754,000, was announced in a statement issued this afternoon by Circuit Attorney Sidener. He made no mention, in this statement, of the assets discovered by the State bank examiners. He said later, in explaining this, that he was interested in the matter from the standpoint of criminal prosecution. He said he understood that the examiners had discovered assets to cover a considerable part of the shortage, and that he believe there was a possibility that the bank might "come out pretty well."

The grand jury began an investigation of the bank's affairs this afternoon, with the prospect that the first resulting action would be an indictment or indictments against Cashier Meininger. State bank examiners were the first witnesses.

Roy Niemann, one of the State bank examiners, said, after learning of the Circuit Attorney's statement, that it represented the amount of Meininger's shortage as shown by the first perfunctory audit, completed at 4 a. m. last Friday, four hours before the closing of the bank was announced.

New Assets Have Come In.

Since that time, Niemann said, the examination has shown assets, and new assets have come in, so that he figures that the loss, above the $260,000 capital, surplus and undivided profits, may not be more than $154,000.

Niemann said, however, that the final audit will be required to show conclusively where the depositors stand, and that this final audit may not be completed for three weeks. The examiners are keeping in mind the possibility that the amount of deposits shown by the records, $2,820,000, may be smaller than the actual amount, as the deposit records may have been falsified. No evidence pointing to this has been found, however.

The assets which have been discovered or obtained since last Friday morning, Niemann said, include the $75,000 bond held by the bank against defalcations by any employe; money, which has been paid on demand notes; whisky certificates figured at a value of $75,000 or more, and stocks and securities which have been furnished as collateral, on demand of the State authorities, by individuals and corporations which had obtained loans from the bank on their personal notes. Meininger was financially interested in some of these concerns.

Of Meininger's shortage, about $175,000 was represented by cash slips left in the bank's records. Niemann said these slips represented money which Meininger had loaned out, mostly without collateral, and that collateral had now been obtained to cover about one-half of the amount, or $87,500.

Still Possibility of Reopening.

Niemann said that there was still a possibility that the bank might reopen and pay depositors 100 cents on the dollar, but that any definite determination of this question would have to wait upon the final audit.

Circuit Attorney Sidener's statement to reporters was:

I have carefully watched the developments relative to the short-

TWO WARRANTS CHARGING STATE GAME LAW VIOLATIONS ISSUED

Warrants charging violation of the State fish and game law were issued today against Koerner's Merchant Catering Co., 408 Washington avenue, and Reinhold Wurst, owner of a restaurant at 2656 Lafayette avenue, following a conference in the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

Application for the warrants was made Dec. 27 by Deputies William J. Wiemeyer and John P. Heller of the State Game and Fish Commissioner's staff, who reported having confiscated eight mallard ducks at Koerner's restaurant and two mallard ducks at Wurst's place. The Prosecuting Attorney had taken the application under advisement.

Arthur E. Koerner, secretary of the Koerner company, and Wurst were at the Prosecuting Attorney's office today, but were not called into the conference.

Wiemeyer and Heller submitted written statements signed by Koerner and Wurst on Christmas eve, when the ducks were confiscated, in which they admitted having taken game in their establishments in violation of section 5635 of the fish and game laws. The statements were made and signed by the two men, who wished to avoid arrest at the time. The punishment for violation of this law is a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100.

PER CAPITA CIRCULATION OF MONEY DECLINES $6.09 IN 1921

Reduction Is Accounted For by Decrease of Nearly $1,000,000,000 in Federal Reserve Notes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Per capita circulation of money in the United States declined $6.09 during the last year, according to a statement issued today by the Treasury.

On Jan. 1, 1922, the per capita circulation was $53.03, based on a total of $5,775,400,315 and an estimated population of 108,917,000 as compared with a per capita of $59.12 on Jan. 1, 1921, based on a total of $6,340,436,718 in circulation and an estimated population of $107,249,000.

The reduction in the amount of money in circulation was accounted for mainly by the decrease of nearly $1,000,000,000 in Federal Reserve notes, the total on Jan. 1, 1922, being $2,443,789,730 in circulation as compared with $3,349,389,117 on Jan. 1, 1921.

POISON PUT IN GIRL'S MOUTH AS SHE SLEPT, IS POLICE THEORY

Farmer's Daughter Found Dead in Bed; Another Awakes, Finding Drug in Her Mouth.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Jan. 10.—Johanna Heberhauer, 19 years old, daughter of a farmer of Bellview, three miles from here, was found dead in bed early today. Authorities are working on the theory that somebody entered her rooms as she slept and placed poison in her mouth.

A younger sister awoke suddenly during the night and found poison in her mouth. An investigation showed a window in the house had been forced open.

Police are searching for a man who, it was said, had made threats against the lives of the farmer's family.

BORAH SPEAKS IN SENATE AGAINST SEATING NEWBERRY

RECOUNTS 8 REASONS FOR HIS ATTITUDE

Precedent, He Declares, Concerns Him Much More Than Four-Year Incumbency of Position.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A second Republican attack on the validity of Truman H. Newberry's election to the Senate was made today when Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the Progressive group, declared that a careful study of the law and an investigation of the facts in the case had convinced him that Newberry should be unseated. The first Republican to speak against Newberry was Kenyon of Iowa.

Borah said that if the question involved merely the right of Newberry to sit in the Senate for the next four years, he would content himself with his vote. It was the precedent that would be set, he added, that concerned him much more.

Quotes Eight Conclusions.

Borah said he had reached the following eight conclusions:

1. That a primary is a part of the election process, and the improper use of money in a primary has the same effect as corruption in an election.

2. That the amount spent in the Newberry campaign was of such size as to lead to the conclusion that it had a corrupting effect on the result.

3. That no man should be permitted to be the beneficiary of a corrupt election, whether he personally participated in it or not.

4. That the Campaign Committee was Newberry's committee.

5. That Newberry had such knowledge of the doings of the committee as to charge him with responsibility for its acts.

6. That the State statutes of Michigan were violated in the campaign.

7. That the Federal laws were violated.

8. That the election, being tainted, should be declared void.

Spencer Talks With Lodge.

Senator Spencer was in whispered consultation with Majority Leader Lodge during the opening part of Borah's address. Other conversations in the rear of the room between Old Guard leaders led Senator Robinson of Arkansas twice to demand that the chair call for order.

A visitor on the floor was Senator Pearce of Australia, one of the British delegation at the Arms Conference. He sat with Senator Freylinghuysen of New Jersey in the rear row.

Newberry's Statement "False as Hell," Says Senator Williams.

"The old Presbyterian blue stocking covenanters" in the ancestry of Senator Spencer, chief of the Newberry defenders, were invoked yesterday in a picturesque and forceful speech by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi against permitting the accused Michigan Senator to stay in his seat.

In a direct address to his Republican colleagues, Williams asked if they believed Newberry's statement that he had no knowledge of contributions to his campaign.

"Is there a man within sound of my voice who believes it?" Senator Williams asked. "It is a horrible thing to accuse a gentleman of perjury.

"Do you believe it? You know it is as false as hell."

The Mississippian's remarks followed the statement by Newberry that he knew nothing about the expenditures in his behalf in the Michigan primary and election of 1918. Turning to face Senator Spencer, Williams said:

"The United States Senate calls itself an 'august body,' but I came to the conclusion some time ago that it is not very august, considering the original Latin definition of the word 'august,' but still it is a respectable body. If, however, the time has come when a man, either through a primary or through a general election, can buy his way into this body through his friends and his relations and his wife's relations, especially when he is so stupid as to have it all happen without his knowledge or consent, before the fact or after the fact, then this body ceases to be respectable. It not only ceases to be

NEW PRESIDENT OF THE DAIL EIREANN

ARTHUR GRIFFITH.

Adjournment Taken to Feb. 14 to Permit New Government to Carry Out Anglo-Irish Treaty; De Valera Walks Out, Then Returns With Provisional Offer of Aid.

POPE REJOICES AT PEACE SETTLEMENT

Message, With Blessings, Sent Through Cardinal Gasparri; Union Labor to Support Treaty Government; Anxiety as to Section of Army.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10.—After electing Arthur Griffith president of the Dail Eireann and naming a Cabinet to assist him, the Dail adjourned late today until Feb. 14 to permit the new Government to proceed with carrying out the provisions of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

After walking out of the session this morning with his followers in protest against the nomination of Griffith for the presidency, Eamonn de Valera returned to the afternoon session with a promise of help for Griffith as president of the Dail but not as head of another Government. De Valera was defeated yesterday for re-election as president.

After his election, President Griffith made this announcement:

"The Dail will continue to exist until the Irish Free State is set up."

Griffith Placed in Nomination.

Griffith was placed in nomination by Michael Collins shortly after the beginning of the session. As matters stood, said Collins, Ireland was without a leader. He again charged the opposition with obstructionist tactics and declared its desire was to create the impression that Ireland was split unfriendly to England and to discredit the supporters of the treaty. The present course of the Dail, if persisted in, he said, would give England an excuse for remaining in Ireland.

The proposition to elect Griffith was opposed by John Mac Intee, who said he questioned the wisdom of putting up Griffith, a man who was bound by his signature to the treaty to wreck the Irish republic. He declared no man who had signed the peace agreement should be President of the Dail. It was proposed to do gratuitously in carrying out the treaty what John Redmond was coerced into doing in 1914, added MacIntee.

De Valera Questions Griffith.

Eamonn de Valera asked Griffith whether he intended, if elected, to act as the executive of the republic. The Dail Eireann, he said, was representative of the republic and nothing else. Peace was not established by the treaty, he declared, as the struggle for the republic would continue.

"This body," added De Valera, "has no right to give away its powers unless it is established as a republican government."

Charles Burgess, following De Valera, declared Griffith had broken the agreement not to sign a treaty until the completed document had been submitted to the Irish Cabinet. "No matter what undertaking Griffith gives now, I oppose his election," he added.

Answering the questions of the opposition, Griffith said that, if elected, he would use his position to give effect to the constitutional vote of the Dail to carry out the terms of the treaty.

Republic and Free State.

"The Republic of Ireland," replied

$1230 OVERLOOKED BY PAYROLL ROBBERS

Two Men, Expecting a Holdup, Had Distributed Money in Pockets—Only $60 Lost.

Two highwaymen at 1:45 p. m. today strongarmed and searched Nathan Stern, secretary of the United Pants Co., 821 North Eleventh street, and David Cytron of 1912 Carr street, an employe of the company, but stole only $60 of $1290 payroll money which Stern and Cytron were carrying.

The robbers were thwarted through the fatc that Stern and Cytron heeded the old adge that it is a bad thing to put all your eggs in one basket. After drawing the money from the City Trust Co. they divided it equally and put small amounts in each of the pockets in their clothing. They had money distributed all over them, but not much in any one place.

Stern and Cytron were passing an alley on Eleventh street, between Lucas avenue and Morgan street, when the two robbers, unarmed, jumped out and grabbed them. One put his hand in Stern's outside coat pocket and took all that was there, nine $5 bills. The other took a grab bag chance on Cytron's coat pocket and got $15 in silver.

When the robbery had proceeded this far Stern and Cytron called for help. As though pre-arranged, an automobile with three men in it drove up to the curb and the two robbers jumped in it. The machine then drove south on Eleventh street.

MONTANA DRY AGENTS SEIZE STILL ON CONTINENTAL DIVIDE

Force Way Through Snow to Mountain Tops, Finding Outfit Cemented in Rocks.

BUTTE Mont., Jan. 10.—Using automobile and horse-drawn sleighs and struggling afoot, the last two miles in snow waist deep, Beaverhead County prohibition enforcement officers Sunday forced their way to the top of the Continental Divide, between the upper Sweetwater and Blacktail, arrested a gang of alleged moonshiners and confiscated what is said to be the biggest distillery apparatus and the largest amount of mash ever located in the West.

The still was cemented in the rocks of the mountainside and a huge furnace had been built underneath.

WIDOW HELD FOR INQUIRY INTO TWO DEATHS LAST FALL

Mrs. Anna Sawitzky and Bartender Questioned About Poisoning of Sawitzky and Another Man.

POTASSIUM CYANIDE FOUND IN BODIES

At Time It Was Supposed They Drank Cleaning Liquid—Prisoners Found Living Over Saloon.

Police investigation of the sudden deaths on Sept. 18 last of Steve Sawitzky, proprietor of a saloon at 1700 Chouteau avenue, and John Zaslocki of 1316 South Third street, led to the arrest for questioning yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Anna Sawitzky, 27, widow of Steve, and Theodore Feduch, bartender in the saloon at 1700 Chouteau, now conducted by Mrs. Sawitzky. The police say that both Mrs. Sawitzky and Feduch resided at 1700A Chouteau, above the saloon.

Mrs. Sawitzky and Feduch were locked up at Soulard Street Police Station and were questioned today by Capt. Kirk, who directed the investigation. Both denied having any knowledge of the cause of the two deaths.

Cyanide of Potassium Poisoning.

Autopsies performed for the Coroner showed that Sawitzky and Zaslocki had died of cyanide of potassium poisoning. The circumstances of the deaths, as brought out at the inquest, were as follows:

Sawitzky and Zaslocki, after being out together all afternoon, returned to the saloon about 7:30 p. m., Sept. 18, when Mrs. Sawitzky was sitting in front of the place. They went inside and a few minutes later two customers went in. The customers came out and asked Mrs. Sawitzky who was tending bar. She replied that her husband was supposed to be and then she entered the saloon.

Zaslocki was leaning on the end of the bar. He said Sawitzky was ill in a back room. In the back room Mrs. Sawitzky found her husband unconscious. He was taken to the city hospital and died a few minutes after arriving there.

After the ambulance departed with Sawitzky, Zaslocki went to the sidewalk and fell unconscious. He was taken to the city hospital and died at 10 p. m.

Theory of Mistakes in Bottles.

A theory was advanced to the police that the men might have drunk by mistake from a bottle of cleaning fluid containing cyanide of potassium, as such cleaners are sometimes used for cleaning the copper work of bars.

Nicholas Sawitzky of Milwaukee, brother of Steve, who was 36 years old, was not satisfied with this explanation and urged a thorough police investigation. He wrote to the Circuit Attorney that at the funeral Mrs. Sawitzky told him of having had the bartender pour some alcohol into a glass and leave it on the bar for Steve. He also stated that Mrs. Sawitzky had said that the two men drank the contents of this glass. He also wrote that his brother and Mrs. Sawitzky had had trouble and had quarreled the night before his death.

Mrs. Sawitzky declared the statement of Nicholas Sawitzky about the glass of alcohol was not true.

Griffith, "remains in being until the Free State comes into being, and there is an opportunity to put the question before the electorate."

Griffith said the Dail had approved the treaty and that it must be carried into effect. Therefore, he added, "we must have a Provisional Government."

Miss Mary MacSwiney said Griffith had made it clear he intended to get Lloyd George to indorse the Dail as the Provisional Government.

Message From Pope.

The Dail resumed its sittings at 11:30 o'clock, with the reading by Speaker John MacNeill of a cable message from Cardinal Gasparri, on behalf of Pope Benedict, saying his Holiness rejoiced with the Irish people at the agreement that had been reached and sent his blessing to them after they had passed through their long period of sorrows faithful to the Catholic Church.

Anxiety is expressed in some circles as to the attitude of the Irish republican army. It is said that, although its leaders uphold the treaty, a large section of the rank and file, especially in the Southwest, continue irreconcilably against it, and this position is regarded as holding unpleasant possibilities.

Another fear is that some republicans of a political bent are, notwithstanding the Dail vote, firmly set upon establishment of their own government at any cost, with the purpose of making a failure of the treaty.

Encouragement for supporters of the treaty arrived last night with the announcement that organized labor in Ireland had resolved to throw its influence into the scale in behalf of the new government.

Irish Press Attitude.

The Irish newspapers continue their support of the new order of things. The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal writes: "The wreckers of the treaty yesterday played their master stroke and failed."

He declares that the attempt to "turn De Valera's personality and prestige into a weapon to smash the Anglo-Irish pact by smart maneuvers will be regarded throughout the land as a disingenuous procedure."

BORAH SPEAKS IN SENATE AGAINST SEATING NEWBERRY

respectable, but it ceases to be intelligent, for if what the junior Senator from Michigan says is true, he is an ass without sense enough to get out of the rain.

Asks About the Testimony.

"Is there one of you who believes that his very best friends, and all his wife's relatives, and all his other relatives could have carried on a campaign in his State involving an expenditure of $200,000 and he have known nothing about it?

"Is there one of you who believes that, if you were he and had known anything about it, you would have come up and taken that oath before the Secretary of the Senate and said that it 'happened without your knowledge or consent,' and that you had not spent a dollar and that nobody else had done so with your knowledge or consent, in order to promote your nomination or election?

"Could you do that if it were true without being a fool, and could you have done it if it were untrue without being perjured?

"Could any man or any number of men go out into the State of Missouri and spend $300,000 for the Senator from Missouri in an election and the Senator from Missouri know nothing about it? If he did know anything about it, would he come here and swear that he did not?

"The Senator knows he would not. The old Presbyterian bluestocking Covenanters behind him, even though they are dead, would rise in their graves and kick him out. Such a thing could not happen without his knowledge or consent; and if it did happen, with his knowledge or consent, he would not so swear that it had happened without his knowledge or consent for fear of being mistaken for an unadulerated ass.

"Mr. President, we do not need any lawyers in this case. One thing which made me always believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ was his prejudice against scribes, pharisees and lawyers. Lawyers always quibble around about words and split hairs here and there," I say that without any prejudice against the profession, of which I am myself a member, as my father was, as my grandfather was, as his grandfather was and his grandfather's grandfather was. But lawyers do finally acquire the habit of quibbling. They do finally acquire the habit of splitting hairs; they do finally acquire the habit of being advocates; they do finally acquire the habit of taking a side and then trying to find out a reason for having taken it, instead of first ascertaining the reasons and then taking the side.

Refers to the Conclusions.

"I do not believe there is a Senator in this chamber who can read the record in this case, with all of the letters which passed between Smith and King and the contestee, and all the proof as to the editors and the workers and the other people being hired to perform services, without coming to the conclusion to which I have come.

"The Senator from Missouri, the other day, took a position which seemed to me very curious for him —I do not say it for an ordinary man, but I say 'for him'—that it is perfectly right for a candidate to hire men to go around and blow his horn and advocate his election.

"Mr. President, what is an election? It is an appeal by two or three or four men to the electorate for an office, and in making the appeal each one thinks, or ought to think—or else he ought not to be a candidate—that he is the best fitted by training, by native ability, by honest intent or otherwise, to fill the position. To hire a man to go out and tell other people that you are by intent or native ability or training best fitted to fill a position is bribery. For a friend to go out and of his own accord say all of that, because he believes it, is loyalty, and loyalty is the highest virtue of which mankind is capable. If I would say of the Senator from Missouri (if I were a citizen of that State), 'I think he is honest, I think he is competent; I think he is able'— to use Thomas Jefferson's phrase as to the test of an officeholder—that would express my loyalty to superiority, mental or moral, and would put me in the category of those who are capable of a feeling outside of and above themselves. But when I am paid $5 a day, or $20, or $50, or $100 as some of these men were—I am a contemptible—Oh, Mr. President, I despair of expression; there is no parliamentary language in which to say what."

Speaks of Sale of Empire.

At another point in his speech Williams said: "When the Pretorian guard sold the Roman empire to Didius Julianus they had sufficient decency afterwards to go out and execute Didius Julianus and sell the empire over again to another fellow, and then, after they had sold it to him, they had sufficient decency to execute him and then gave it without price to the great Roman imperator who illustrated his faithfulness to the Roman empire by his services against the barbarians."

In an apparent reference to Spencer, Williams continued: "If you Republicans are going to seat this man with one or two half-preachers and laymen before you leading the fight, for God's sake put the blamed office up again for another sale and let somebody else buy it, and then after the other fellow buys it, refuse to seat him and let somebody else then honestly nominated take the place."

His own campaign, the Senator said, had never cost more than $6800 at the most, and he did not know what could have been done with $263,000.

MAN DIES FROM INJURIES HE RECEIVED IN A BRAWL

Frederick Summers, 44 years old, of 24A Gore avenue, Webster Groves, a clerk, died at 8 a. m. today at Barnes Hospital from injuries suffered in a brawl Sunday at the home of Charles Krieder, 44 Moody avenue, Webster Groves.

About 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon Summers was found by his wife at his own home, sitting in a chair, intoxicated and injured. Summers told Webster Groves policemen, before being taken to the hospital, that he went to Krieder's home Sunday morning and asked for a drink of whisky. At the time, he said, Kreider and some other men were playing dice on the kitchen floor and they told him to help himself from a jug. He took two swallows from the jug, he said, and later a fight insued, in which he was kicked in the stomach.

His death was caused by peritonitis.

Man Found Shot to Death.

James R. Shannon, 39 years old, who had a room at 1721 North Jefferson avenue, was found shot through the heart in his bed at 9:30 this morning. Harry J. Morris, a roomer, found the body. A pistol lay on the bed beside Shannon. A sister, Mrs. Alice Martin, said Shannon recently had been treated at Alexian Brothers' Hospital.

Griffith, a Sinn Fein Founder, Helped Formulate Treaty

ARTHUR GRIFFITH was one of the founders of the Sinn Fein movement and was among the foremost leaders directing its activities. He was formerly an editor at Dublin and later established the paper, United Irishman, followed by the Sinn Fein and then the Nationality.

In October, 1917, he was elected presiding officer at the opening of the Sinn Fein conference in Dublin. He was later nominated as the Sinn Fein delegate from East Cavan. During the peace conference in Paris in 1919 he was chosen as an Irish delegate to go to Paris and presented the Irish case, but failure to get a safe conduct prevented his attendance.

In July, 1919, he was elected acting President of the Irish National Assembly in the absence of Eamonn de Valera in the United States. In October, 1919, he was elected one of the permanent vice presidents of the Sinn Fein organization.

Seven Months in Prison.

He was arrested in Dublin in November, 1920, and spent seven months in Mountjoy Prison. During his imprisonment he issued a message to the Irish people as to the conduct of the Sinn Fein organization. An attempt was made to rescue him from prison but the armored car used for that purpose failed to carry out the plan.

The return of De Valera from America was attributed to Griffith's imprisonment, as De Valera on his return resumed the active direction of Sinn Fein affairs.

Early in June last there were reports of a London conference at which Irish leaders would be invited to consult with members of the British Cabinet. Griffith was mentioned among the probable delegates. His release from prison followed on June 21 last.

In London Conference.

Griffith accompanied De Valera to London in July, when the extended series of conferences were opened. Later, when the conferences shifted to different points, Griffith was appointed chairman of the Sinn Fein mission.

He was in London through October, November and December, carrying on the negotiations which culminated on Dec. 6 last in the signing of the treaty between Great Britain and Ireland which has now been approved by the British Parliament and the Dail Eireann.

Griffith Cabinet Members.

OF the men nominated by Arthur Griffith today to membership in the new Dail Eireann Cabinet, two were members of the De Valera Cabinet—Michael Collins and William F. Cosgrave—who retain their portfolios of Finance and Local Government, respectively.

George Gavan Duffy and E. J. Duggan were members of the Sinn Fein delegation to London and signers of the peace treaty. Duffy succeeds Griffith in the Foreign Affairs post and Duggan takes the Home Affairs portfolio which had been held by Austin Stack, chief lieutenant of De Valera in opposing the treaty.

98 MAKES OF CARS ON EXHIBITION AT NEW YORK'S SHOW

PUBLIC INTEREST IN ACCESSORIES STRONG

New Lamp Without Lens and Rims That Can Be Changed in Two Minutes on View.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The automobile show is in full swing. It opened on Saturday, closed over Sunday, and reopened yesterday and will continue until next Saturday night. The four floors of the Grand Central Palace Building, where the 98 different makes of automobiles are being exhibited, were crowded again all day yesterday and last night and are crowded again today.

From the time the doors swung back early in the morning until midnight thousands of persons surged their way through the narrow lanes of cars and accessory exhibits continuously. It seemed like an endless line.

Salesmen said that business was "the best ever." Many sales were reported at the end of the second day's showing. But while trading was brisk with the manufacturers the accessory men reported that they had done more business since the opening last Saturday than the first four or five days last year.

This might be called "an accessory exhibition." Surely never before at any of the previous automobile shows have so many features in the accessory line been shown. There is no end to the features for cars, such as body designs, lights, stop signals, tires, bumpers, springs, etc.

Adjustable Body Shown.

An Egyptian is showing a new style body that will fit on any car. It works by simply turning a small handle and pushing a button. It might be called the "three in one." As, for example, you can have the smartest kind of a runabout; by the sharp turn of a small handle concealed under the seat, the rear construction flies upward and then down into a four-seated touring car with side doors. Another twist of the handle and two more seats flop up and you have a six-seater.

A new headlight commands considerable attention. In this lamp there is no lens, the light being distributed by the reflector. It consists of six wedge-shaped segments converging at a common point back of the lamp. They are set at proper angles, working in pairs—one pair throws the light on the road, and the other to the side and one pair for emergency.

For those who use an automobile for sport, there is nothing left that requires an effort. In fact, the only exertion for the motorist is the getting into the car. Once in, all that you have to do is to look out for the other fellow. The modern car is built so that the laziest person cannot complain. The self-starter has even been improved upon. It is now on the steering wheel, in many cars with a push-button arrangement. A good many of the cars start in high speed. Tops of open cars spring up like a jack-in-the-box. New style rims make it possible to change tires in about two minutes' time.

Camouflaging, made popular during the world war, and perfected to a high degree, is now an art in the automobile industry. The designers of engines and other mechanical parts seemed to have reached the limit of their skill, but body manufacturers have just begun. You can make your Ford look like a Rolls-Royce, almost.

But some bodies are so arranged that if the owner so desires they can be opened up in such a way that only the top remains. Large windows are made to fall down inside of the body itself. Some slide back.

Sticking to the Old Ford.

Salesmen claim that more time is wasted demonstrating a car to persons who have no intention of purchasing a car than to those who do. One woman, after carefully inspecting a high priced model and having its qualifications explained by a polite demonstrator, walked away, remarking:

"I guess we'll have the Ford painted and keep it another year. It's only four years old."

All day Sunday and on the early trains Monday, thousands of automobile manufacturers, dealers, agents, accessory manufacturers and just plain autoists came into New York and filled every prominent hotel in the city to overflowing. The vanguard arrived last week to prepare the exhibits for the opening session of the automobile show Saturday afternoon but the majority of the high officials did not start until they had closed their desks for the week.

Exhibits in Hotel Lobbies.

Though the several hotel lobbies in which exhibits are being held were crowded with spectators who gazed admiringly on some of the latest models, the automobile men themselves were not much in evidence until today.

PULITZER TROPHY IS PRESENTED TO BERT ACOSTA

STINSON AND AID GET MERIT MEDAL

Admiral Fullam, in Speech, Says America Will Be Impregnable if Adequately Protected in Air.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—No foreign fleet will dare to come within 200 miles of American shores if the nation is adequately protected in the air; development of air forces will make intercontinental wars impossible and, indeed, will be the best guarantee against war; the capital ship of the future will be the airplane carrier; its development will write the final chapter in the history of oversea warfare.

These are statements made by Rear Admiral W. F. Fullam, U. S. N. retired, at the fourteenth annual dinner of the Aero Club of America at the Commodore Hotel last night. Admiral Fullam was one of the official navy observers of the recent air-bombing tests, which, he said, "proved beyond question that the airplane will be the dominating factor in future wars on land and sea.

Pulitzer Trophy to Acosta.

The dinner was made the occasion of the presentation of trophies won by American aviators during the year. To Bert Acosta, who could not be present, was accorded the Pulitzer trophy, as well as the Aero Club's medal of merit for breaking the cross-country speed record in the Pulitzer race at Omaha last November.

The MacKay army trophy and the medal of merit were presented to Capt. John A. Macready for breaking the world's altitude record. The Collier trophy went to Grover C. Loring for developing the Loening flying yacht, and Loring also was awarded the Wright trophy for the best completed aerial demonstration to or from New York City from the buyer's point of view.

The Aero Club's medal of merit was presented to Edward Stinson and Lloyd Bertrand for their recent record-breaking endurance flight of more than 26 hours over Long Island.

1922 Race at Selfridge Field.

It was announced by Charles Jerome Edwards, who awarded the prizes on behalf of the club and of their donors, that the Pulitzer race of 1922 will be held at Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich. A resolution introduced by Edwards petitioning President Harding to authorize the war, navy and postoffice departments to enter service planes in all contests sanctioned by the Aero Club, which was seconded by Major-General Mason M. Patrick, head of the army air service, and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, head o fthe Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, was adopted unanimously.

Another resolution adopted called on Congress for immediate and decisive action on the Wadsworth-Hicks bill placing civil aviation under Government control.

Benedict Cromwell, former Assistant Secretary of War and President of the club, presided. The speakers, besides Admiral Fullam, were Admiral Moffett, Gen. Patrick, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Capt. St. Clair Street and Congressman Fred C. Hicks Jr.

STATE PERMIT SOUGHT FOR DUNCAN AVENUE CROSSING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—The Wabash Railway yesterday applied to the Missouri Public Service Commission for a permit to construct an industrial track across Duncan avenue, between Taylor and Newstead avenues, in St. Louis.

Permit for such a track was granted by the Board of Public Service in St. Louis and the railroad began the construction of the track, halting it when the Board of Education protested its proximity to the William Stix School and residents urged a revocation of the permit because of the effect upon residence property values.

City Counselor Caulfield recently called attention to the fact that the railroad had neglected to obtain the consent of the Public Service Commission for the track, as required by the Public Service Commission act.

GOVERNOR URGES THAT AID FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN BE EXTENDED THROUGH STATE

Executive, in Letter to Dr. North, Commends St. Louis Plan and Points to Need of Juveniles in the Rural Districts.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—Gov. Hyde, in a letter to the president of the State Board of Health, today commended the St. Louis Medical Society's campaign for the aid of crippled children whose parents are unable to pay for treatment and suggested that these plans for free treatment be extended throughout the State. The St. Louis plan, publicity for which is being given in the Post-Dispatch, has been taken up in Kansas City.

The Governor's letter is as follows:

"Dr. Emmett P. North,
"President State Board of Health,
"St. Louis, Mo.:

"Dear Doctor: I acknowledge receipt of the report of the State Board of Health covering its activities during the past year. I am familiar with the work of the board in controlling a recent outbreak of smallpox in the State and am convinced the work done saved the State from a very serious epidemic. I am also familiar with your work controlling typhoid and diphtheria and in health investigations in certain sections of the State. I desire to congratulate you upon the showing you have made.

Amazing Conditions Shown.

"These health investigations, particularly of school children, in different parts of the State, reveal conditions which are amazing, and which call for immediate remedial action. I trust the board will devote itself, so far as it lies in its power, to change these conditions.

"I have noticed in the papers, too, what seems to me to be a great work undertaken to aid the crippled children of the cities. I have been impressed with the plan and the ready response which has been made by the medical societies of St. Louis and Kansas City. Great numbers are asking for aid. Great and lasting benefits will no doubt accrue to children whose parents are unable to pay for proper attention, but whose potential value to society is just as great as those more fortunately situated. In addition to this, there are humanitarian considerations which make the appeal of these crippled children unanswerable.

"The children of the cities, however, are close to hospitals and advantages which those of the country do not enjoy. While I have no figures, I am convinced that there are many crippled children in the country who need exactly this same service, for whom the same humanitarian reasons appeal, and to whom proper attention at this time would be a lifelong blessing. Cannot this same comprehensive survey include the whole State, and free clinic centers be conveniently established to give aid and relief to the crippled children of the entire State? If your board can work this problem out I am sure such action would meet deserved gratitude from the people of the State, and I shall be happy to give any aid within my power.

What Legislature Has Done.

"The last Legislature passed an act providing for prophylactic treatment of the eyes of infants to prevent blindness. They also passed the enabling act effectuating the constitutional amendment for pensions for the blind. There exist, therefore, both humanitarian and financial reasons for the prevention of blindness in Missouri. I am informed that most cases of blindness could have been prevented by proper treatment at birth, or by proper treatment for graulated eyelids. There is a great field for constructive effort, and I would be glad if you could suggest some plan that will assist in the treatment of such cases, and prevent blindness.

"It is the hope of this administration that there shall be built up at the State University a great medical center for the State. Steps have already been taken for the construction of a hospital and it is our aim to make the university medical school a great center, particularly for the diagnosis of diseases. If the present force of the State University could be of service in either of the matters above outlined, I am sure that the university would be glad to co-operate.

"A. M. HYDE."

CHARGED NATIVE SEAMEN WILL SOON BE AS EXTINCT AS DODO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Native American seamen will soon become as extinct as the dodo, according to the International Seamen's Union, holding its twenty-fifth annual convention here. The union charges that the percentage of American "salts" in Shipping Board and private vessels is now only 18, whereas in May, last, it was 50.

The union asserts that the United States Shipping Board is not encouraging the Yankee seamen.

TO SPEND FUND BEFORE ISSUING ROAD BONDS

State Highway Commission Adopts Resolution on Policy of Its Expenditures.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—The State Highway Commission today adopted a resolution by Commissioner Connett of Fawcette, Buchanan County, declaring it to be the policy of the commission to provide for the expenditure of all of the $1,500,000 yet to be spent under the McCullough-Morgan law before selling any of the $60,000,000 bond issue and that it was also the policy to sell bonds this year only to such a sum as could in the judgment of the highway engineer be judiciously spent during the year.

The commission has the authority to have bonds sold by the State Board of Fund Commissioners up to $10,000,000. Chief Engineer Graham informed the commission, however, that in all probability not more than $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 could be used to the best advantage during the present year.

The Connett resolution is regarded as a direct offer to members of the referendum faction in the Missouri Farmers' Association, dominated by William Hirth of Columbia, to lay down arms and call off their threatened attack on the road program. While the Hirth partisans could bring a referendum attack only against a bill providing that the first $10,000,000 of the $60,000,000 bonds be made eligible for sale after March 1 this year, instead of next year, as originally contemplated, the effect would be to tie up the whole program for a statewide system until after the next Legislature, in which efforts may be made to undo some of the good roads legislation already enacted.

Hirth, who has conferred with Chairman Gary of the Highway Commission once or twice, has said that he will announce this week whether the referendum will go on or will be called off.

The commission excluded from its morning session all newspaper men, visitors and employes of the commission except the chief engineer, secretary and one or two others; the occasion being a hearing granted to a delegation from Adair County which wanted to know what had become of $750 which had been paid to an employe of the commission in August, 1920, ostensibly as that county's share of the expense of building a proposed garage for motor vehicles sent here by the Federal Government for distribution to the counties.

The payment was asked for and made at the rate of $250 per truck, according to L. L. Mikel, one of the members of Adair County Court.

TWO CHORUS GIRLS WERE 'DETECTIVES' FOR VAN BLARCOM

Plaintiff, in Sanity Hearing, Says He Employed Them Because He Thought They Could 'Deliver the Goods.'

DETAILS OF THEIR JOB NOT DIVULGED

Son of Late Banker, However, Intimates He Desired to Obtain Possession of Some of Father's Papers.

Testimony in the case of Fred Van Blarcom, who is suing for the removal of his guardian on the ground that he is no longer a person of unsound mind, was resumed today before a jury in the Probate Court. The guardian, the St. Louis Union Trust Co., is resisting the proceedings. It contends that Van Blarcom, who is a son of the late Jacob C. Van Blarcom, former president of the Bank of Commerce, is not capable of handling his estate, estimated at $400,000, which he inherited after the death of his mother.

Van Blarcom was questioned yesterday by George H. Williams, counsel for the guardian, in regard to hiring detectives to do secret work. He admitted he had employed two chorus girls for the job, but said he did not prefer them because they were chorus girls, but because he believed they "could deliver the goods." He would have employed them irrespective of their station in life, "whether they were in high society, actresses or scrubwomen," he said. He refused to disclose what mission the private detectives were to perform, but admitted that in the law offices of Boyle & Priest there are some papers belonging to his father's estate he would like to have in his possession.

Memory of Dates Good.

Van Blarcom displayed a good memory for dates and apparently answered questions with knowledge of what he was saying. He was asked if he had not been trying to patent an airplane. "I have worked on a copy of a French Nieuport biplane but have not tried to introduce any novelties into the construction," he answered. Then he gave a mechanical description of the plane. He denied that it was his intention to equip the plane with guns to sink battleships and make it an instrument of warfare. "This is to be an invention for peace," he declared.

Van Blarcom told of being a patient at a sanitarium in St. Louis County several years ago. He said he did not think there was anything mentally wrong with him at the time, all he needed being a rest for his nerves. He had been advised to go there, he said, by a young woman acquaintance who said her brother was a patient in the same place, having gone there to rest his nerves. "I thought it was just a place to rest up," said Van Blarcom, "but the first person I met on my arrival was the young woman's brother, who said: 'Hello, Fred, don't you know me, I am the man who owns the world.' I was there two weeks."

Several physicians and alienists testified that they believed Van Blarcom was mentally sound again.

Testimony of School Teacher.

One of his witnesses was R. E. Valentine, 6215 Columbia avenue, a school teacher, who testified to an "accidental meeting" with Van Blarcom on Nov. 4 last, when their automobiles collided on King's highway. Valentine said Van Blarcom impressed him at the time as a man who was in possession of his faculties. Valentine conceded that the collision was probably his fault. He said he gave Van Blarcom two notes, totaling $75, to cover the damage to the latter's car. "We first went to a repairman, who said he thought it would cost Van Blarcom $175 to repair the car, but Van Blarcom said he would take $75 and call it square," said the witness.

Brother Bernard of the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, who observed Van Blarcom when he was at the hospital and saw him recently, said he thought Van Blarcom had recovered.

Frank P. Thompson of Birmingham, Ala., a former college mate, told of meeting Van Blarcom after several years and having dinner with him and going to the theater with him and had noted, among other things, that he was a careful automobile driver. Asked if he thought Van Blarcom was capable of managing his own affairs, he said some bankers who were supposed to be capable of managing other people's affairs were failing.

Plaintiff's Case Closed.

The plaintiff's counsel introduced the will of Mrs. Mary Van Blarcom, mother of the plaintiff, which gave him the income from the bulk of the estate and provided that if he died without issue it would go to Washington University. An inventory showed that after the payment of the inheritance tax the estate was worth $370,650.

Charles Schoenfeldt, a policeman, testified that Van Blarcom handled himself well in the automobile accident and drove a good bargain in the settlement, inasmuch as Van Blarcom had told him previously that he paid only $60 for his machine.

The plaintiff's case was closed at noon.

Nerve Specialist Testifies.

Dr. Arthur H. Deppe, a specialist in nervous disorders, who treated Van Blarcom at Alexian Brothers' Hospital in 1920, testifying for the defense, gave it as his opinion that Van Blarcom was incurable. He had delusions, the doctor said, and thought himself persecuted. His condition was known as dementia precox and was due to constitutional inferiority.

A delusion, the witness said, was a false belief that could not be corrected by argument or experience. At times the reasoning powers of one so afflicted were good and his delusions could be suppressed. It was probable, he said, that Van Blarcom was doing that now, aware of the disadvantage of permitting them to come to the surface.

From Van Blarcom's history, as given by his mother and others, the witness said, his incapacity developed about 12 years ago, when he left off associating with his intellectual and social equals and took up with inferiors, intellectually and socially.

The witness based his opinion of Van Blarcom's present condition on his knowledge of his trouble. Objection to his testimony on the ground that it related to Van Blarcom's condition more than a year ago was overruled on the ground that he was testifying as an expert.

On cross-examination he admitted that Christopher Columbus was considered crazy because he contended that the world was round and that Columbus considered those who differed with him were crazy.

BELGRADE, Jan. 10.—The engagement of King Alexander to the Princess Marie, second daughter of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania, was announced today.

Princess Marie is 22 years old. She was reported engaged to Alexander, who was then Prince Regent of Jugoslavia, in September, 1920. King Alexander, who is the second son of the late King Peter of Serbia, is in his thirty-first year. He is visiting King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania at their chateau at Sinaia.

DODGE CITY TO GALVESTON REGION HAS A GOOD RAIN

Showers for Southern Missouri Today—First Shower at Arkansas City in Four Months.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—Good showers, measuring in most places more than half an inch, fell last night and today throughout a strip of territory extending as far north as Dodge City, Kas., and south through the cotton belt to Galveston, New Orleans and Corpus Christi, according to reports reaching the local weather bureau this morning.

P. Connor, the forecaster here, predicted the rain would extend into Southern Missouri today.

Light snow fell in some places in the Texas Panhandle. Southwest Texas reported a good general rain.

The rainfall at Arkansas City, Kan., was the first in more than four months, news reports from there said.

LAUDER SPEAKS FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE

Scotch Comedian Also Sings Latest Song at Chamber of Commerce Dinner.

Sir Harry Lauder, Scotch comedian and philosopher, guest of honor at the Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Hotel Statler today, made a happily phrased and epigrammatic speech in favor of international peace between the English-speaking nations, and at the close of his address delighted the diners by singing his newest song, "Singin' Is the Thing."

"The world," he said, "must learn to bring happiness by affection, not hell by affliction. We must learn to help others, but before we can do that we must know how to help ourselves. That is the great lesson. When I am called upon to judge a man I would rather see his bank book than his credentials, for credentials can be faked, but a man's credit at the bank cannot. I see rudderless, water-logged derelicts pass by and I see they have left their efficiency where they left their money.

"Debt, Demon and Villain."

"Efficiency means being out of debt. One of the worst stones around your neck is debt. It is a demon and a villain. Debt incites honest men to do dishonest things.

"Don't worry because you are not well known. There is only one thing that will get you known. That's work—man's best friend. Work and wages make a light heart. Leisure is a good garment to look at, but a poor one to wear.

"The world just now is on the wrong track to happiness. It is seeking it in pleasure, not in work. Contentment comes from work. Life is too short to be spent in nursing animosity. The man who works has no time to envy others and his reward is contentment. I never yet saw a really successful man who limited his hours of labor.

More Friendship Needed.

"Out of work and contentment come friendship. If there had been more friendship before 1914, we wouldn't have had to pass through carnage. The Rotary movement to which I am proud to belong is the golden strand in the cable of friendship. It is an instrument for the unity of the English-speaking world. Hands are stretched across the sea from Britain and from the United States, ready to clasp each other in the everlasting grasp of friendship, but forces, evil and ignorant, are trying to keep them apart.

"When I speak of friendship between the English-speaking nations I want to include France, that sacred country that must belong to the United States and Great Britain. France is not so big as it was before the war. You own a wee bit of it and so do I, and we can never allow that ground to be desecrated. The best blood and bones of the English-speaking people lie there today.

"It must never happen again. They are lying yonder as a wall of defense. For generations to come we can say: 'Our children are safer because these men lived and died.' We must see that the dynasty of force shall never rise again.

"If I were asked to deliver a message to the boys and girls of America I would say: 'War is all wrong. A man don't have to die in the mud like a dog to show that he is brave. Live for a principle and let that principle be the brotherhood of man. Live for the realities of life. The realities are God, work, home and a kindly neighbor over the garden wall.'"

3 KILLED IN FASCISTI CLASH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—In a bloody fight between Fascisti and Communists at Bergiola, near Carrara, Italy, three persons were killed and a dozen badly wounded, says a Times dispatch from Milan.

Carabineers who intervened were fired on by the riflemen of both factions. Wholesale arrests followed.

DEATH PENALTY FOR BURCH IS PLEA OF STATE

BURCH PICTURED TOOL OF SCORNED WOMAN

Pales When Hanging Is Asked For—Flushes When Mrs. Obenchain Is Called "Homebreaker."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 10.—"The extreme penalty"—hanging—was asked of the jury in the murder trial of Arthur J. Burch by Asa Keyes, Assistant District Attorney, who opened the arguments for the State late yesterday and continued them today.

Reviewing the evidence offered by the prosecution, Keyes declared the lives of four people—Burch, Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, his co-defendant, Ralph R. Obenchain, her former husband, and present attorney, and J. Bolton Kennedy, the young broker Burch and Mrs. Obenchain are alleged to have killed—were "involved in the tragedy" which led to the trial.

"When Kennedy was killed," said Keyes, "Mrs. Obenchain had not only Kennedy dancing attendance on her, but Burch and Obenchain also. She made a fool of the man she had sworn to love, honor and obey. She made a murderer of Burch. She made a corpse of the man she had professed to love."

Calls Woman "Home-Breaker."

Madalynne Obenchain broke up the home of Arthur C. Burch, on trial for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, and his infatuation for her caused him to desert his wife, Allie Quayle Burch, and their baby, Keyes also charged.

Picturing Burch as a weakling whom Mrs. Obenchain, co-defendant in the case, knew would do anything she asked, Keyes swung into the most important part of his address to the jurors with a rapid review of the prosecution's evidence which, he said, showed that the two conspired to kill Kennedy.

"Now, let's see about Mrs. Obenchain and Burch," the prosecutor said. "We have evidence to show they were together several years ago at college. We find that Burch visited Mrs. Obenchain's apartments in Evanston and one witness has said he walked into her apartments as if he owned them.

"Taking Groceries There."

"We have seen him taking groceries there, visiting her often. And we know it was about this time that he separated from his wife. I want you to bear that point in mind—it was about May, 1920, that he separated from his wife."

Referring to the motive alleged by the prosecution for the murder, Keyes gave the familiar quotation: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." He said that Burch killed Kennedy because Kennedy spurned the love of Mrs. Obenchain.

"There's only one verdict, if you consider the evidence in this case, and that is—guilty," Keyes said. "There's only one punishment which fits the crime and that's—death."

"There's Only One Penalty."

"If you think him insane, acquit him. If you think him sane and guilty, however, there's but one penalty. The laws of this State declare that a person who lies in wait for his victim and kills him shall be punished by death. There can be no other verdict if you decide he's guilty."

Burch paled perceptibly when Keyes spoke of the death penalty. Then, as the prosecutor referred to Mrs. Obenchain as a "home wrecker," two bright spots of red showed in his cheeks and his eyes glared behind his big spectacles.

Keyes was expected to continue his argument until late in the afternoon. Defense Attorney J. J. Sullivan was prepared to follow Keyes before the jury. Paul W. Schenck, chief of defense counsel, and District Attorney Woolwine will follow Sullivan in turn.

5 WITNESSES SAY THEY SAW OFFICER SHOOT A SOLDIER

TESTIMONY HEARD ON HANGING REPORTS

Col. W. A. Bethel Says Accounts of Executions in France Were Cabled to War Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Testimony that they had been eye-witnesses of the shooting of a soldier by Maj. H. L. Opie of Staunton, Va., while the latter was in France, in 1918, with the 116th Infantry, was given today by five witnesses before the Senate Committee investigating charges of illegal executions in the American expeditionary forces.

The witnesses who testified in turn that they saw the officer shoot a man down were Charles E. Fox of Richmond, Va.; Stonewall Jackson Albin of Kernstown, Va.; James E. Carlton, Richmond, Va.; John R. Leedyzn, Luray, Va., and Dewey D. Hester of Marion, Va.

Fox placed the incident he described as "back of Verdun in 1918," Albin and Hesterr did not give the location of the alleged shooting, and the others agreed that it occurred in "October, 1918."

Charles E. Fox of Richmond, Va., was one of those who testified today before the Senate Committee that he saw Maj. Hieorme L. Opie of Staunton, Va., shoot a soldier in the back north of Verdun in 1918.

"The man shot was wearing the American uniform," said Fox. "I was 150 feet away. As the boy was shot, he threw his hands in the air and toppled over. I do not know if the man died. Sergt. Kane also saw the shooting."

Fox declared the soldier was within six feet of the Major when the shooting took place. That he had approached the officer and was moving off.

"Do you know Opie?" Chairman Brandegee asked.

Much Comment in Company.

"I was positive it was Maj. Opie. There was much talk in the company—Company B, 116th Infantry. The men wondered why the boy had been shot, but they were afraid to ask about it."

"You made no complaint?"

"No sir, I was afraid."

Asked why he did not report the case to Lieut. Maring of Richmond, Fox said:

"That guy would shoot me; he wouldn't take any foolishness."

Fox gave Chairman Brandegee a letter from Maring, written from Casper, Wyo., saying he was "sorry to hear about Maj. Opie."

Fox did not want all the letter read, saying it contained "some rough stuff."

"I am used to rough stuff in this case," the chairman said.

The letter quoted Moring as saying he had heard the soldier was running away and that Opie had a right to shoot, and advised Fox not to say anything about the case "unless you actually saw the shooting," adding that rumors did not stand up in court.

Banging the table Fox shouted that he saw Opie shoot.

"I saw it with my own eyes."

"From Moring's letter he believed that Opie was justified," said the chairman.

"Well, I don't," Fox declared.

Another Man Testifies.

Stonewall Jackson Albin of Kernstown, Va., declared he saw "Maj. Opie shoot an American soldier in cold blood."

"The runner, who was shot," said Albin, "handed the Major a piece of paper which Maj. Opie glanced at. Then the runner turned his back and started to walk away when Maj. Opie shot him. Opie gazed at the fallen man for a few moments and then moved on."

Another witness, James, Carlton, of Richmond, Va., testified that he saw Maj. Opie shoot a soldier on Oct. 9, 1918.

"I saw Maj. Opie seize a rifle and order him to stop," said Carlton. "He shot and a man fell." No other bullets were falling at the time, the witness said, but some shells were dropping.

Complete records in the cases of American soldiers hanged after courtmartial in France were cabled immediately to the War Department, Col. Walter A. Bethel, Assistant Judge Advocate-General in the army, testified today before a Senate committee investigating charges that soldiers were put to death without trial.

Col. Bethel had been pressed by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, whose charges in the Senate led to the appointment of the committee, as to why no reports of legal executions were made public until long after the armistice.

Names Sent to Department.

"We sent the department the name of the man hanged, the fact of the execution and the offense," said Col. Bethel. "I do not know how soon the department made the facts public."

been carrying it in a sling. The only evidence of a possible struggle was that when Richwine's body was found his arm was not in the sling.

From the basement the policemen went upstairs, where they found Mrs. Richwine's body. It lay on its back with the hands folded over the chest. Lying across the face was a towel. This had not been used as a gag and no odor as of chloroform or other anesthetic could be noted.

In contrast with the basement, where everything was in its place, the upper floor had been ransacked. Clothing had been taken from closets and scattered about the room. Mrs. Richwine's housedress was on a bed in a room adjoining the one in which she was found. Her fur coat had been taken from a closet and thrown into the bathroom. In a pocket of this coat was found all of Mrs. Richwine's jewelry, valued by her husband at about $500.

The husband was called from his barber shop and hurried home after the bodies were found. He said his wife and his father were cheerful and on good terms when he left home yesterday morning.

Husband at Shop All Day.

Richwine said he was at his shop all day yesterday, except from 12:30 to 1 p. m., when he took lunch in a restaurant adjoining the shop. The police said they verified this statement.

Mrs. Richwine was Richwine's third wife and he was her second husband. She obtained a divorce in 1915 from Earle Recklein, an automobile salesman, now living at 587 North Twentieth street, East St. Louis. Custody of their son, Earle, was awarded to her. She and Richwine were married Feb. 22 last. Recklein remarried and his second wife obtained a divorce about a month ago. Of this union there is a son, Earle, 2 years old.

$754,000 WAS MISAPPROPRIATED BY MEININGER

age of A. O. Meininger, missing cashier of the Night and Day Bank. I was not in a position to substantiate the exact shortage until this morning, when I learned that the defalcation of Mr. Meininger, which was carried as cash items, amounted to $754,000.

I feel that the public, especially the depositors, are entitled to know the exact status, and it is for this reason that I am making public the figure I have; and it is this information I am going to present to the grand jury.

As to the safe deposit boxes, I want to say to the public that I am informed by the man in charge of the said boxes that the contents are intact and have not been tampered with.

Sidener said he learned, by personal examination, that $754,000 was misappropriated from the bank, and that formal acknowledgment was made, by cash slips of about $175,000, while the rest was taken without any formal acknowledgment. As has been stated, the bank examiners have obtained collateral to cover a part of the $175,000 taken out on cash slips. The custom of removing cash, temporarily and leaving cash slips in its place is used, to a limited extent, in legitimate banking.

Hughes Makes No Estimate.

J. G. Hughes, State Commissioner of Finance, who is in Jefferson City, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the nature of the situation in the Night and Day Bank was such that he would not undertake to make an estimate of what the final loss to the stockholders and depositors would be.

He said additional collateral, consisting of a variety of securities, had been obtained to secure part of the misappropriations of Meininger, but that the value of some of these securities was doubtful.

He gave the impression that no one could make with any degree of accuracy, at this time, a reasonable estimate of the loss incurred.

One of those who borrowed money from the bank, through Meininger, on promissory notes, was Meyer Katz of 6954 Alamo avenue, president of the Banco Transportation Co., Central National Bank Building. He said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he had borrowed $35,000, through Meininger, from the bank, and had given promissory notes, and that the money was used in his business. He said Meininger was not financially interested in his company.

It has been found, by those looking into the bank's affairs, that there have been several times recently when it did not have $100,000 cash on hand and that at one time the cash on hand was little more than $25,000.

Missing Cashier Carried $50,000 in Life Insurance.

Insurance policies on the life of Cashier Meininger to the amount of $50,000 have been found among the papers left by Meininger in St. Louis, it was learned today.

Policies to the amount of $10,000 are in favor of Meininger's mother, who lives at 7368 Hazel avenue, Maplewood, and the rest are in favor of Meininger's estate. The policies are now being held among the bank's assets, while the search for Meininger is being carried on throughout the United States and Mexico.

A man said to resemble the description and photograph of Meininger was seen in Valley Park, St. Louis County, Friday evening, arriving there on Frisco train No. 4 from the Southwest, about 8:30 p. m. He inquired for the proprietor of the local moving picture theater, saying he wished to see him on business. He was told that the man lived in St. Louis, and he then said he would go to the city and try to find him, but added that he might stop in Kirkwood. He asked for someone to drive him to the street car at Meramec Highlands, and Glenn Jones, City Attorney, and James O'Brien, Town Marshal, drove him the distance of four miles in Jones' car.

Resembled Cashier's Description.

The theater proprietor says no one like the person described has called on him. William Young, proprietor of a soft drink saloon at Valley Park, who talked with the man, says he resembled Meininger's description and picture closely.

As the fact of the bank's closing and Meininger's flight was published Friday, Meininger would have been taking a big chance of recognition if he had ridden on the car from Meramec Highlands, which runs through Maplewood on its way into the city.

Previous reports as to Meininger's movements have been based on the belief he took an afternoon train from St. Charles Thursday, for Kansas City, after abandoning his automobile in St. Charles. He could have gone to Kansas City, and could then have taken a night train from Kansas City to Springfield, where he could have taken the train arriving at Valley Park Friday night.

Depositor Willing to Take Whisky for $400 He Had in Bank.

Comparatively few of the Night and Day Bank's 15,000 depositors have made a show of embarrassment at the tying up of their accounts in the investigation of that institution's affairs by State Bank Examiners, but many persons who have safety deposit boxes have clamored for admission to their property.

One depositor, who said he had a savings account amounting to about $400, wrote that since he has learned that the missing cashier was thought to have had dealings with bootleggers, he would as soon take whisky for his money.

Another depositor, a tailor, with a little pressing establishment downtown, paced back and forth in front of the bank for nearly half an hour this morning repeating to himself that the rent on his store was due and that the landlord doubted that he had money in the Night and Day Bank. "And the worst of it is I can't prove it to my landlord," the tailor explained, "because I left my bank book here a few days before the bank closed to have it balanced."

A woman of middle age with a parcel under her arm said she desired private conversation with one of the bank examiners. She was referred to Roy Nieman, and unwrapped a ouija board from the package, informing Nieman that she had been sent by God. She set up the ouiji board on a check counter and began to work it, stating that her "control" wished to inform the examiners that the missing cashier was dead. She was thanked for the information and left the bank, apparently quite satisfied with the success of her mission.

ST. LOUISAN HELD FOR HOUSTON MURDER

Clyde E. Brown, Who Shot Former Husband of Divorced Wife, Denied Bail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 10.—Clyde E. Brown, St. Louis sign painter, is held without bail, following an examining trial held before Justice J. M. Ray late yesterday, for the fatal shooting of Ed Englefeild of Houston. Englefield was killed here on the night of Jan. 2 as he sat in a closed sedan parked in front of a downtown garage.

Brown and Englefield were both former husbands of June Allen Englefield, over whom the shooting occurred. Brown, who has since remarried, had come to Houston New Year's day to visit his two children by his former marriage.

According to Mrs. Englefield's testimony Englefield became jealous of Brown and objected to her meeting him upon his arrival at the station. He threatened to kill Brown.

"Ed told me if I went to the station to meet Clyde he would kill me," Mrs. Engelfield testified. "Ed said, 'I'll beat your head off and don't you dare to kiss him.' On the way Ed asked if Clyde knew we were divorced. When I answered yes he said, 'I don't see what you let him know for; it's none of his business.'"

Brown was met at the station by both Englefield and his former wife. The trio, together with the two children, dined together in town on the night of the shooting. Brown was seated on the back seat of the sedan with his children when the tragedy occurred.

Engelfield had driven up to a garage and was handed a pistol wrapped in a newspaper. He turned around in the front seat when Brown fired, the bullet entering Englefield's head.

Mrs. Englefield collapsed on the witness stand after finishing her story.

Brown's wife arrived from St. Louis Friday. She and Mrs. Englefield were on friendly terms. Brown has a daughter by his second marriage.

Brown is a member of the firm of the Crescent Sign System, 202A North Sixth street, and resided here at 4257A Penrose street.

2 SIBERIAN GIRLS ARE AMUNDSEN'S PROTEGES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, South Pole discoverer and first navigator of the Northwest Passage, has been in New York many times as guest of geographical and scientific societies, but last night he arrived in a new role—that of escort to two little Siberian girls whom he is sending to Norway to be educated.

The children are Camilla Carpendale, 12 years old, daughter of an Australian trader and a native woman, and Cakunita, 5, who has no other name because she is a full-blooded Tsjuktsi, and they do not bother with family names. Neither child speaks English.

With them, to mother them on the trip, came Mrs. Oscar Wisting, wife of the captain of the Maud, Amundsen's ship, which is being repaired in Seattle for a third trip to drift across the Arctic Ocean.

"I found Camilla at East Cape, on the northern coast of Siberia, near where we wintered last year," explained Amundsen.

Exceptionally Bright.

"She is an exceptionally bright child, and it seemed to me she ought to have a better chance. Little Cakunita I found about 100 miles farther along the coast. Her mother was dead and her father seemed glad to get rid of her. Cakunita will remain in Norway permanently. I have not legally adopted either of the children. Camilla probably will stay in Norway five years or so and then return to her parents.

"The Tsjuktsis are not Eskimos," Capt. Amundsen continued. "They are an entirely different race and cannot understand a word of Eskimo. Camilla and Cakunita were excited greatly when we got down to Nome, which was civilization to them, but they said nothing. They are changing wonderfully in that respect, however. The ordinary Tsjuktsi child would have shrunk into a corner in the railroad train on the trip from Seattle and said nothing all the way; but Cakunita ran around, made friends, sang and howled and had the whole car stirred up, just like any American baby."

Camilla Is Pretty.

Camilla is pretty, with straight, black robbed hair, red cheeks and bright eyes. Cakunita's face is of a decidedly Japanese cast.

"The weather is too warm for them," said Dr. Amuudsen. "They had colds as soon as they came out of the Arctic."

Amundsen will stay in New York until the steamship Stavangerfjord of the Norwegian-American Line sails for Christiania with the children aboard. With them will go Mrs. Wisting and F. P. Gade, Norwegian Minister to Brazil, who is returning on official business. Then Amundsen will go to Washington in connection with his next assault on the polar ice. He expects to leave Seattle during June, outfitted for a five-years' drift to study currents, magnetic forces and other scientific problems. Twice before he has started, only to be caught by the ice and pushed against the Siberian coast.

ALOE TELLS ADVERTISING CLUB OF IMPROVEMENTS CITY NEEDS

Louis P. Aloe, president of the Board of Aldermen, addressed the Advertising Club of St. Louis at luncheon today at Hotel Statler, detailing the various public improvements which he believes it necessary to undertake without delay to provide for the future growth of the city. Most of these projects were described fully in the Post-Dispatch's recent survey of needed municipal improvements.

In addition to the projects described in the survey, however, he suggested that a new passenger station should be built near Twelfth and Market streets to care for suburban trains exclusively, that an interurban loop should be constructed encircling the business district, and that parking space should be provided downtown for approximately 20,000 automobiles.

Among the other projects he mentioned were the major street plan, additional parks and playgrounds, new sewers, a supplementary waterworks and a civic building as a memorial to St. Louisans killed in the war.

"Babe" Ruth, the baseball player of homerun fame, also spoke briefly.

LONG PAYS TRIBUTE TO JACKSON

Senatorial Candidate Speaks at Dinner at Woman's Club.

A Jackson day dinner was given last night at the St. Louis Woman's Club by the Tennessee Society of St. Louis. Breckinridge Long, former Third Assistant Secretary of State, and present candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senatorship, was the principal speaker. The 107th anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, commonly celebrated as Jackson day, fell on Sunday.

M. E. Holderness, president of the society, presided, and Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Church, pronounced the invocation. Long, in his eulogy of Andrew Jackson, said that the use of an economic blockade, as a substitute for armed conflict, was advocated by Jackson in his foreign policy, when he suggested an embargo against France. He told of the early enmity and the later friendship of Jackson and Thomas H. Benton.

"LIES," — "DAMNED LIES," and — "STATISTICS." COMPETITORS (not all, but a few) many moons ago predicted that REMLEY could not last cutting the prices to such an outlandish degree. They had the "statistics" to prove it; mind you. What do you think of that? Can't help but again refer to what Old Mark said about the "statistic dope." Do you get the angle?

OUR BEAUTY PARLOR
The determined and persistent effort of the Remley Store to make it possible for the wage earner to enjoy some of the pleasures and luxuries such as Mrs. and Miss Millionaire enjoy. Our Beauty Parlor is equipped and fitted with everything modern, including skilled operators, and gives the lady or girl in humble circumstances and small salary an opportunity to make herself presentable and correct any little face blemish which may have been, or still is, a constant source of embarrassment. They say that "beauty is only skin deep." Well, anyway, it covers a multitude of other "Nature slights." Pay a visit to our Parlor, where you will find the capable Madam Kemper, who will, free of charge, advise you. You'll find her real authority. Below appears a few price comparisons:

PELLETIER ACCUSED OF PROTECTING THIEVES

Boston District Attorney Charged in Court With Connection With Auto Robbers' Coterie.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—The charge that District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier was a member of a confederacy organized to protect a coterie of auto thieves, was made yesterday in the Supreme Court by Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, who is seeking Pelletier's removal. The accusation came during the presentation of evidence concerning the charge that Pellitier had improperly neglected to prosecute George T. Perry, for alleged automobile thefts—the fourteenth of 60 charges to be reached in the trial, now in its third week.

The Perry case was reached after the State had concluded the Emerson Motors case with the evidence of the records of Pelletier's bank account showing a deposit of $5000 in bills subsequent to the withdrawal of the same amount by Daniel H. Oakley, an attorney, who had received a $15,500 fee for "averting prosecution" of the Emerson company in connection with its sale of stock in Boston.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, senior counsel for Pelletier, resisted efforts of the prosecution to introduce the bank records, declaring "any man who has a bank account might be convicted by similar influential testimony." The Court permitted the testimony to stand on the Attorney-General's promise to connect the transactions.

During an argument over the request by Senator Reed that Robert P. Mathes, who had testified that he had been informed that "Pelletier was to get $5000 of the $20,500 fee paid by the Emerson company to "avoid prosecution" be held here until the end of the trial, the Court informed Senator Reed that it did not consider his attitude justifiable.

The incident ended with a statement by Senator Reed that he had misunderstood a ruling by the Court. The Court then directed that Mathes appear on Wednesday for cross-examination.

HAYS OPPOSED TO LEGISLATION AGAINST PRINTING RACE NEWS

Postmaster-General Says Bill Had Better Be Lost Than Curtail Freedom of Press.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Postmaster-General Hays in a letter to Chairman Nelson of the Senate Judiciary Committee has expressed opposition to making it an offense for newspapers to publish racing news. He urged that a section to this effect be stricken from the bill recently passed by the House and sent to the Senate which would prevent, among other things, the transportation of lottery and cheating devices through the mails. The Senate Judiciary Committee is about to begin consideration of the bill.

In his letter today Postmaster-General Hays declared that a ban on lottery and cheating devices "was desirable."

"The whole bill had better be defeated in my opinion," he said "than to add this additional curtailment of the freedom of the press."

FORMER RUSSIAN RED ARMY CHIEF TO HEAD SECRET SERVICE

By the Associated Press.

RIGA, Jan. 10.—Ensign Nikolai Vassiliovitch Krylenko, soldier, sailor and lawyer, who commanded the Russian Red army immediately after the revolution in November, 1917, has been appointed president of the supreme revolutionary tribunal of Russia, which is to take over most of the work of the secret service organization in soviet Russia.

Krylenko for a long time has worked with the purpose of curtailing the powers of the secret service organization.

JUST THE THING FOR A SORE THROAT

WHAT you call "just a sore throat" may in a few days turn out to be something much more serious. With every breath you inhale infectious germs, and the soft tissues of the throat form an ideal soil for their growth and spread, possibly resulting in laryngitis, tonsillitis, influenza.

Always have handy the convenient-to-take, pleasant tasting, yet powerfully antiseptic Formamint Tablets. Dissolve one in the mouth now and then, slowly, freeing an efficient antiseptic that mixes with the saliva, and continuously bathes the infected membranes, checking germ life. Children like them. Relieves hoarseness.

PALESTINE FUND NOT TO BE SOLICITED NOW

Campaign Delayed in Order Not to Conflict With Central European Relief Work.

The campaign for the $200,000 St. Louis quota for the Palestine Foundation Fund, which was to have started yesterday, was postponed in order not to interfere with the drive for funds for the relief in Central Europe. The decision followed a conference between local committees of the Jewish Relief Committee and the Palestine Foundation Fund. It is expected that following the relief campaign, which will begin Monday and continue a week, the plans for the Palestine Foundation again will be taken up and carried out.

The action locally, it is announced, will be followed by similar actions in the entire zone, consisting of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, where the interests of the relief drive and the Palestine Fund conflict.

Through an agreement between the soviet authorities and the Hoover Commission, the Joint Distribution Committee will now accept remittances for which the people of America can have food delivered directly to their friends and kin or to specially designated groups in Russia. Warehouses have been established at Petrograd, Moscow, Odessa, Saratov, Kiev and other important centers, and deliveries will be made from stocks of flour, vegetable oils, tea, canned milk, hominy, sugar, cocoa, rice and beans stored at those warehouses. Remittances of more than $50 to individuals or more than $500 to organizations are interdicted by the soviet agreement. The remitter will be advised that the gift has been received.

FUGITIVE, AFTER TWO YEARS, LEARNS HE DIDN'T KILL WIFE

Disclosure Follows "Confession" Made eBcause He Had Feeling of Being Pursued.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Jan. 10.—After living the life of a fugitive from justice for two and a half years and finally confessing a murder, Frank H. Gatherell, private U. S. A., learned today that the wife he thought he had slain was seen alive four months after the supposed fatal event, and that there is no charge against him. The shot he thought killed her had missed its mark.

Gatherell surrendered last Thursday, declaring he had killed his wife in July, 1919, in New York, believing she had been faithless while he was absent overseas. He fled, joined the army and later was transferred here. The feeling that he was being pursued caused him to surrender. A cablegram today from New York said Mrs. Gatherell was seen alive in November, 1919.

$250,000 Fire in Pittsburg.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 10.—Fire which swept the Eichbaum Building in the Fifth avenue retail district today caused damage estimated at $250,000. For two hours after the firemen responded to a general alarm they were unable to enter the building, being driven back again and again by great volumes of dense smoke, which rolled from the floors occupied by a 5 and 10 cent store. The flames finally were brought under control.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps many people to quickly feel the benefit ... Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

MAN DISCHARGED BY SELPH IS REINSTATED

Frank S. Krebs of 3449 Wyoming street, who had been an employe of the Postoffice for 25 years prior to his removal five years ago under charges preferred by Postmaster Selph, received a telegram from Representative Newton last night that he had been reinstated.

Krebs formerly was assistant superintendent of mails at $2100 a year. He was demoted by Selph, his pay reduced to $1700, and subsequently he was discharged. His reinstatement is to a grade paying $2100 a year. He is the fifth Postoffice employe discharged by Selph who has been recently reinstated. The cases of many others are being reviewed by the Postoffice Department. Krebs served in the Spanish-American War. Veterans of wars of the United States are given preferential treatment in the Civil Service.

Krebs was one of the organizers of the Postal Reform Association, comprising former employes of the Postoffice, who sought and obtained an investigation of Selph's conduct in office. A report of inspectors assigned to the investigation was made public last Saturday. It recommended the removal of Selph. His term will expire next Tuesday.

Krebs said today that 1300 men had left the postal service during Selph's tenure of eight years. Of these, he said, 300 had been discharged under charges by Selph.

BIDS FOR CONCRETE ROAD OPEN

Lowest Figure for Two-Mile Stretch in County Is $80,224.

Bids for the construction by St. Louis County of a 21-foot concrete roadway on the Olive Street road for two miles in University City were opened today by the County Court. Bids for the laying of nine and one-half feet of concrete on each side of this roadway, bringing it up to the full 40-foot width, will be opened by University City tonight.

The lowest bid for the work, submitted to the County Court by the Mississippi Valley Construction Co. of St. Louis, was $80,224.45, more than $15,000 lower than the County Engineer's estimate. The roadway will extend from the St. Louis city limits, just west of the Wabash tracks, two miles west to a point 400 feet west of Hanley road.

CHIROPRACTOR ARRESTED AFTER PATIENT, 81, DIES

Death From Cancer Without Medical Attention Is Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

George McC. Nelson, 1415 Carr Lane avenue, a medical student and a chiropractor, was arrested after he had testified at a Coroner's inquest today that he treated Mrs. Verona Coon, 81 years old, a widow, of 3678A Folsom avenue, who died last Friday. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was that Mrs. Coon died from cancer of the stomach without medical attention.

The death certificate was signed by Dr. Fred W. Teiber of 1170 North King's highway, who gave nephritis as the cause of death. Dr. Teiber testified that he was called to Nelson's office at 1501A South Grand avenue Dec. 15 to see Mrs. Coon. He said he diagnosed her ailment as nephritis, but did not prescribe for her and had not seen her since. He said he was an assistant instructor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons and that Nelson was one of his medical students.

Nelson testified that he treated Mrs. Coon as a chiropractor and charged $2 a visit. He said he did not diagnose her ailment and did not know she was suffering from cancer. The practice of chiropractic is not licensed in Missouri and recently a number of chiropractors have been fined for practicing medicine without a license. The Coroner said he would report Dr. Teiber to the State Board of Health for issuing a death certificate although the last time he saw the patient was three weeks before her death.

AUTO FATALITY AN ACCIDENT

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of Samuel Levitt, 70 years old, of 520 Poplar street, who was knocked down Dec. 2 at Eleventh and Olive streets by an automobile driven by John W. Estes, 5808 Maple avenue, general manager for the Aetna Life Insurance Co. in St. Louis. Levitt was taken to the city hospital, where he died Jan. 8 from injuries about the head and a broken breast bone.

R. R. Gallagher, a chauffeur, who picked up Levitt, testified that Levitt had walked in front of Estes' machine, which was being driven at about 10 miles an hour.

OLD CARDINAL PARK MAY BE SCHOOL SITE

Petition to Vacate Streets Recently Laid Out There Discloses Negotiations.

A plan of the Board of Education to acquire a part of the old Cardinals' baseball park, on Natural Bridge avenue east of Vandeventer avenue, as the site for a new high school, to cost $1,500,000, was made known through a petition filed today with the Board of Public Service, that the streets and alleys which have been tentatively laid out through the grounds, but which have not been constructed, should be vacated.

Director Fisk of the Department of Streets and Sewers said he would recommend that the Board of Public Service grant the request.

Part Sold to U. R.

James C. Jones, chairman of the board of the St. Louis National League Baseball Club, presented the request. He said the northwest corner of the former baseball park, which is the southeast corner of Natural Bridge and Vandeventer, had been sold to the United Railways Co., for a distance of 225 feet on Vandeventer and 105 1-3 feet on Natural Bridge. He said the Board of Education planned to purchase a frontage of 700 feet on Natural Bridge and 612 feet on Prairie avenue, and that its plans were for building about 400 by 800 feet.

John C. Tobin, president of the Board of Education, and Charles P. Mason, secretary of the Board, talked with Director Fisk yesterday about the plan.

Another High School Nearby.

It was stated at the Board of Education headquarters, in reply to inquiries, that the proposed high school would be a senior high school, of about the size of the Grover Cleveland High School, and that future plans for the Yeatman High School, which is at Natural Bridge and Garrison avenues, four blocks east of the proposed site, have not been determined. The board has previously considered sites further west for this new high school, and at one time a deal was entered into for a site at King's highway and San Francisco avenue, but this plan was reconsidered.

DR. EGGERS LOSES CLAIM FOR $14,627 IN FEES FROM COUNTY

Case Decided Against Deputy State Health Commissioner in Circuit Court.

The suit of Dr. G. C. Eggers, Deputy State Health Commissioner for St. Louis County, for the payment by the county of $14,627.02 in fees and expenses for health work in 1920, and penses for health work in 1920, appealed from the County Court, was decided against Eggers by Circuit Judge G. A. Wurdeman of St. Louis County today.

Dr. Eggers appealed from the decision of the County Court when it refused to pay him more than $10,000 on his four bills totaling $24,627.02 because it held that a State law provided that salaries or fees of county officers should not exceed $10,000. Dr. Eggers said he was a State officer and not subject to this law. The County Court held that if the county paid him, he was a county officer.

Dr. Eggers maintained he needed two assistants to help him in his work. One of these assistants was his wife, who is also a physician. He also charged for the upkeep of three automobiles, all of which he owned.

DRIVER, WHOSE AUTO KILLED MAN LAST MAY, FINED $100

George J. Peer Pleaded Guilty Dec. 23 to Charge of Manslaughter in Causing Charles Melville's Death.

It was disclosed yesterday that George J. Peer of 3840A Louisiana avenue, whose trial on a charge of manslaughter with an automobile, was set for yesterday in Judge Hall's division of the Circuit Court, had entered a plea of guilty, Dec. 23, and had been fined $100 on the recommendation of Assistant Circuit Attorney Garstang.

Peer's automobile ran down and killed Charles Melville, 61 years old, of 8415 Hall's Ferry road, May 28 last, at Taylor avenue and North Broadway. Mrs. Melville was knocked down and seriously injured. Peer was being chased as a speeder by officers at the time. Assistant Circuit Attorney Garstang said he recommended the fine of $100 because there was no evidence of criminal intent on the part of Peer.

Eggs at Wholesale Down 5 Cents.

The wholesale price of first candled eggs on the St. Louis market, which was 36 cents a dozen last Saturday, was 28 cents today. The price declined 5 cents today and 3 cents yesterday. Commission men attribute the decline to mild weather and large receipts.

Negro With Bundle of Silk Seized.

A negro carrying four bolts of silk was stopped by a policeman near Ninth and Morgan streets, yesterday and admitted having, with another negro, taken the silk from the Supreme Waist Co., 905 Washington avenue. The silk was valued at $230. The negro admitted that he and two other negroes, July 30 last, had taken from the Friedman & Sons Cloak and Suit Co., 1335 Washington avenue, articles valued at $360. He took the police to a store on Franklin avenue, where he said most of the goods had been sold. While there another negro looked in at the window and was arrested.

Thomas P. Egan, Manufacturer, Dies

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10.—Thomas P. Egan, 74, president of the J. A. Fay and Egan & Co., died at a hospital here early yesterday. Egan was widely known as a manufacturer of woodworking machinery. He organized and was first president of the American Association of Manufacturers and was formerly president of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

Tells Woermann He Will Find Machine in County—Man and Wife Walk Mile to a Car Line.

As Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Woermann of 7 Arundel place in Hillcrest were departing at 11 o'clock last night from the home of a friend in the 6800 block on Clemens avenue, a man who had secreted himself in the tonneau of his touring car rose and, at the point of a pistol, compelled a drive into St. Louis County, at the end of which he robbed Woermann of $25 and departed in his automobile. He gave Woermann 25 cents for carfare and Mr. and Mrs. Woermann walked about one mile to the Kirkwood street car line.

Woermann is president and treasurer of the Woermann Construction Co., 1445 Syndicate Trust Building. In relating the robbery to the police, Woermann said that the robber himself guided the car most of the distance into the county with his left hand on the wheel and his right holding the pistol into his side. Woermann performed the gear shifting.

Account of Robbery.

Woermann's account, as recorded by the police, was as follows:

Mrs. Woermann seated herself in the front seat of the five-passenger automobile as they were leaving the Clemens avenue address. They had gone only a short distance when the robber, a young man, appeared in the tonneau, shoving a pistol under Woermann's arm into his right side.

"Beg pardon," he said, "just keep driving and go where I tell you."

"Where?" Woermann asked.

"Just keep driving where you intended to go," the robber replied.

Woermann, accordingly, kept driving towards his home. On the way, the young man explained that he was a former service man, that he had been out of work 10 months and that he was discouraged. "You'd do it, too," he said to Woermann.

The automobile had proceeded on Skinker road to an alley near Arundel place, which leads to the rear of Woermann's home. Woermann turned to go into the alley.

"Don't go in there," the robber said. Woermann called loudly, thinking to attract someone's attention. The robber jabbed the pistol hard into his side. "Don't do that," he cauntioned.

Ordered to Drive Into County.

Woermann was ordered to turn around and drove back over Skinker road to Forsythe boulevard, west through Clayton to the North and South road, north to Delmar boulevard, east to the Hanley road and about one-fourth of a mile north or south on the Hanley road, where he was halted by the robber.

Woermann early on the drive complained that the pistol made him nervous, whereupon the robber took a place in the front seat and guided the car, while Woermann worked the gears.

When the stop on Hanley road was made, the robber compelled Mr. and Mrs. Woermann to alight and searched Woermann. He returned a tie pin, a Masonic ring and a watch and chain to Woermann upon Woermann's stating that they were keepsakes, but pocketed a billbook containing about $25.

Won't Take Wedding Ring.

He then asked Mrs. Woermann what she had. "Only a wedding ring," Mrs. Woermann replied. The robber said he did not want that.

The robber then entered the car, after giving Woermann 25 cents for street car fare. "You'll find your car in the morning," he said. "I am not going to steal it. I am only taking it for my own protection."

In response to an inquiry as to where he would find the car, the robber told Woermann "On Olive street."

Woermann, after walking to the street car line with his wife, obtained another automobile at his home and, with a policeman, went on a search for the robber and the other car, but did not find either.

Saloon Proprietor and Customers Robbed by Two Men.

Two armed men robbed Samuel Sedovic, proprietor of a saloon at 1871 South Eleventh street, and three customers last night of a total of $42.45 and a watch. One of the robbers carried two revolvers, but the other had one. The man with two revolvers said to his companion: "Now, brother, search 'em, and search 'em right; make the register first." The other robber took $40 from the cash register, $1.50 from Sedovic's pocket, a watch from one customer, 95 cents from another and $1.50 from a third. The money of this third customer was all in small coins, so the robbers returned it, calling it "chicken feed." Two other customers were searched, but had no money. The robbers disappeared.

Three men, two of whom had revolvers, held up Gus Buselaki, his brother, Otto Buselaki, and a helper, Milton Berger, in Gus Buselaki's gasoline station at Twentieth street and Washington avenue, and took $56.50 from the cash register.

Mrs. Bert H. Johnson of 724 Belt avenue, shopping downtown yesterday afternoon, was robbed of $66 and a $5 gift certificate by a pickpocket, who got the money and certificate from a purse inside Mrs. Johnson's handbag.

LANDSLIDE IN SICILY DESTROYS CATHEDRAL AND DWELLINGS

San Fratello Citizens Quit Path of Slides Caused by Recent Rains.

By the Associated Press.

MESSINA, Sicily, Jan. 10.—A tremendous landslide yesterday destroyed the Cathedral, the postoffice and many dwellings in the town of San Fratello. The entire population fled to the country. The slides are continuing and much damage is being done to the remaining buildings. No deaths have been reported.

Communication with San Fratello is interrupted. Relief parties have been sent to the scene. The landslides are due to recent heavy rainfalls.

NURSES TESTIFY MILLIONAIRE COULD NOT COMPREHEND WILL

Evidence in $40,000,000 Contest Shows W. P. Snyder Was Ill When Document Was Drawn.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—Heirs seeking to break the will of the late William Penn Snyder, which involves an estate valued at $40,000,000, introduced witnesses in Orphans' Court yesterday, who testified that at the time the will was made, Snyder was not possessed of testamentary capacity.

Half a dozen witnesses, including nurses who had attended Snyder, said at the time the will was executed he was seriously ill and declared it was their opinion he could not comprehend its provisions.

Under the terms of the will Snyder, who founded the Shenango Furnace Co., and once was one of the best known pig iron manufacturers in the country, placed his affairs in the hands of five trustees, who were to pay his widow and two children such proportion of the profits as they saw fit.

Mrs. Snyder last week decided to take her dower right under the law, while her daughter, Mrs. Mary Snyder Drew, instituted proceedings to break the will. William Penn Snyder Jr., has filed a petition asking that his sister's petition be dismissed.

CONSTABLE NOTIFIED HE MUST DISPROVE CHARGES OR RESIGN

Leonard Huebner of Carondelet District Accused of Taking Part in Brawls at Roadhouses.

Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County today confirmed reports that he had notified Constable Leonard Huebner of Carondelet Township that he must either disprove certain charges against him or resign, or the Prosecuting Attorney would institute ouster proceedings against him.

Complaints had been made that Constable Huebner, who conducts a bakery at 9421 South Broadway, Luxemburg, had been seen in what was said to be an intoxicated condition around several roadhouses on various occasions, and that he had been seen offering to fight anyone who would challenge him, several times. Once, it was complained, he laid aside his revolver and entered a brawl with a man in a saloon. As the Constable was getting the worst of it, a freind snapped the revolver twice at the other fighter's head. The fight stopped and then Huebner fired twice into the saloon floor.

Constable Huebner was asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter today for an explanation of the charges. "There's nothing to them," he replied. He was selected by the Republican County Committee as Republican candidate for the November, 1920, election, after the man nominated at the August primary had resigned his candidacy.

Brother Frank Did His Best—

BUT his best was not sufficient. He was not an accountant. He had little or no experience in investments. He had never before served as an executor of an estate. Of course, he was in the family and no one thought of criticising his management.

If a responsible national bank like the National Bank of Commerce had been appointed co-executor with "Brother Frank," the shortcomings and losses to the estate because of lack of experience, and the embarrassments because of kinship would have been obviated.

"Brother Frank" could still have brought to the management of the estate his personal knowledge of family affairs, the national bank supplying the vital factors of executorship—RESPONSIBILITY.

News of the Business World

By Wire to the Post-Dispatch

NORTHWEST IS HOPEFUL.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 10.—The aid now being furnished the agriculturalists of the Northwest through credit supplied by the banks of the Twin Cities and Federal agencies, is gradually increasing the buying power of the farmer and as a consequence of that improvement noted this week, financiers predict a steady increase in practically all lines of business for the next two months. Business in St. Paul and Minneapolis is good, despite the post-holiday slump. Retail trade is active and is responding satisfactorily to the stimulus of pre-inventory and white goods sales.

Wholesalers and jobbers are filling some orders for immediate shipment and spring prospects are declared to be good. Their salesmen will go on the road within the next fortnight. Boot and shoe makers are receiving a fair mail order trade and the demand for harness is far better than it was a year ago. Hardware sales have not fallen off from recent weeks, but the volume of trade is from 30 to 40 per cent under that of a year ago.

Fifteen hundred men will find employment as soon as the weather turns cold again. The annual ice harvest has been interrupted by a week of warm weather and that number were temporarily laid off. The return to work of 1000 clerks of the Great Northern Railroad and 500 of the Minneapolis & St. Louis has aided the employment situation.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 10.—The Erie Railroad has invited about 100 of its shop employes to return to work here provided they consent to open-shop conditions and a 10-per-cent reduction in wages.

ST. PAUL.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 10.—The banks of St. Paul now have on deposit $135,000,000, a gain of $5,000,000 from a year ago, while the total deposits of the Minnesota banks aggregate $700,000,000. Minneapolis savings banks ended the calendar year with deposits totaling $48,972,736, a gain of $1,000,000 in the last year, while the total Minneapolis deposits exceeded $225,000,000. The St. Paul Federal Land Bank now has loans outstanding exceeding $55,000,000.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 10.—Owing to the almost total cessation of outdoor work except in the lumber camps, the unemployment problem in Canada will be a serious one during the next 10 weeks. This condition, coupled with the lack of buying power by the farmers, is taken by merchants to foreshadow three months of dull business until spring brings a renewal of constructive work.

EASTERNERS DISCOUNT BILLS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Many merchants in this section are discounting their bills, but an even more hopeful sign is that they are discounting the effects of the liquidation of some of the smaller and weaker concerns. It has been recognized that some of the houses which had been doing business on an unstable basis and were unable therefore, to meet the present keen competition, would have to be weeded out at this time, but business in general is not unsettled on this account as it is recognized that basic conditions are sound and improving.

Advertising men here declare that canvass of their clients in widely different lines shows that business has taken an upward trend and that the response to advertising has increased as much as 200 per cent in some instances within the last two months. The cotton goods trade is gradually gaining in volume after the holiday period of quiet, although prices have softened in the last few days. The woolen markets are awaiting the new price lists and showings for 1922 goods by the leading interests.

Builders' hardware, light fixtures and house furnishings are fairly active and plate and window glass are in good demand.

STEEL TRADE EXPANDS.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—Steel plants have begun to expand again in this district after the contraction of production around the first of the year. Steel production is on a larger scale, both in the Monongahela and Allegheny Valleys. The Pittsburg Steel Co. has resumed operations at Monessen and the Allegheny Steel Co. has increased production at its Tarentum plants.

A canvass of the busines firms here today showed an almost unanimous opinion that trade will gradually expand during the present year. Retail lumbers dealers report almost unprecedented activity in the Pittsburg district. One builder is starting work on 88 dwellings.

The November and December oil production in Pennsylvania was considerably in excess of consumption and the latest cut in Pennsylvania crude oil did not come as a surprise to oil men here, although it is expected to curtail field work to a certain extent. Coal and coke markets continue very quiet, but the placing of orders for steel and cars suggesting a better demand for steel has helped to produce a better sentiment in coke and coal.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The activity in the market for denims, in spite of the recent increase of ½ cent a yard in quotations in this market, is taken to indicate a much better feeling regarding the business situation by overall makers throughout the country.

WOOL.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 10.—The American Woolen Co. will open its 1922 lines of heavy-weight woolen goods within the next two weeks. It is positive that prices will be as high as they were a year ago and it is probable that some small advances will be asked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The demand for wool in this market is spasmodic and buying halts when prices begin to move upward.

GRAIN.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 10.—Three million bushels of corn piled on the ground in Dallam County are being burned by farmers for fuel for lack of a market.

JEWELRY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The first part of January in the jewelry trade has given indications that the business this month will be somewhat better than is usual at this season of the year.

FRUIT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—There are large stocks of apples in storage here and cutting of prices by some retailers has commenced. The market has been weakened by some inferior stock.

COAL.

SAGINAW, Mich., Jan. 10.—The coal output of the mines near here in 1921 was 500,000 tons below that of 1920, owing to weather conditions.

OIL.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—The Barnsdall Refining Co., a subsidiary of the Barnsdall Corporation of New York, is putting into shape a storage tank and warehouse here which will cost $150,000.

IRON AND STEEL.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—The American Steel and Wire Co. has cut cold rolled strip steel from $3.75 to $3.50 to met competition, but the steel market in general is steady at the following figures: Black sheet, $3; galvanized sheet, $4; tinplate, $4.75; bars, shapes and plates, $1.50; hoops, bands and hot-rolled strips, $2; plain wire, $2.25; wire nails, $2.50; standard steel pipe, 71 per cent off base.

COPPER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Predictions are freely made in the copper market here that there will be a decided advance in the price of the red metal before a general resumption of production at the mines can take place.

ELECTRICAL MACHINERY.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 10.—The General Electric Co.'s plant at West Lynn now is operating five days a week. Operations have shown a gradual increase since last summer, when production was down to 50 per cent of capacity. Many public utilities conipanies are figuring on new equipment.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—Pittsburg dealers will erect an "electrical house" to show to what extent electricity may be used in reducing household labor. Every known electrical apparatus will be installed and the house will be open for public inspection.

HIDES.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The hide market is steady, although buyers are exhibiting little interest. Country hides, in good condition at this time of year, are attracting the most attention and are in fair demand at prices ranging from 8 to 11 cents a pound.

TO PROSECUTE EX-CLERGYMAN WHO OFFICIATED AT WEDDINGS

Maryland Official Announces Action Against Man Whose Ordination Was Revoked.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 10.—Criminal proceedings against the Rev. R. T. Westren, Methodist preacher of Elkton, Md., for performing marriages after his ordination papers had been revoked by the Methodist Conference of Wilmington will be instituted, State's Attorney Warburton of Cecil County, Md., announced yesterday.

Coincident with the announcement, Westren left Elkton and is thought to be living in seclusion on a farm near Northeast, Md., to await developments. Prominent ministers here assert the marriages performed by Westren are invalid.

$206,000 BUDGET FOR PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION

Campaign to Open Next Monday —Solicitors to Carry Credentials.

A campaign for $206,000, to cover the Provident Association's budget for 1922, will be opened next Monday and continue one week. Downtown headquarters have been established on the fifth floor of the Compton Building, Seventh and Locust streets. The solicitation will be by representatives with credentials.

The total number of subscribers last year was 6500. President William R. Compton says the effort will be to obtain at least 20,000 this year. In addition to the necessary large subscriptions it is hoped to obtain a large number of small subscriptions, ranging from $1 to $10.

Warren C. Flynn is finalcial chairman of the campaign. Volunteers are desired to give all or part of their time in assisting in the campaign.

During the last year 3282 families were under the care of the association for extended treatment. This was an increase of 73 per cent over the preceding year. The number of individual beneficiaries was 12,996, of whom 4986 were under 14 years of age. Of the families helped 1866 were in distress because of unemployment. The total number of families that had to be given material relief was 2506, an increase of 103 over the preceding year.

The association not only gives material relief in the way of food and clothing, but in its social service department it endeavors to better family conditions, to rehabilitate families and conserve home life.

While the season so far has been unusually mild the association has had heavy demands upon it because of unemployment.

WOMAN, FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON PORCH AT HOME, DIES

Husband of Mrs. Lena Bosche Says She Had Been Under Doctor's Care for Neuralgia.

Policemen investigating the death of Mrs. Lena Bosche, 36 years old, wife of Alphonse Bosche of 1710A South Seventh street, reported last night that Mrs. Bosche had been found unconscious on a porch at the rear of her home Sunday and died on being carried into the home.

The husband told the police he had taken a nap Sunday afternoon. His wife, he said, went into the kitchen to do some baking in preparation for visitors. He was awakened later and found the kitchen door open and his wife on the portch. She had a scalp wound, caused by falling, he said. He called neighbors and when a doctor arrived the woman was dead. Mrs. Bosche had been under a doctor's care for neuralgia, policemen were told.

Bulk of Property Was Left to Widow and Other Members of Family.

An inventory of the estate of Max Littmann, former president of the Nixdorff-Krein Manufacturing Co., who died Aug. 6, 1921, filed today in the Probate Court, gives the value of his personal property as $208,701.97. Stocks of the par value of $145,615 were listed.

The bulk of the estate was left to the widow and other members of his family, although there were some bequests to charity. One provision of the will was that mourning garments were not to be worn by members of the family longer than 30 days after his death. He resided at 4904 McPherson avenue.

CITIZENS WILL LAY TIES TO GET RAILROAD BRANCH

Extension of C. & A. Road to Nutwood District in Illinois May Be Open by July 4.

At a meeting of officers of the Chicago & Alton Railroad and land owners of the Nutwood Drainage and Levee District at Jerseyville yesterday, it was determined to plan to have the proposed rail extension from Titus, in Greene County, to Reddish Station, in the Nutwood District, in operation by July 4. The property owners have pledged $50,000 and will furnish roadbed and lay the ties.

Residents of Hardin have almost completed raising an additional $15,000 to have the extension built from Reddish Station to a point opposite Hardin.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL MEETING

"Get Together" Session at Central High School Tonight.

A meeting to be held at 8:15 tonight in the auditorium of the Central High School will be the first "get-together" of the board and staff members of the 80 organizations which constitute the Community Council of St. Louis. All other interested citzens also are invited to attend.

After native songs and dances have been given by representatives of various foreign-born groups in St. Louis, under the auspices of the International Institute of the Young Women's Christian Association, speeches will be made by Paul Bakewell Jr., attorney; George Markham, chairman Charities Endorsement Committee, Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Hanau Loeb, dean St. Louis University Medical School; Mrs. E. H. Steedman, board member of various charities, and Elwood Street, director, Community Council.

GAME WARDEN TO REVISE LIST OF 300 HONORARY DEPUTIES

Killing of Gangster in St. Louis Who Held Such a Commission, Causes Official to Act in Matter.

JEFFERSON CITY Jan. 10.—Discovery that one of the men to whom he had issued authority to arm and wear a star as a so-called "honorary" Deputy Game and Fish Commissioner was a St. Louis gangster, ex-convict and murder and as bank robber suspect, John J. Doyle, alias Thomas McKeon, killed in a revolver fight with St. Louis policemen Friday, has persuaded Game and Fish Commissioner Middleton that the list of about 300 "honorary" deputies should be revised. He notified Gov. Hyde today that he would "comb the list thoroughly."

It was suggested to Middleton that since the statutes make no provision for "honorary" deputies, he might be doing something in keeping with public policy by calling in the stars and commissions of the whole list. To this he demurred, however.

The statutes authorize the Commissioner to appoint as many deputies as the work of the department requires, to receive salary of $4 a day and expenses while at work. The custom has grown up in the past of naming one, two, or even sometimes three, regular deputies to each of the 16 congressional districts to enforce the game and fish laws on a pay basis, and in addition to issue "honorary" commissions to many others.

In his letter to the Governor, Middleton said:

"In appointing the gangster, McKeon, alias Doyle, I did so without opportunity to see the man and interrogate him, but I assumed that his being recommended by a well-known citizen, Attorney Samuel A. Bender, Wainwright Building, St. Louis, was a sufficient guarantee that the commission was being placed in proper hands. We now learn, however, that Bender had taken the word of another as to McKeon's fitness. Others may have been indorsed in similar manner, and for that reason it is my intention to comb the list thoroughly."

City News in Brief

BENJAMIN J. HYDE, STATE SUPERINTENDENT of Insurance, will address the annual banquet of the salesmen of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Baltimore at the Hotel Statler at 6 p. m., Saturday.

WILLIAM J. GREEN, 39 YEARS OLD, of Normady, St. Louis county, suffered injuries to the back and scalp wounds yesterday when an automobile he was driving collided with an automobile driven by Albert Franke, of 4636 Kennerly avenue, at Forest Park boulevard and Euclid avenue. He was taken to his home.

THOMAS JOSEPH, 4 YEARS OLD, SON of Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph of 5567 Wells avenue, suffered scalp wounds and cuts and bruises yesterday evening when knocked down by a horse and wagon, driven by John Wittner of 2618 North Euclid avenue, in front of 5598 Easton avenue. The driver was arrested.

THE BIMONTHLY MEETING OF THE St. Louis Branch of the Red Triangle League will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard, 5501 Chamberlain avenue, Thursday evening at 8:15. Howard, Mr. Philemon Bevis and Dr. Rubens Humphrey will speak, and C. L. Moore, a secretary, recently returned from Russia, will exhibit some relics.

So Much for So Little Money

It is still causing great surprise that the making of Dr. Price's Baking Powder with Phosphate instead of Cream of Tartar permits such an excellent baking powder to be sold at 25c. for a large-size 12-oz. can. But a greater surprise is in the good, light, wholesome home-baking it produces.

DR. PRICE'S PHOSPHATE BAKING POWDER

25c

For a large size can, 12 oz.

COCOANUT LAYER CAKE

½ cup shortening — 1 egg — ½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar — 1 cup milk — 3 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder
1 teaspoon vanilla extract — 2 cups flour

Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, add flavoring and well-beaten egg; add milk; mix well; then add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Bake in three greased layer cake tins in moderate oven 12 to 15 minutes.

COCOANUT FILLING AND ICING

1½ cups granulated sugar — ½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup water — 1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 egg whites — 1 cup fresh grated cocoanut

Cook sugar and water over slow fire without stirring until syrup spins a thread; pour slowly over egg whites which have been beaten until stiff; beat until thick enough to spread; add flavoring. Spread between layers and on top of cake. While icing is still soft sprinkle thickly with cocoanut.

Ask your grocer if he has an extra copy of this new Cook Book. If he hasn't, write to Price Baking Powder Factory, 1001 Independence Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, and we will gladly mail you one.

A "balanced diet" may sound confusing to many people

The facts, as explained here, are simple.

The secret of a "balanced diet" is to have food containing all the elements needed for proper nutrition. These elements are protein, to nourish the tissues; starch and sugar to furnish energy; fat to supply heat; and mineral salts to provide the material necessary for building nerves, brain, and tooth and bone structure.

Grape-Nuts, the nourishing cereal made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, served with cream or milk, is a complete food for young and old alike.

Go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with milk or cream for breakfast; or with stewed fruit, jelly or jam, as a delicious dessert for lunch or dinner.

Every member of the family will relish this palatable and nourishing food—

VOLCANO NEAR NICARAGUA IN ERUPTION; NATIVES ARE FLEEING

Cattle and Cocoanut Plants Destroyed by Ashes in Worst Activity Since 1885.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Jan. 10.—The volcano Ometeped, on the island of Ometeped, eight miles from the western shore of Lake Nicaragua, is in active eruption. Many thousands of cocoanut plants have been destroyed, large areas of grazing land are covered with ashes, and many cattle are dead.

The inhabitants of the adjacent villages, terrified by the internal rumblings, are fleeing to zones of safety.

Considerable lava is flowing down the 5108-foot cone, but as yet has done no material damage. The eruption is the worst since 1885.

NEWSBOY GETS LEAD DOLLAR

Louis Batz of 3444A Illinois avenue, a newsboy who sells the Sunday Post-Dispatch, has written to the Post-Dispatch that last Sunday a man in a new touring car gave him a lead dollar for a paper and got back 90 cents in good money. Louis' letter follows:

"I am a Post-Dispatch newsboy and sell the Post-Dispatch on Sundays. Last Sunday a man in a new Haynes car gave me a lead dollar and received 90 cents of my good money in change. I know the man if I saw him again and am going to report him if I get his auto number. If this man has any heart he will return my 90 cents."

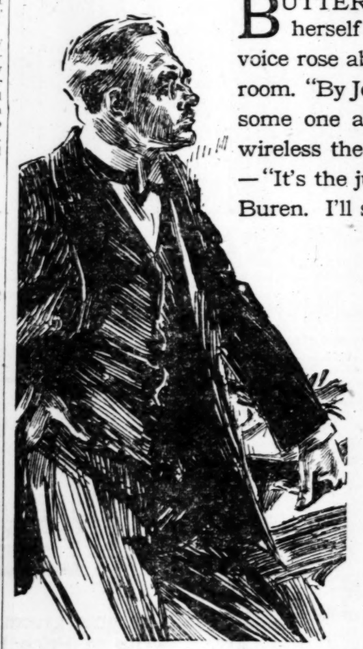
50c ON THE DOLLAR

An Amazing Confession! How the Judge's own sister-in-law ended the Cardigan murder trial!



BUTTERFLY Babs Van Buren steadied herself on the seat in front of her. Her voice rose above the suddenly hushed courtroom. "By Jove, Judge Grant's sister-in-law," some one at the table murmured. Like a wireless the message hissed round the room—"It's the judge's own sister. Barbara Van Buren. I'll say—some scandal."

Then speaking low but unwavering she pinned her butterfly soul to the wall of notoriety and crucified it there for all to see—

GIRL'S STORY OF HOW CHUM CAUSED ADMIRER'S DEATH

Drowning of Man Due to Shove That Hurled Him Through Bridge Rail, Witness Asserts.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Trouble Started, She Says, When Trio Were Eating in Restaurant and Was Later Renewed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Jan. 10.—When Jake Meyers, a well-known young Rock Island (Ill.) man, disappeared from his home in Rock Island on Sept. 28, his friends searched for him for two days before notifying the police. Then the police began a search which ended with the recovery of the body in the Mississippi River at Andalusia on Oct. 4.

Meyers had no reason for suicide as far as was known. There were many mysterious angles to his disappearance and it was believed that the mystery would never be cleared up. There were no bruises on his body and still a motive for self-destruction was lacking.

No solution was offered until Dec. 15, when Miss Bertha Liennon, a young Davenport girl, told Davenport police that her chum and sweetheart of the dead youth was the slayer.

This chum and sweetheart was Grace Gapinsky, a woman about 25 years old, with smouldering black eyes, a beautiful complexion and much charm. Her home was in Peru, Ill., but she spent much of her time with friends in Davenport.

Story Doubted at First.

Police doubted Miss Liennon's story at first. She said the Gapinsky girl, while quarreling with her admirer, had pushed him through the railing of the Government bridge. The informant was taken to the spot on the bridge where she stated the tragedy occurred. She acted out the part of the Gapinsky girl, and the police decided her story was true.

They arrested Miss Gapinsky. She at once retained a well-known criminal lawyer and refused to talk about the case. At times during the police grill she lost her temper and in violent fits of anger which approached frenzy she scornfully derided her captors and attempted to blacken the character of her former chum, Miss Liennon.

At other times she professed great sorrow over the death of Meyers and wept profusely.

Here is the story which Miss Liennon told:

The three were eating in a cafe when an argument started. Miss Gapinsky charged Meyers with having another girl's clothes cleaned and charged to her account. So angry did she become that she left her dinner uneaten and left the cafe.

Couple Renew Argument.

Meyers and Miss Liennon followed her to the Government bridge over the Mississippi where the party stopped and the argument broke out afresh. Miss Gapinsky, so her chum states, finally attacked her admirer and gave him a violent push, which sent him through the railing of the bridge. "Grace," they heard him call as he fell, Miss Liennon says.

Although the girl persisted in her denials she was held by the police and finally charged with manslaughter. She is now held on that charge until the grand jury investigates her case.

PETROLEUM EXPORTS INCREASED

More Than $16,000,000 Increase Is Government Estimate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Heavy increases in the country's petroleum exports as compared with pre-war levels were reported last night by the Commerce Department. Exports of crude oil in 1921, it was estimated, showed an approximate increase of more than 190,000,000 gallons over 1913 with an increase in value of more than $16,000,000. The quantity and value of refined products for 1913, the department said, was 1,941,936,000 gallons, valued at $140,348,000, against about 2,411,000,000 gallons, valued at approximately $359,700,000 in 1921.

PERIOD OF NAVAL AGREEMENT MAY EXTEND TO 1937

Proposal Said to Be Included in Tentative Draft Without Affecting 10-Year Ship Building "Holiday."

FAR EAST OUTLOOK SEEMS MORE HOPEFUL

Both Chinese and Japanese Imply New Elements Have Been Injected Into Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The belief that France would abandon her plans for extensive submarine construction as a result of the entente reached with Great Britain at Cannes was expressed today by members of the British arms delegation.

In this case it was said Great Britain would find it unnecessary to carry out her suggested program for a fleet of auxiliary naval craft which would have been designed as an answer to large holdings of submarines by another power.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Delegations of the five naval Powers continued today their separate study of the draft treaty prepared by naval and legal experts to cover their naval limitation agreement, preliminary to a meeting later in the day of delegation heads to compare opinions on detailed provisions of the draft.

The treaty was given to the several delegations for study late yesterday and the time required for this caused a postponement of the meeting of the full naval committee originally planned for today until tomorrow. The committee was expected, however, to reach final agreement on the text within two or three days, and the treaty to be ready for publication to the world at a plenary session of the conference on Thursday or Friday.

Although a carefully guarded secret in both substance and text, the tentative draft is understood to include a number of wholly new features, chief among these a proposal to extend the duration of the pact until 1937, this not to affect, however, the 10-year period of the naval holiday.

May Authorize Warships.

Another new provision will authorize construction of warships on foreign account within the jurisdiction of the five Powers, the size limitations on such ships to conform with those in the treaty.

The treaty draft will settle the merchant ship problem by limiting the armament of merchantmen to 6-inch guns, thus making armed merchantmen definitely inferior to regular or converted naval auxiliary vessels, which may carry 8-inch guns and also, it is understood, by prohibiting the conversion of any commercial vessel of more than 10,000 tons into a naval auxiliary. Although it was expected these provisions would be finally accepted, the merchant ship problem was still one of the questions of definition which were understood to be the chief concern of the delegates in their efforts to agree on a wording acceptable to everyone.

With the armament program of the conference near final disposition, the delegates were preparing today to press to an early conclusion also the Far Eastern discussions, and to this end it was apparent that the chanting negotiations were being turned into new channels with revived hopes of agreement.

Far East Outlook Hopeful.

The nature of the latest move had not been revealed, but both the Chinese and Japanese implied that new and promising elements had been injected into the negotiations. Believing that the other remaining elements of discord in the Far East were not of a nature to lead to extended debate, some of the delegates were so optimistic regarding the outlook as to predict a plenary session for Saturday or Monday to announce completion of the Far Eastern treaty.

Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, had completed definite arrangements today to sail for home next Tuesday, and his colleagues on the delegation said it was entirely probable that he would sign the Far Eastern agreement before his departure.

Hawaiian Sugar Planters Plan to Import Chinese to Relieve Labor Situation, if Bill Passes

Industry, Facing Low Prices After Two Years of Prosperity, Is Pinning Hopes on Pending Legislation to Avoid Economic Difficulties.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 10.—It has been said that one may tell the price of Hawaiian sugar by studying the faces of the people of Honolulu as they pass along the street. The native expressions are barometric of trade conditions. While it is true the price of raw sugar at this time is below the point where there is a profit in the industry, the thing that seems to be worrying the planters and business interests of these islands is the labor situation. The planters made enormous profits during the two-year period of extraordinarily high prices and are in position to weather an unprofitable season or two, but unless they are able to obtain laborers to carry on the plantation work they stand to meet with heavy losses in reduction of the present cane acreage and in a general curtailment of development operations, it is asserted. The same conditions apply to the pineapple industry which of recent years has attained a very important place in the agricultural life of the islands.

Closely involved in the labor situation and other so-called problems of the Hawaiian Islands are the Japanese. Of the 114,000 Japanese in Hawaii, a total of 17,981 are employed on sugar plantations. The total number of sugar plantation laborers is 39,502. About 20,000 are employed in the pineapple industry. Next to the Japanese in number come the Filipinos, with a total of 12,215, as sugar plantation workers. The remainder are made up of Portuguese, Chinese, Koreans, Porto Ricans, native Hawaiians and a few scattered Americans and Russians.

In discussing the labor problem the planters unhesitatingly commend the Japanese as laborers, but further they do not go. Realizing the fact that there can be no letting down the bars to bringing in of Japanese, even as a temporary labor relief measure, a thing that Japan would oppose just as much as the United States, the planters and business men generally of the Hawaiian Islands are hopeful that Congress will realize the seriousness of the situation here. They look for relief in the passage of the resolution pending in that body authorizing the admission to this territory of aliens, otherwise inadmissible, in such numbers as may be necessary to meet any existing shortage of laborers, provided the total shall not exceed 20 per cent of the total population of the Territory. The resolution also provides that these alien laborers shall be permitted to remain here only for a limited time, and that they shall be returned to their respective countries at the expiration of the time limit.

Nationality Not Stipulated.

Although the relief measure does not stipulate the nationality of the proposed labor importations, it is planned, should the resolution be adopted, to bring in Chinese from Southern China, perhaps from the Canton district. While at this time there are comparatively few Chinese employed on plantations, it is stated they are good laborers, lacking, however, in some of the qualities that especially fit the Japanese for such service.

In the various lines of agriculture, including the sugar, pineapple, rice, coffee and other interests, there is said to be a shortage of approximately 15,000 laborers at this time. It is estimated the labor shortage this year cost the sugar interests alone an actual loss of $6,233,000. There was a decrease of 12,614 acres of cane for this reason. The pineapple industry has not suffered as severely, but the lack of laborers has caused plans for an expansion of this branch of agriculture to be abandoned—temporarily, at least.

In a seven-day trip by automobile and railroad through the plantation districts of the Islands of Maui, Oahu and Hawaii, evidences of the lack of laborers to carry on the normal agricultural work of these three islands were to be seen on every hand.

Thousands of acres of cane remain uncut, and the stalks already have lost much of their saccharine content. In many instances no effort will be made to harvest fields of cane because laborers are not available for the work. Planting of the new crop is being hampered seriously for the same reason. Cultivation of the growing crop is much below the standard, and naturally will cause a falling off of the yield. If the labor shortage continues the cane acreage for 1922 will have to be reduced more than 23 per cent below what it was last year, according to the statements of planters.

When the fact is considered that the estimated total production of raw sugar on these islands this year will be approximately 569,000 tons and that the production has run as high as 646,445 tons in a single year (1915), some idea of the magnitude of the industry may be had.

Laborers Are Well Treated.

Plantation laborers — Japanese, Filipino and all others—are well treated. Not only is there evidence of this on all sides, but the laborers themselves have no complaint to make on this score. They receive free rent, neat cottages in which to live, together with a free garden plot, free fuel and water, free medical and hospital service, free schools of the most excellent educational standards. They are free to come and go as they please. No restrictions whatever, except those relating to the work itself, are imposed on them. On many of the plantations the clusters of homes of the Japanese laborers are almost paradisical in beauty of their surroundings and setting. Native tropical fruits abound, green verdure, brilliant-hued flowers and paved highways are a part of these villages.

Notwithstanding these apparently ideal conditions that surround the Japanese laborers there exists in some places and among some classes an undercurrent of antagonism between them and the Americans who represent the large corporations that own and operate the plantations and sugar mills. This lack of harmony between the two races extends through all lines of business, in the rural districts as well as the towns. It would seem to be a case of racial prejudice, however well founded it may be, and misunderstanding.

The factors that contributed chiefly to the present labor shortage and the shortage itself, affords an interesting study, and serve to bear out the assertion made by Americans here that the Japanese laborers, and their children, even those who are citizens, do not become Americanized, notwithstanding the efforts, persistent and continuous, that are made along this line. During the era of the fabulous high price of sugar the laborers, under the wage system and a bonus, based on the price of sugar, profited enormously. Then came the fall of the price of sugar and a decrease of the earnings of the Japanese and other laborers. On the island of Oahu, about 7000 laborers, Japanese and Filipinos, went on a strike.

The Filipinos, true to their record of not being able to stand together on any proposition, as is told of them here, did not hold out long. The Japanese remained firm for a time, but at the end of six months they returned unconditionally to work. Several months later their basic wage was raised to $30 a month for men and $20 for women and the rate of bonus reduced. At the time of the strike the men were receiving 77 cents a day, but with a bonus which amounted to 276 per cent on that wage for the year, or about $2.30 a day.

Goro Nakayama, vice president and manager of the Sumitomo Bank of Hawaii, which is one of the large Japanese financial institutions of Honolulu, in describing the Japanese labor situation here, said:

"For many years the Japanese plantation laborers were paid such low wages that they could not save any money. For 20 years they remained here and had no opportunity to return 'home,' even on a visit. Then came the period of big profits for the planters and the laborers. Some of the Japanese field workers made more than $300 a month, including the basic wage a month and the bonus, which was fixed according to the price of sugar. They laid aside comfortable sums of money and when they had done this what was more natural than that they should gratify that long-cherished desire to pay a visit to their relatives in Japan, whom they had not seen for so many years. They left here in large numbers for Japan, taking their wives and children with them."

"Are any of them returning and resuming their positions as laborers on the plantations?" was asked.

"They are returning, but very slowly. Those who do come back are, for the most part, men; they leave their wives and children in Japan for the reason that living is cheaper there and it is desired that the children be placed in school in their home country. For every 500 Japanese who went to Japan about 200 will return, here, I would say.

The Greatest Obstacle.

"Generally speaking, the Japanese laborers upon the plantations of these islands are well treated. The greatest obstacle in their becoming a permanent asset to the planters is that no provision is made to have them become settled. There is nothing to tie them to the plantation. They do not own the homes in which they live. I think this condition could be overcome largely by a more general adoption of the contract system in the matter of growing cane and pineapples."

"Do the Japanese own any agricultural lands in the Hawaiian Islands?"

"Not in actual ownership," Mr. Nakayama replied, "but they do have a good deal of land under 15 to 20 years' lease on which they are growing sugar cane and pineapples. The Japanese control only one sugar mill in the islands. This property was formerly owned by Americans, but they found it running at a loss. It was taken over by Japanese who are making a good profit of the industry."

INDUSTRY SLOWED DOWN FOLLOWING SPURT IN OCTOBER

GENERAL TENDENCY TO STABILIZATION

Metals, Clothing, Paper and Glass Showed Increased Activity; Letdown in Food Products.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—General slowing down of industry after the spurt in October was the outstanding characteristic of the November figures as shown in the monthly "Survey of Current Business" just published by the Department of Commerce. This is partially accounted for, according to the survey, by a seasonal reaction in certain lines, such as textiles and automobiles, and in other lines, such as coal and transportation, by the overstimulation of October business in the face of the threatened strike.

The general result of November conditions appeared to be stabilization. This tendency was felt especially in textiles, metals, building construction and its related industries, and retail sales. It was also manifested in price movements, employment conditions and in railroad transportation.

Figures on November production indicate increased activity over October in metals, clothing, paper and glass. On the other hand, production for November slackened among the foodstuffs, tobacco and fuels while an irregular condition existed in the construction industries.

All commodities in the building material, clothing tobacco and foodstuff groups were being produced in greater volume than the 1913 average, except pork products, which were only 1 per cent below. The metals were all considerably below the prewar basis in spite of good increases during November, while the fuels were divided, with petroleum and by-products coke far above the prewar average, the coals slightly below and beehive coke far below. Copper and beehive coke were produced at less than 20 per cent of their prewar rate.

Stocks Slightly Larger.

Stocks of commodities at the end of November were, in general, slightly larger than in 1919. The largest relative stocks were those of corn and coal, both more than five times as large, due partly to seasonal variation. Increases of from 50 to 100 per cent occurred in wheat and cottonseed oil, both largely seasonal increases, and in zinc, cement, face brick and petroleum. Outside of the seasonal decrease in meats, all the declines from 1919 were very small.

The general level of prices in November showed little change, but a slight declining tendency was manifest. This was especially true of the prices of farm products, which in most instances declined below their already abnormally low level. Wholesale food and clothing prices and retail food also tended towards a lower level. The most important advances were in silk and petroleum. Iron, steel and coal remained practically unchanged, while other metals, except lead, advanced.

The cotton crop turned out to be considerably larger than the earlier estimates, but 36 per cent less than the prewar average. Imports of raw cotton during November were the heaviest since March, 1920, but exports slumped more than 25 per cent from the high mark made in October. There was a slight increase in the number of active spindles and an increase of about 61 per cent in the consumption of cotton, to the highest monthly figure since June, 1920.

Woolen mills generally were less active in November than in October, this decline in most cases amounting to about 5 per cent. A considerable increase occurred in the market price of wool, though the producer received slightly less for his wool on Dec. 1 than a month before. Imports of raw silk increased slightly during November and consumption declined, while stocks were larger. The price of silk showed an increase of more than 18 per cent during the month.

Late reports received by the Department of Commerce indicate that the textile business during December has slackened since November.

This is only partly due to "between season" dullness. General world economic conditions and the lack of purchasing power among the farmers of the Middle West are stated to be the chief causes. The tone of the textile market has been more depressed.

Situation in Metals.

The production of pig iron and of steel ingots continued to advance during November, though at a diminished rate. Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation again decreased slightly. Imports and exports of iron and steel showed little change. Shipments of bar iron increased somewhat in November, and sales of structural steel were slightly better than in October and twice as large as a year ago, again making a record for the past 18 months.

Production of copper remained at a low point, but exports for November showed a good increase and attained the highest mark since May, 1920. The price of copper increased slightly.

Zinc production took a considerable leap in November, increasing 45 per cent and showing the largest production since the beginning of the year. Stocks were reduced slightly and the movement at St. Louis was somewhat larger than in October.

Late reports received by the Department of Commerce indicate a slight slowing down in iron and steel production in December, with steel production at about 45 per cent of capacity and blast furnace operations in the Pittsburg district at about 50 per cent. Business has been active in rails, pipe, tin plate and fabricated steel, with wire dull and operations in the wire mills at about 50 per cent of capacity. Iron and steel prices are holding steady except for a reduction in steel pipe.

Fuel Declines Noted.

Declines occurred in the production of both bituminous and anthracite coal in November, largely a reaction from the October threat of a railroad tieup. Small increases occurred in the production of coke in November, but this industry still operated on a greatly reduced scale. Exports of anthracite and coke increased slightly, but bituminous exports declined to less than a third of the previous November's exports.

Crude petroleum production increased nearly 6 per cent over October. Consumption increased 3 per cent, while stocks rose 3 per cent, making a new high record. The November price of crude petroleum was more than double the September price.

A slight increase occurred in the production of newsprint paper in November, but the total of other classes declined and stocks increased slightly. Exports of both classes increased materially after two months of heavy declines. Imports of wood pulp increased. The price of domestic paper advanced, especially the spot price, but the Canadian price was lowered. Printing activity increased 5 per cent in October.

The production of both passenger cars and trucks slumped more than 21 per cent in November, both being at the lowest mark recorded since these statistics began to be collected in July. The total production in November amounted to 106,042 passenger cars and 10,009 trucks.

Late reports to the department manifest a seasonal slackening in the automobile trade awaiting the January shows, but a better tone than a year ago. Sales of parts to jobbers have increased.

Building and Construction.

Index numbers of building costs showed little change in November and are still more than 50 per cent greater than the prewar level. Total volume of building contracts awarded in November declined about 7 per cent, due largely to the decline in business buildings. Industrial and residential building contracts continued to increase, but the group of public and semipublic buildings, except educational, continued the marked decline noted in October. Compared with November, 1920, the total building contracts were twice as large, with increases in every group except industrial buildings, while in the residential and educational groups the contracts were more than three times as large. The November increase brought the cumulative total for 11 months to within 9 per cent of the 1920 total.

Lumber production varied considerably during November. Southern pine, California redwood and oak flooring showed increased production, while for Douglas fir and Western pine declines were noted. Exports of lumber in November were slightly less than in October, while prices were about 10 per cent higher.

Production of fire-clay brick showed a slight improvement, but silica and face brick production receded During November. Cement production and shipments came down from the high October records, in a seasonal movement, while stocks increased and prices remained stationary.

November production of leather showed slight increases. October census reports showed increased leather production and slightly increased stocks. November exports of leather showed a good increase, but exports of boots and shoes again declined.

The first monthly reports on the production of boots and shoes showed a total for November of 23,431,427 pairs manufactured by 1007 establishments. This total for November is larger by 500,000 pairs than the monthly average production in 1919 reported by the Census of Manufacturers.

Wheat receipts, shipments and exports declined in November in response to a seasonal movement, and the production of wheat flour also declined. The visible supply continued to increase and was almost 50 per cent larger than a year ago.

Corn movement in the terminal markets also declined and the visible supply started to decline from the previous month's peak. The whole corn movement, however, was considerably larger than in November, 1920.

Car loadings of all grains declined 25 per cent in November and total exports of grains were 30 per cent less than in October.

Receipts, shipments and slaughter of cattle declined perceptibly from both October, 1921, and November, 1920. The 1921 totals were below the previous year in every case. Exports of beef products followed the same trend.

Hog movement and slaughter generally increased in November, but was below the level of November, 1920, and the total movement for 11 months also was slightly less than in 1920. Exports of pork products declined slightly. Inspected slaughter production and consumption for October exceeded October, 1920. Cold storage holdings increased slightly and were almost 50 per cent greater than in 1920. Prices of hogs declined 14 per cent from October.

Relieved of the temporary threat of a railroad strike, the November freight car surplus rose to the highest point since July. Car loadings declined considerably from the large October movement, but good progress was made in the reduction of bad order cars.

October railroad-operating revenue showed a good increase in spite of a decline in passenger revenue. Expenses also increased, but net operating income was the largest since the railroads were turned back to their owners. Early November statements indicate that November operation was not so favorable, however.

Slight Employment Increase.

A very slight increase was reported in November in the number of

Emma Goldman and Francis Berkman Assail Bolshevism as "Asiatic Barbarism" and Say Labor Should Hear of "Blood and Murder Rule"

American Deportees, Now at Stockholm, Bitterly Disillusioned by Conditions in Russia and Denounce Soviet Rule in Published Article.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10.—"The Bolshevist government's barbaric procedure"; "Revolting Asiatic form of extermination"; "Blood and murder regime"; "Asiatic barbarism."

Those who are thus assailing the Lenine regime are not bourgeois capitalists, but Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, who, after less than two years' experience of Bolshevism, have left the "promised land," disappointed and embittered, all their illusions shattered and longing to return to America.

The local Syndicalist paper, Arbetaren (The Worker) publishes a slashing arraignment of the Bolshevists by Goldman and Berkman. They say:

"The persecution of revolutionary elements in Russia has not abated with the changed political and economic policies of the Bolsheviste. On the contrary, it has become more intense and more determined. The prisons of Russia, the Ukraine and Siberia, are filled with men and women—in some cases even with children—who dare to hold views differing from those of the ruling Communist party.

"Cheka" Knows No Laws.

"We say 'hold views' advisedly, for in the Russia of today it is not at all necessary to express your dissent in word or act to become subject to arrest. The mere holding of opposing views makes you the legitimate prey of the de facto supreme power of the land—the Cheka, that almighty Bolshevist organization, whose will knows neither law nor responsibility.

"But of all the revolutionary elements in Russia, it is the anarchists who now suffer the most ruthless and systematic persecution. Their suppression by the Bolshevists had begun already in April, 1918, when the communist Government attacked without provocation or warning the Anarchist Club in Moscow, and by using machine guns and artillery 'liquidated' the whole organization.

"It was the beginning of the anarchist hounding, but it was sporadic in character, breaking out now and then and quite without plan and often illogically.

"But this chaotic situation was terminated by the tenth congress of the Russian Communist party in April, 1921, at which Lenine declared open and merciless war not only against the anarchists, but against 'all petty bourgeois-anarchist and anarcho-syndicalist tendencies,' wherever found.

"Then there began a systematic, organized and most ruthless extermination of anarchists in Bolshevist-ruled Russia. On the very day of Lenine's speech scores of anarchists, anarchist-syndicalists and sympathizers were arrested in Moscow and Petrograd and the first day wholesale arrests of our comrades were made all over the country.

Anarchism Being "Persecuted."

"Since then the persecution has continued with increasing violence and it has become quite apparent that the greater compromises the Communist regime makes with the capitalistic world the more intense is its persecution of anarchism.

"It has become the settled policy of the Bolshevist Government to make its barbaric policies against our comrades under the uniform charge of banditry. This accusation is now made against practically all arrested anarchists and frequently even mere sympathizers. It is a mighty convenient method, for by it anyone may be secretly executed by the Cheka without hearing, trial or investigation.

"Lenine's warfare against anarchistic tendencies has assumed the most revolting Asiatic form of extermination. Last September numerous of our comrades were arrested in Moscow, and on the 30th of that month the Isvestia published the official statement that 10 had been shot 'as bandits.' None had received a trial or even a hearing.

"Among the executed were two of the best-known Russian anarchists, whose idealism and lifelong devotion to the cause had stood the test of Czarist dungeons, exile and persecution and suffering in various other lands. They were Fanny Baron, who had escaped from prison at Ryazon several months previously, and Levtchorny, a popular lecturer and writer who had spent many years of his life in Siberia for his acitivities under the Czars. The Bolshevists had not the courage to say they shot Levtcherny. In the list of executed he appeared as 'Turchaninoff.' His real name was unknown even to some of his closest friends. The policy of extermination continues. More arrests of anarchists were made several weeks ago in Moscow.

EMMA GOLDMAN.

Accusations Against Leaders.

"This time, it was the Universalist anarchists who were the victims —a group which even the Bolshevists considered the most friendly to themselves. Among the arrested were Askaroff and Slitztenko, members of the Universalist secretariat and well known throughout Russia. They were accused of being bandits, counterfeiters and members of 'Levtchorny's underground group.'

"What such an accusation means is known only too well to those familiar with Bolshevist methods. It means 'Razstreleuns' or execution and shooting without hearing or warning. The fiendishness of purpose in these arrests and accusations is almost beyond belief.

"The Bolshvists seek thus to justify their foul murder of Baron, Levtchorny and others of our comrades executed in September and on the other hand to create a convenient pretext for shooting more anarchists. There was no Levtchorny underground group! Any such claim is an atrocious lie. It is high time the labor movement of the world took cognizance of the blood and murder regime practiced by the Bolshevist government on all who are politically different minded."

The satement closes with an appeal to anarchists and syndicalists everywhere for action. "Make haste," it says, "for the blood of our comrades is flowing in Russia."

"I came to Russia," said Miss Goldman, "with burning enthusiasm for the revolution. I left America with rejoicing and hope, but now I have nothing left but crushed illusions. I am depressed when I think about it and the words stick in my throat. But I must talk so that the proletariat can learn by my misakes."

Both Miss Goldman and Berkman refuse to discuss their plans. It is believed, however, they intend to endeavor to secure permission to return to America.

BRITAIN PLEDGED TO AID FRANCE IN EVENT GERMANS EVER ATTACK HER

COUNCIL READY TO ACT ON REPARATIONS

Germans, Headed by Rathenau, Arrive in France to Discuss Settlement; Russia Eager to Attend World Economic Conference.

PREMIERS DISCUSS WORLD AFFAIRS WHILE PLAYING GOLF ON CANNES LINKS

By the Associated Press.

CANNES, Jan. 10.

A NOTABLE diplomatic golf contest was played on the Cannes Golf Club's links yesterday afternoon. The players were Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain, Premier Bonami of Italy and Lord Riddell on one side, and Premier Briand, Andrew Bonar Law and Sir Edward Grigg on the other.

The question of reparations, the economic situation and European affairs generally were discussed between holes. When the tenth hole had been reached, the golfers remembered they had called a Supreme Council meeting for 5 o'clock and had to abandon the game.

Honors were even when they quit.

By the Associated Press.

CANNES, France, Jan. 10.—Notification of indorsement by the British Cabinet of the written pledge binding Great Britain immediately to aid France to the full extent of her military and naval resources in case of aggression by Germany, is expected from London by tonight. The pact agreed upon by Premiers Briand and Lloyd George was telegraphed to the British capital last night.

The Council then planned to recess today until 5 p. m., while a subcommittee engaged in the delicate task of framing an invitation to the forthcoming international financial and economic conference to a country which has already formally accepted. This situation arose from the action of the Russian soviet Government, which, in its eagerness to be represented at the Genoa meeting, sent a regular acceptance to the Council's tentative query if an invitation would be acceptable under certain conditions.

German Reparations Question.

The Allied Reparations Commission arrived here from Paris today for conferences with the Germans tomorrow. Roland W. Boyden, the American representative with the commission, was a member of the party. It is understood that acceptance by France of the reparations decision is virtually certain. Agreement on this point will complete the work of the Council in all important particulars except for the conference with the Germans.

The program agreed upon by the experts here provides for payment in 1922 of 720,000,000 gold marks and at least an equal sum annually thereafter.

Want Ordered Finances.

The Council plans to impress upon the German delegates the fact that the allies cannot longer tolerate disorder in Germany's finances. Germany will be asked immediately to reduce the number of public functionaries, increase railroad freight and passenger rates and pass laws preventing exodus of capital. Upon the assurances the German delegation is able to give of carrying out these reforms depends the final decision of the Council as to whether to reinforce the guarantees to the allies as authorized by the treaty of Versailles.

The French have proposed that the allies appoint a commission to take charge of the German debt in case she defaults in the reparations payments.

Lloyd George, however, prefers to give the Germans a chance to put their finances in order and balance their budget before adoption of further measures of control.

A telegram received by the Supreme Council from Foreign Minister Tchitcherin last night, it is said, says that the Russian Government considers Genoa not suited as the site for the forthcoming international financial and economic conference. He declares the city too remote and the communication facilities insufficient, proposing London instead.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Great Day.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SO the Irish treaty has been ratified? What a day this is! Where is the poet who will write an epic on Ireland's struggles?

Everyone who assisted even in the tiniest way to bring about this happy consummation is deserving of the highest praise—from Lloyd George down. Sterling qualities of leadership were exhibited on both sides. There was a willingness to make concessions in the cause of peace. Of course, everyone is not pleased because it is not a miracle but a treaty, and if it secures for the Irish people a large measure of freedom and justice, they should be happy. Such things as the demolition of the British Empire and the application of square political principles to a round world should not especially interest the Irish people. These are topics that fledgling nations should not worry about.

The Irish people should be congratulated because they fought the good fight; they had the well-wishes of individuals the world over, and the well-intended advice of many enthusiasts who depicted the advantages of republican institutions, but there was no nation on the face of the earth that saw fit to protest their wrongs or espouse their cause, and even this now adds prestige to the result.

J. HALLORAN.

Russian Spoils.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF, as allies claim, Russia has been unable after these years of bolshevist rule to bolshevize her own people, and is ruling by the might of arms alone, why again have the allies made Russian participation in the coming conference conditional upon Russia desisting from propaganda?

If this propaganda has been so futile of results where tried out, what have the allies to fear from it?

No, as a matter of fact, the grand rush for Russian spoils is now on, but, as usual, Germany is the first on the ground, with Italy a poor second, and the balance of the allies trailing along after. It was a sinful thing for Russia to refuse payment of debts of the old regime, but there is nothing wrong in France, England, etc., trying to get out of their obligations to the U. S. JEFF.

Business Advice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THIS is in reply to a letter headed, "Wants Advice," and signed "A Father," published in the Post-Dispatch People's Column under date of Jan. 3, 1922.

Evidently you have studied the subject of safe investment sufficiently to convince yourself that you should investigate carefully any security you are solicited to buy. If you will follow this out, you will not make bad investments, will not suffer loss, and your hard-earned savings will not be dissipated and lost, but you will have something to support and comfort you whenever the "rainy" day comes.

There are two places to which you can go at all times free of charge to get information about any investment you are asked to put your money into. The first place is your bank, if you have one, and the second is our organization. We are particularly equipped to advise you concerning those investments which are of a highly speculative and hazardous nature, but if we know just what kind of a security you have in mind, we can direct you where you can get dependable and unbiased information about anything, in case we do not have it.

The services of the Better Business Bureau in this regard are open to the public free of charge and people are solicited to come to it. The whole purpose is to protect the savings and accumulations of people who, in the past, have been the particular prey of those who have been engaged in the occupation of selling fraudulent and worthless stocks and investments. Our endeavor is to take the people of St. Louis and vicinity out of the class of "suckers" and put them where they rightfully belong, in the category of prudent and cautious investors.

Yours very truly,
BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU OF ST. LOUIS.

"Widows of 40."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ADJUST or readjust or add to, only publish, and make it interesting:

Widow Club of 40 years wanted. Let's make the lonely woman of 40 or 45 happy. There are so many, and so much could be done. For some reason, unexplained, so many are left widows at that age, when companionship is needed more than any other time. Some seek the business world out of necessity, others from sheer loneliness. Some seek the social world. Some, charity work. But, after the day is over, again it is loneliness. So why not think of the happy way, where all can meet and form a club and see friends that interest them? Why not a wonderful large clubroom, and call it "Widows of 40"? Here is something for the good soul who has money and wonders what she could do to do good. The picture of a wonderful room, easy chairs, piano for the talented, a matron to keep everything cheery and to be appointed to keep all introduced. Such a place of comfort would naturally attract gentlemen, and they might get interested in the club ladies and join them in a cup of tea, (served by our matron) and they might get the habit and eventually it might happen there wouldn't be so many lonely widows.

WELL-WISHER.

FRANCE PUT TO THE TEST.

Lloyd George's action at Cannes in pledging the full naval and military assistance of Great Britain to France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany ought to allay France's fears, give her the security she has so insistently demanded and enable France to disavow the militaristic attitude which has been such a troublesome element in the efforts towards reconstruction.

The sincerity of France is now to be tested. The British pledge, assuming that the Cabinet ratifies Premier Lloyd George's instrument, is all that France can in reason ask. A good many points as to the origin of the World War are in dispute, and probably always will be, but it was the consensus in 1914, and still is, that Berlin's fateful decision was made on the assumption of Great Britain's neutrality. The possibility of another such mistake is now removed. Even should Germany again rise to a first-class military Power, with the old junker spirit again in control, she would know that an attack on France would mean another World War. With such knowledge, it is inconceivable that she would again cast the die.

As a matter of fact, French fears of another German invasion are regarded as groundless everywhere outside of France. And even in France Gen. Foch himself has said that Germany will not be able to wage another war in 40 years. It is certain as anything in the future can be that 40 years from now the last trace of junkerism will have been eradicated from German thought. In 40 years, unless everything goes topsy-turvy, Germany will have solidly established a democratic government and will have become one of the important factors in the maintenance of world peace and justice.

France, therefore, can dismiss the haunting dread of Germany from her mind. The one thing France has needed to reassure her is now hers. She is completely protected. She has the most ample security. She can now disband her armies, scrap her imaginary submarine necessities, relinquish her plans for further seizure and occupation of German territory and unite with the other nations in the great task of putting the world on a peace basis and henceforth appealing to reason, rather than force, in the settlement of international differences.

Great Britain has adequately met France's material requirements. It is now up to France to meet the world's moral requirements.

MATRIMONIAL HESITATION.

A strange and unprecedented manifestation has occurred in the news of late. In three instances at widely separated points within a fortnight or so brides-elect have decided at the eleventh hour, and perhaps the fifty-ninth minute, that they are not sure of their desire to wed and have caused the ceremony to be postponed. The last case of note was in St. Louis.

In two of the cases the bridal pairs have been socially prominent. In one instance the church was filled with wedding guests. It takes splendid courage on the part of a young woman to heed a reversal of heart at the last moment, particularly where prominence and publicity are involved.

What is the significance of this rapid succession of similar cases? Are the brides-elect taking courage from one another? Or are they growing more serious-minded as a reaction from the reckless matings of war time?

Anyhow, with more thought and hesitation there should be happier marriages and a gradual reduction of those spur-of-the-moment romances which end usually in the divorce court.

ANOTHER UNTERMYER SENSATION.

The latest sensation in the Lockwood committee's inquiry into building costs in New York is the charge by Attorney Untermyer that the General Electric Co., through its dominance of the manufacture of light bulbs, is exacting millions in excess of seemingly reasonable profits. The General Electric has vigorously denied the charge, which will be threshed out at this week's hearings.

An Untermyer indictment, of course, is not a proof of guilt, and in the meantime, therefore, the General Electric Co. is entitled to the presumption of innocence. It is of record, though, that during the Lockwood investigation Mr. Untermyer has frequently charged ruthless profiteering and frequently the accused, after indignant denials, have haltingly and tearfully pleaded guilty. It may be that the General Electric will prove the exception to the rule. Meanwhile it is to be noted that the Lockwood committee, through the prosecuting genius of Mr. Untermyer, has smashed a number of graft rings in the building industry in New York and freed that industry from unconscionable embargoes.

Something of Untermyer's capacity for digging up facts and courage in pressing them would likely produce similar results in many states, including Missouri.

A VICIOUS POLITICAL PRACTICE.

A St. Louis gunman, slain in conflict with the police, was found to carry an honorary commission as a State Game Warden. This authorized him to carry a revolver, and he died with that revolver clutched in his hand.

The State Game Commissioner, Mr. Middleton, explains that he issued this commission at the request of a St. Louis politician. It is known that many such commissions have been issued in this way, and probably other gunmen are similarly authorized to bear arms.

It is not so much the fault of the Game Commissioner that this is the case as it is the fault of a vicious political custom in Missouri. The office of State Game and Fish Commissioner has been for years the football of politics. One Commissioner after another has gone into office with the best of intentions, only to find the police powers of his Wardens become a menace to society. Enforcement of the game laws has been at times completely nullified by politics, and is at this moment in a partial state of paralysis.

The Game Commissioner cannot remedy this evil until political pressure is taken off his department. If he is a political creature to such an extent that politicians can compel him to arm professional gunmen and can close the courts to prosecutions under the game laws, then he is helpless. The last three Game Commissioners in Missouri have all been the unwitting tools of this custom. They have all armed at the peril of society men whom they have not known and of whose records and designs they were alike ignorant. They have all had to desist when the game laws touched some pet of politics, and have all left behind them careers of uselessness.

Only the Governor of Missouri can stop this evil practice. Governor Hyde can do it by standing behind his Game Commissioner and protecting him from the reprisals of politicians. He can send the Attorney-General in to enforce the law where local politics close the courts. If the Governor of Missouri will do this he will remove a menace to us all and increase the protection of game.

THE COLONEL AT CANNES.

Col. Harvey, it seems, had a narrow escape from death in that automobile accident at Cannes. Fortunately, his injuries are slight. Under the circumstances, therefore, it may be permissible to inquire why our Ambassador to England was in France.

It is known, of course, that an important meeting is being held at Cannes. The subject under discussion is the economic restoration of Europe. But that is no concern of ours. We washed our hands of Europe and its difficulties long ago. It might possibly be said, too, that Col. Harvey provided us with the washing machine with which we performed the ablution. It is not apparent, then, why we should have a representative there. What is apparent is that of all Americans Col. Harvey's presence is uniquely infelicitous, not to say malapropos.

Of course, we know Col. Harvey is not at Cannes as a participant. He is there as an observer. So it is a fair inference that, while the Harding administration cares nothing about what Europe does in the way of economic reconstruction, it is curious to know how Europe does it. Hence the Harvey presence.

Really it seems a trivial task for the stellar occupant of our highest diplomatic post. And think of jeopardizing such a life in such an inferior mission! Leonidas run over by a flivver! Alexander dying of measles! Julius Caesar inadvertently turning on the gas! The hypothetical exit in any case were no greater violation of the solemnities than Col. Harvey's demise on a cub reporter's assignment.

Destiny is no farceur. Not thus is the Colonel to be Cannesed.

THE LION AND THE RAM LIE DOWN TOGETHER.

JUST A MINUTE . .

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McAdams

THE United States would just as well confess her mistake and join the League of Nations. She is by this time involved so far that only the league can get her out, and we cannot see that anything is to be gained by keeping up the gesture of nonparticipation. The fight to keep us out of the league was lost at the outset. It was against all tradition that we should stay out of a movement seeking to relieve the world from the horrors of war, and happily we are not staying out of it. To be sure, we are using only the back door of the league and are availing ourselves of the cover of night for getting in and out; but everybody knows quite well what is going on.

It was never true, as some of our excited jingoes declared during the fight over the peace treaty, that the league is designed only to make more wars. It has already borne its fruits of peace, and it will continue to bear them. Its value to Europe is beyond calculation. Instead of old ententes and alliances which always ended in war, Europe has a concert of the whole to which she can refer causes precisely as we settle domestic causes in courts. She has done this several times since the league was instituted, and she is continuing to do it. Someone said recently that the League of Nations had already saved Europe from at least a half dozen considerable wars. It can only be a short time until it will save her from any wars between her constituent parts. It is only a question of a little time until Germany and Russia join the league. Their influence will complete the stabilization of the most trouble some continent in the world, and thanks to the league we may henceforth expect to have comparative peace.

Imagine a state of sanity like that in a world which has known nothing but war from the time of the Old Testament! War has been for thousands of years an obsession. We have today no end of people who believe as thoroughly that men always shall fight as people one time believed that the world is flat. We get our beliefs from our time. Whatever is held to be true by the majority we subscribe to without any thinking upon our own part, a habit which has kept us in darkness where we could always have dwelt in light. Men should live on this great beautiful planet as gods. That they have lived upon it only as beasts rending one another upon every field and by every sea is wholly outside the design of creation. It ought to thrill us to see the beginnings of a better era. We ought to be buoyed up by the news that more than 50 nations are now banded together in an association to settle international disputes without recourse to war. There have been men in the world who would have made the sky ring with their cheers had they witnessed any such turning about. We singularly seem to be little moved. We watch the old British empire become a federation of free states as if it were something which men had always seen and which had no more significance than most of the things recorded in Mr. Wells' outline of history. We see the great naval Powers agree upon cessation from competitive armament and one miracle of peace after another with little thought of how different the world is to be or what caused its transformation. Yet no such things occurred until now on earth through all the thousands of years of recorded history, and if we may guess from the Iliad of Homer peace had no place on earth in the time before history began.

When we go to the economic conference to begin in March we will have gone back pretty well to the point where we jumped the track. Our fortunes are inseparably bound with the fortunes of everyone else. Our business men have found out that the splendid isolation of which we boasted means only stagnation. Whatever it meant once in either its political or economic aspects, it means now that to cut ourselves off from the rest of the world is to see our mills idle, our ships tied up and millions of people out of work. The plight of our farmers alone is a sufficient indictment of what we formerly thought. They have all the splendid isolation they want, as all the rest of us have had. As the world's greatest, almost its only, creditor nation, we are going to its relief more than a year after we might and could have gone had blind men like Senators Reed and Borah, and political conspirators like Senator Lodge not kept us out of the League of Nations. Thank God, those people have the Government now and may do with full propriety what they would not let the Democrats do!

It does not, of course, make any difference who rights our course. We care only to have it righted. Not long ago Just a Minute talked to an editorial writer who had opposed the League of Nations. That gentleman boasted of having been right about the league from the outset. He had never been right about it, but if you will ask the people in the Senate who created the bugaboos fatal to our participation when we should have gone in they will tell you they were always right about it.

As a matter of fact, time is doing for us what we had not the courage and wisdom to do for ourselves. When the Pacific treaty comes up for ratification in the Senate you will hear the swan song of our dying provincialism. It will be sung by those long-robed warblers who made hideous the night of our late mistake. It will not last very long nor do any great harm. An aroused American conscience will hit them with a few well-hurled boots, and in the dawn of a new day they shall be forgotten.

The car was bound downtown in the rush hour of the morning. The larger the number of passengers that got on at each succeeding corner the more confused the conductor became in his efforts to make correct change and at the same time keep the rear platform from becoming congested. To add to his difficulties it seemed that most of the passengers presented large coins in exchange for tokens.

The car stopped to let on more people while he still was endeavoring to get those who entered a block behind up in the car. Just at this moment a woman, next to reach the fare box, presented a paper bill for change.

"Never mind your fare, madam," the conductor exclaimed, in apparent desperation, as he waved her into the car with both hands and told her to be seated. Surprised, she did as directed.

Before all those standing had paid their fares the woman returned to the conductor.

"I'll take a transfer, please," she declared.

She got it, too.

Leave it to the women.

Persia is joining the League of Nations. Maybe our ambition is to make it unanimous.

THE TIN CIGARETTE CASE.

You say, "It's cheap! It's only tin!"
Great Scott, man, why not look within?
The finest Turkish, hand-rolled; there
The fragrance of an unborn maiden's prayer,
Each pleasure-laden tube snug in its place.
With glee you hail them. Why then scorn the case?

And so with men. . . behind a homely face
The greatest virtues find their resting place.
Empty the tin, out rolls the Turkish rare;
Unsheath the soul, a noble heart lay bare;
Then say unto yourself, "Thank God, here is a man!"

I hope to God these simple verses scan!

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE SUBMARINE PROBLEM.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

IT appears that the French Government fears that its ally, Great Britain, will shoot up the French ports and therefore insists on unlimited equipment of submarines wherewith to shoot British surface ships away. Therefore, apparently, no agreement can be reached on the limitation of submarines. It will be agreed that they must not sink merchant ships if they cannot provide for the safety of their crews. Bearing in mind that whatever is done at Washington is only a beginning, the peoples of the nations must be content with what their respective Governments can be got to do at this time. As agreements must be unanimous to be useful if in respect to any one thing one Government refuses to agree with the others the world must put up with it and the obstinate Government must take its chances of a loss of good will. We are not of the opinion that France will greatly increase any form of its armament, even if at liberty to do so. France needs money and credit far more than it needs submarines. It can get neither so long as its expenses are regularly greater than its revenues from taxation and it cannot balance its budget without drastically cutting its expenditures for war. France is in no danger.

FEDERAL ROAD BUILDING.

From the New York Sun.

ROAD building in a country so vast as the United States must be done in a fairly big way to be effective, and recent figures given out by the Department of Agriculture indicate that the country has attacked its highway problem on a scale proper to its size. Since July, 1916, [illegible] miles of road have been built or contracted for with Federal aid at a total cost of a bit less than $500,000,000. These figures do not include the mileage of roads built without Government aid. The expense of modern road building may be gauged by the estimate of an average cost to the mile of $17,630. The Government has provided $211,135,276.31 of the total mentioned, indicating the extent to which the Federal Government has gone into the business of providing the nation with good roads. Nearly 10,000 miles of the highways are of one or another of the types of construction called permanent. Of the remainder, 10,000 miles are of gravel and nearly 3000 miles of sand-clay. The total includes several thousand miles of highways graded and drained. High costs of late have slowed down the building of permanent roads, but lower prices for materials and an abundance of cheaper labor should remedy matters in the coming year.

DR. HOWARD B. CROSS.

From the New York World.

IS it possible that Mexico, after all, is not the rude and uncivilized country it has been represented to be? The official tribute ordered by President Obregon for the late Dr. Howard B. Cross may dispel certain illusions in the minds of those who have viewed Mexico through the eyes of American oil and mining syndicates. In the official communication authorizing public honors for the dead physician the Mexican President referred to him as a martyr to science and showed a quite civilized degree of appreciation of the American scientist's services to humanity. It might seem, indeed, to an unprejudiced observer that Mexico has given Dr. Cross' own country a lesson in the matter of official recognition of distinguished humanitarian service. The young physician's death from yellow fever while on a mission to open a laboratory for the study of the disease which the Rockefeller Institute is establishing at Vera Cruz was one of the heroic sacrifices which ennoble modern medical research. As the officers of the institute say in a public statement, he "sacrificed his life for science and humanity." Yet, curiously enough, it is Mexico and not the United States that orders the [illegible] official honors to Dr. Cross.

MATTHEW G. REYNOLDS DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Former Judge, 66, Became Ill With Cold Few Days After Christmas.

Matthew Givens Reynolds, 66 years old, former Circuit Judge, and, for a brief period, President of the Police Board, died of pneumonia at 1:30 a. m. today at his home in the St. Regis Apartments, King's highway and Lindell boulevard.

He suffered a cold a few days after Christmas and went to Hot Springs, Ark., to recuperate. He felt much improved when he returned to St. Louis about a week ago, but almost immediately after his return pneumonia developed.

Naval Academy Graduate.

He was born in Bowling Green, Pike County, Mo., and in 1874 was graduated from the United States Naval Academy. Three years later he resigned from the navy, and in 1878 began practicing law. He opened an office in St. Louis in 1886. He served as a Judge of the Circuit Court from 1904 to 1908, and then returned to the practice of law in partnership with former Judge Thomas B. Harlan. He was president of the Police Board from April 15, 1914, to Aug. 22 of the same year, in the administration of former Gov. Hadley. He also served a term in the State Legislature, having been elected in 1880 from Pike County.

Judge Reynolds was active in the Republican group known as the "housecleaners," which took a prominent part in the last Republican national campaign. He led the campaign to oust Jacob Babler, Republican National Committeeman, following the Lowden fund disclosures, in which Babler, W. L. Cole, former chairman of the Missouri Republican Committee, and other prominent Republicans were involved. His efforts were largely responsible for the resignation of Cole and the lessening of the political influence of Babler, though the latter retained his position as Republican National Committeeman.

Figured in Factional Fight.

His retirement from the Police Board was the result of a factional fight between Gov. Hadley and the late Jeptha D. Howe, who at that time was Republican boss of St. Louis. Reynolds was said to have been out of sympathy with certain political movements here, which were backed by Gov. Hadley and opposed by Howe.

During the last few years he opposed what he termed "the boss element in Missouri politics," and in July, 1920, resigned membership on Senator Spencer's City Campaign Committee. He supported Gov. Hyde in the recent campaign.

He is survived by his widow, four daughters, Lucy and Mary Reynolds, who live at the family residence; Mrs. G. Grunert of Camp Dix, N. J., and Mrs. F. W. Meysenburg of Pittsburg, Pa., and two sons, John Reynolds of Detroit and Maj. Clark Reynolds, who is stationed in Honolulu.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, 3688 Lindell boulevard. The Rev. Z. B. T. Phillips, the pastor, will conduct the services. Active pallbearers will be Thomas B. Harlan, Chase Morsey, Carroll W. Harlan, Horace L. Dyer, P. S. Russell, Joseph Rankin, David Biggs and Clifton McMillan.

Among those who have been asked to serve as honorary pallbearers are Federal Judges Faris, Sanborn and Dyer, the following Judges who served with Judge Reynolds on the circuit bench: George H. Shields, James E. Withrow, William M. Kinsey, Moses N. Sale and John A. Talty; W. W. Nall, former Chief Deputy Clerk of the Federal Court; H. S. Priest, John Carter, Berry Moore, Daniel Kirby, Frank Nall and J. O. Wilson.

LENINE REPORTED INCENSED BY CZECH PRESIDENT'S STORY

Bolshevist Premier Peeved at Way Masaryk Gives Opinion of Russian Rule.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Nikolai Lenine, Russian Bolshevist Premier, is incensed, according to a Russian newspaper, over a satirical reference to him made by President Masaryk of Czecho-Slovakia. When asked by a Prague newspaper for his opinion of the Bolsheviki, M. Masaryk replied with the following story:

"When I was a small boy I was playing one morning in my father's farm yard with two or three other little fellows.

"One of these had in his hand a large whip. Presently he climbed to the top of a heap of dirt, struck a pose, cracked his whip several times and shouted: 'Who says I am not king?'"

JAMES Y. LOCKWOOD DIES AT 65

Member of Old St. Louis Family Succumbs to Heart Disease.

James Y. Lockwood, 65 years old, of Webster Groves, secretary and treasurer of the Southern Coal and Coke Co., died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital of heart disease. He was unmarried and lived in the Lockwood home at Lockwood avenue and the Big Bend road, erected before the Civil War and a landmark in St. Louis County. He was a member of Immanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves, erected by his father in 1866.

Lockwood is survived by a sister, Mrs. Walker Hill; two brothers, George and Charles Lockwood, and a half-brother, William Lockwood.

FORMER JUDGE DEAD AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

MATTHEW G. REYNOLDS. —Strauss Portrait.

CAPT. JOHN S. BATES, RETIRED, DIES IN ARIZONA

His Wife, Daughter of Julius S. Walsh, Was Killed by Mistake by Deputy Sheriffs in 1916.

Capt. John Savage Bates of the United States Marine Corps, retired, whose late wife was formerly Miss Josephine Dickson Walsh, daughter of Julius S. Walsh of St. Louis, died yesterday at Tucson, Ariz., after three days' illness with pleural pneumonia. He was 44 years of age. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Capt. Bates was driving with his wife in an automobile near Tucson on April 11, 1916, when Mrs. Bates was shot and instantly killed by a volley fired into the machine by two deputy sheriffs and a policeman, who mistook the car for one containing persons who had figured in the robbery of a roadhouse.

According to Capt. Bates' testimony, the officers gave them no time to stop and opened fire when they were within close range of the car. Mrs. Bates was hit at the first volley and died without regaining consciousness. The three officers were tried for second degree murder and got sentences of 10 to 15 years. A move was also started to recall the Sheriff of the county, but the action resulted in his favor.

Capt. Bates was the son of the late Capt. George S. Bates of the United States Navy. His family came from Maryland. He had lived 10 years in Tucson. Three children survive.

PREACHER CONTRASTS PRESS AND BIBLE IN HANDLING CRIME

Chicago Cleric Says Reason for and Rebuke of Transgression Is Most Important.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Both the newspapers of today and the Bible report crime, but the Bible does it in the right way, the Rev. Charles Monroe Sheldon, editor of a religious weekly, declared last night in an address Before the Medill School of Journalism, here.

The Rev. Sheldon 20 years ago accepted the offer of the editor of the Topeka (Kan.) Capitol to conduct that newspaper for a week as he thought "Jesus would like to have it conducted," and the experiment aroused comment in all parts of the country.

In comparing the methods of modern newspapers in handling crime items with that of the Bible, the speaker pointed out that the Bible gave only a few lines in telling of David's commission of adultery, and murder, but several pages to the prophet's rebuke.

"That was important," he said. "It would be important now, not the morbid and horrible details of the crime, to daily pour the contents of the gutter into your home, but the reason for the crime and the rebukes, the reason for the holdups and the social conditions that cause them."

55 ROAD BUILDING PROJECTS SCHEDULED FOR PARLEY TODAY

Proposed Expenditures of $1,800,000 Will Be Considered by State Highway Commission.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—Fifty-five highway construction projects, involving proposed expenditures aggregating $1,800,000, will be presented to the State Highway Commission today, at its meeting here. These projects, which are approved, will be advertised preparatory to the letting of contracts.

This is the second regular meeting of the Hyde commission and will be the first since last October at which delegations have been able to present local road problems. In consequence, delegations from 23 counties are scheduled to appear to present various proposals.

Chairman Gary of the commission, and all of the divisional heads of the Highway Department, were guests at a dinner last night given by J. G. Hughes, Director of Finance, and Dr. E. B. Clements, chairman of the Republican State Committee, both of Macon.

St. Louis U. Fund Meeting Tonight.

A special meeting of the general committee of the St. Louis University Centennial Endowment Fund, at which the reports of the work of the various subcommittees will be submitted, has been called by Col. James W. Byrnes, executive chairman, for 8 o'clock tonight at the university. The total of the desired $3,000,000, which has been subscribed to date, is $930,800.

DOUGLASS-GOODRICH WEDDING THIS EVENING

Ceremony Will Take Place at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church at 8 O'clock.

THE marriage of Miss Virginia Douglass, daughter of Mrs. Anna Virginia Douglass of Webster Groves, and Dr. Harold Arrott Goodrich, also of Webster, will be solemnized at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church at 8 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Dr. David M. Skilling will officiate, and the ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother.

Mrs. P. R. King of Edinburg, Ind., will be matron of honor, and Miss Katherine Starr, maid of honor. Hilliard Miller will serve Dr. Goodrich as best man, and Dr. J. H. Williams will be groomsman. The ushers will include Horace Beck, Walter Warren, Dr. John R. Armstrong and Dr. Joseph Larimore.

The bride's gown will be of white satin veiled in tulle, with panels of the same material, pearl-embroidered. The cap sleeves will also be of tulle. A court train of tulle, weighted at the end with a deep band of satin, will be suspended from the shoulders, and the tulle veil will be held to the coiffure with clusters of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. King will wear a gown of cloth-of-silver and jade green, made with a long waist and a short train of the silver cloth falling from the silver girdle. The end of the train will be ornamented with a garland of French flowers.

Miss Starr's gown, of changeable silver and rose taffeta, will be made in the same fashion, and both attendants will carry arm bouquets of pink roses tied with broad bands of silver ribbon.

After a honeymoon trip in the South, Dr. and Mrs. Goodrich will reside at 324 East Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves.

Social Items

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Shepley of 53 Portland place will entertain with a dinner party this evening for their daughter, Miss Margaret Shepley. The guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Ethan A. H. Shepley, Miss Mary Etta Randolph, Miss Dorothy Simmons and Miss Elizabeth Cook and Messrs. Lannan Benoist, Whitelaw Terry, Marion Niedringhaus and Slocum. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Shepley will chaperon the members of the party to the theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West of 48 Westmoreland place will entertain with a dance Friday evening at the St. Louis Country Club, in honor of Mr. West's sister, Miss Frances West. Miss West, accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. West, will depart the latter part of this month for Winter Park, Fla., to spend the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. A. P. Biddle of Detroit and her daughter, Miss Beatrice Biddle, arrived this morning to be the guests of Mrs. John Young Brown of 5089 Waterman avenue. Mrs. Brown will entertain tomorrow with a luncheon in honor of her guests, and Thursday Mrs. John Ockerson will give a bridge-luncheon for them at the Woman's Club. Friday, Mrs. William Samuel Scott of 4584 West Pine boulevard will be hostess at a similar affair. Mrs. Biddle and Miss Biddle will be honor guests at a bridge-luncheon to be given next Tuesday by Mrs. Brown.

Miss Frances Clover of 4939 West Pine boulevard was hostess at a luncheon today for several debutantes. She will give a similar affair tomorrow. The guests for today included Misses Dorothy Simmons, Mary Etta Randolph, Irene Goddard, Frances West, Katherine Louise Crunden, Elizabeth Cook and Audrey Faust.

The guests for tomorrow will be Misses Julia Fay Carton, Elizabeth Luyties, Dorothy McBride, Elizabeth Benoist, Mary Denman Clark, Elise Garneau and May Cabanne.

Mrs. Lacy Crawford of 5635 Waterman avenue, her daughter, Mrs. Charles McLean Carr, and Mrs. Lida Bevis will go to New York to attend the wedding of Mrs. Bevis' nephew, Bevis Longstreth, and Mrs. Mary Shirras White of New York, which will take place Jan. 27.

Mrs. Leila Hattersley of New York is the guest of Mrs. William Orthwein and Mr. Orthwein of 11 Beverly place. Before returning she will visit Mrs. Josephine Salorgne Scullin.

Miss Margaret Caradine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Caradine, of 30 Portland place; Miss Alice Scott, daughter of Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott, and Misses Elizabeth, Mary and Margaret Carter, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter, will depart tonight for Farmington, Conn., to resume their studies. Misses Frances Collins, Louise Bemis and Lenore Scullin will return to Farmington in a few days.

Miss Helena White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. White, of 5603 Cates avenue, was hostess at a bridge party this afternoon, in honor of her guest, Miss Dorothy Hart, of Cincinnati. There were five tables.

Mrs. W. C. Harris and her son, Blyce Harris, of St. Joseph, Mo., are the guests of Mrs. Maxwell Kennedy of 5829 Bartmer avenue. Mrs. Harris was formerly Miss Marjorie Adriance of St. Louis.

Mrs. Ames Cushman, accompanied by Miss Marian Franciscus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Franciscus of 16 Lenox place, will sail Friday from Vancouver for Honolulu. They will remain away about five months.

Mrs. Clarence O. Gamble of 5391 Pershing avenue will depart this evening for New York, where she will visit her brother, Harry Knight.

Miss Maud A. Miner of Chicago will read "The White-headed Boy" in the ballroom of the St. Louis Woman's Club, Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Among the patronesses are Mmes. Kate M. Howard, Clay E. Jordan, I. W. Morton, W. C. McBride, Firman Desloge, A. M. de Menil, W. T. Hill, J. Harry Pohlman, J. G. Lonsdale, John O. Ockerson, W. C. Bitting, David C. Evans, J. O'Fallon, Delany, Charles Madill, E. G. Scudder, M. F. Watts, E. A. Ruf, Byron Nugent, W. Woodruf, Henry W. Peters, H. L. Parker, Benton Pollock, Peyton T. Carr, William Bagnell, W. E. Brown, Dwight Tredway and William Keech.

The marriage of Miss Mercedes Cecilia Mulrooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mulrooney of 5074 Maple avenue, and John Charles Hockery of Kansas City took place at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mark's Church, the Rev. Father O'Rourke officiating. A wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. Miss Mary Hockery of Kansas City, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Mary Elizabeth Flynn, Helen Gibson and Virginia Burke. The bride's brother, John J. Mulrooney Jr., served as best man, and the groomsmen were John Crow, Edward Hogan of Kansas City and Vincent Flynn.

The bride wore a gown of white velvet, ornamented with seed pearls, made with a close-fitting bodice and long flowing sleeves bordered with pearls. The draped skirt is caught with strands of pearls which fall from the pearl girdle and hang below the hem. Her court train was of velvet, lined with silver cloth, and the tulle veil was arranged under a coronet of old lace and adorned with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor wore a gown of pink chiffon velvet, draped, and trimmed with cloth of silver. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in pink, blue and orchid velvet, respectively, fashioned like Miss Hockery's, and all the attendants wore black velvet hats with streamers of silver ribbon, and carried Russell roses tied to shepherd crooks with ribbon to match their gowns.

Mr. Hockery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hockery of Kansas City, and after the honeymoon trip the couple will make their home in that city.

Mrs. Charles C. Peterson of 2056 Lafayette avenue and her daughters, Misses Dorothy Mae and Marie Peterson, have returned from Los Angeles.

"KING OF SWAT" REIGNS OVER ORPHEUM SUBJECTS

The Who's Who of vaudeville gives way to the What Swat this week at the Orpheum, where Babe Ruth, champion home-run hitter of baseball, is the headliner by virtue of what he did last summer and probably will do next summer rather than by reason of any excellence of his current performance on the stage. In the Thespian League Babe's batting average is about .007, but he shows up well in the box office score and gives sport-hungry fans a chance to sit at the feet of their idol, which is all that could be desired or expected.

In putting his act over he is ably assisted by Wellington Cross, comedian, and Dean Moore, pianist. Ruth appears first in uniform and then in street clothes. He shows how he swings his bat, makes a bluff at singing the chorus of a comic song and participates with Cross in a burlesque mind-reading stunt.

A remarkable feature on the bill is a marionette show called Schichtl's Royal Wonderettes. Here the manipulator of the strings begins where others leave off. It would be impossible to think of an act more appealing to children. It falls in nicely with the Ruth engagement, as many juveniles will be in this week's audiences to see the "King of Swat."

Venita Gould returns after a long absence with her inimitable imitations of stage stars. Her act is the "class" of the program. Moran and Mack have a funny blackface turn, in the main original, but using some of the lines made famous by the Swor Brothers. Jerome and France have a fair musical act. "Indoor Sports" is a moderately amusing courtship sketch. The La Maze Trio are acrobats and Mang and Snyder perform feats of strength.

9-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOOTS SELF BECAUSE HIS TERRIER DIED

"I Want to Die Too," Sobs Lad Who Wounds Self in Leg.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Nine-year-old Russell Mueller today is in a hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his right thigh. He shot himself after his Boston terrier "Peggy" died yesterday.

Last night a policeman visited the lad's home. He took his pistol from its holster and tucked it behind a cushion on a davenport.

Then he, with the boy's mother and other guests, went into another room. A moment later the crash of a shot stopped their laughter.

They found the boy crumpled on the floor, the big police pistol in his hand. Doctors fear the leg bones are shattered and that Russell will be crippled for life.

OKUMA, WHO REVIVED AFTER REPORTED DEATH, SUCCUMBS

Posthumous Honors Are Conferred on Elderly Japanese Statesman by Emperor Yoshihito.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Jan. 10.—Marquis Okuma died early today. Posthumous honors have been given by Emperor Hoshihito. The court rank, junior grade, was conferred and the decoration of the Grand Cordon of the Chrysanthemum with collar was given in recognition of the services for the state.

Three days ago he fell into a coma so profound that his physicians pronounced him dead, and the statement was telegraphed throughout the world. He revived, but was unable to recover.

Woman Dies of Gas Poisoning.

Mrs. Nellie Watson, 44 years old, died at the city hospital at 9 o'clock last night from the effects of gas poisoning. She was found unconscious Sunday afternoon in bed in a third-floor room she occupied at 2945 Olive street. A gas heater in the room was turned on, but not lighted.

ARMY BILL ESTIMATES ARE $32,593,995 LESS THAN 1921

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Drafting of the annual army appropriation bill was begun yesterday when members of the House subcommittee that will prepare the measure submitted budget estimates of $363,762,417 for War Department expenditures during the coming fiscal year as compared to total appropriations of $396,356,412 for the current year. Chairman Anthony said hearings would continue for a month or more and that the measure would not be ready for the House before March.

The estimates submitted to Congress call for an army, after July 1, approximating the present size—about 140,000 men. Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee is said to be opposed to any drastic cut, while Anthony said he had given no encouragement to the small army advocates.

In preparing the bill the subcommittee will first consider its non-military phases, such as river and harbor improvements. The budget estimates for nonmilitary purposes total $53,000,000.

Work on the navy appropriation bill, it was said, will not begin until after the close of the armament conference. The present schedule calls for the beginning of hearings Feb. 20.

Just As the Boxing Game Is Getting Along O. K., They Prepare to Hand It a K. O.

City Boxing Body Will Not Stop Tonight's Bouts, but Club May Be Prosecuted

Commission Authorized by Ordinance Decides to Let Noye-Wilson and Other Matches Proceed, but Will Enforce Law Later, if Promoters Have Not Complied With It.

By John E. Wray.

"Redcap" Wilson (Giovanni Terranova) of New York and Johnny Noye of St. Paul, lightweights, will be permitted to go through with their 12-round boxing event, which is scheduled to be the feature of tonight's fistic program at the Coliseum arena it was announced at noon today. Three other bouts on the card will, of course, also be allowed to proceed.

All this, notwithstanding the tangle of authority between the city boxing commission recently authorized by ordinance, and the boxing committee appointed six months ago by Victor J. Miller, president of the Police Board.

Up to an early hour today it appeared that the program might be abridged, as the new city commission had announced that it intended to see that the law regarding the issuance of liceses to promoters, boxers, officials, etc., was enforced. The new city commission had notified Chief of Police Martin O'Brien that he would be expected to enforce city ordinance No. 31,407, and the promoters of the show were notified that the law requiring licenses would be insisted upon.

Chief O'Brien today stated that he would be at ringside ready to make any arrests necessary; and the promoters of the club had insisted that they would not take out licenses for themselves or the boxers.

New Commission Meets.

Just as the situation appeared to promise the stopping of the bouts, the new city commission went into session, in the City Counselor's office at the City Hall. After a meeting lasting one and one-half hours, one of the commissioners, answering a direct question as to what would happen at tonight's show, replied:

"We will not raise a finger, but if the club does not heed the advice given it from many sources recently, then the club must answer to the city."

"Then there will be a show at the Coliseum tonight?"

"I suppose there will be, and there should," the Commissioner replied.

"Is the city boxing law legal?"

"That is not for the Boxing Commission to decide. The law is on the books and as such must be enforced. We are here to enforce the statute," was the reply.

One of the commissioners gave it as his opinion that the club should heed good advice and take out licenses and comply with other provisions of the law, and that then everything would go along smoothly.

The Commissioner asserted that it was the plan of the commission to put boxing in this city on a plane fitting a municipality of the size of St. Louis.

Both Bodies Favor Boxing.

The complicated situation has resulted from a clash of authority as between the committee appointed to regulate boxing by President Miller of the Police Board, some six months ago, and the newly named boxing commission authorized by city ordinance. Both bodies are made up of business men, all strongly in favor of continuing the game.

The Police Board committee had accomplished many reforms and was popular. In addition, there was a feeling that the new city ordinance was not legal. The city boxing commission was named Jan. 6, with a boxing show authorized by the Police Board committee, scheduled for Jan. 16. The new body had hardly had time to organize and form rules and regulations when it was called upon to deal with the Noye-Wilson bout tonight.

Confusion has resulted and apparently it has been decided to be lenient with this first show, under the new ordinance, rather than start an action that might injure the game.

The Police Board commission has, from the beginning, maintained that it would remain in control of the situation and has expressed the view that the city ordinance was not valid. Tonight's affair, if arrests are made after the show, will serve as a test case.

Both the Police Board Committee and the City Boxing Commission members are serving without pay. Under the Police Board rules 5 per cent of the gate receipts from boxing shows goes to the benefit of recreation grounds or municipal sports. Under the city ordinance, the 5 per cent goes into the general fund, after commission expenses are paid.

Commission Buys Seats.

Passes have been issued as usual to the police board boxing committee, but none for the commission provided for by city ordinance. To avoid friction the members of the new commission have joined the club as members and have purchased seats.

Main Event Promising.

If allowed to go forward the fight card should prove interesting, especially the main event, a 12-round match between Redcap Wilson of New York and Johnny Noye of St. Paul. Both boys are willing mixers, hard hitters and have no such word as flinch in their vocabularies. They are two boys of type, according to their records, and this makes for an interesting set-to.

The other bouts scheduled are:

Orb Jolly vs. Al Thomas, eight rounds; Jimmy Gorry vs. George Plovich, six rounds, and Elmer Kress and Morris King, four rounds. Harry Sharpe will referee all bouts.

Starting time for the opening event is 8:30 p. m.

Leonard Agrees to Box Three Men Before June; War With Rickard Ends

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. WAR between Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, and Billy Gibson, manager of Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard, which was declared a few weeks ago, was called off yesterday. Gibson and Rickard buried the hatchet with the result that Leonard has agreed to box three men at Madison Square Garden, Rickard's headquarters, before the first of June.

One of these bouts will be for the lightweight title. Leonard's foe in this match has not been named, as yet, but the agreement stipulates that for this bout Leonard must weigh 135 pounds at 2 p. m. on the day of the battle.

Leonard's other foes have not been named but it is assumed that Welterweight Champion Jack Britton will be one of them.

Soldan's Captain On Hospital List

Syl Hirsch Probably Lost to Basketball Team for Rest of the Season.

Coach White, the new director of Soldan High School athletics, is making strenuous efforts to build up a winning quintet for the Union avenue school. White is having difficulty in placing a five which can overcome the two recent defeats in the interscholastic contests.

Capt. Syl Hirsch probably will be lost to the team, the coach stated. Hirsch has been suffering from a bad knee, which has been very slow healing, and the captain has decided to take a complete rest.

Soldan has been playing many games with teams other than the interscholastic and White believes the workouts have been beneficial. Principia and Ranken will be met in the near future and the coach stated that he would seek a game with Dan Savage's St. Louis U. High, the present city champions.

Soldan will take the floor next week wearing new uniforms. The complete uniform will be white, broken only by the school insignia.

McKinley Has Husky Team.

McKinley boasts one of the huskiest quints of the league. The team is green and lacks polish, but this fault will no doubt be overcome in the near future.

Coach Kattenhenry has two good men under cover, "Dutch" Syberg, all-city floor guard of the 1921 interscholastic, has transferred from Cleveland to McKinley and will be available for the Crimson on Feb. 4. Lueders is another likely looking youngster who will be eligible on that date. With these additions the South Side five will give the leaders a hard battle.

Central Well Coached.

Coach Callan of Central has done great work with a squad of green material. The Red and Black have displayed good court strategy so far this season. There is a tendency to rely too largely on Hebberger, who is a real star, to do all the scoring. This fault must be overcome if the mid-city quintet hopes to defeat Bert Fenenga's Cleveland five.

Central and Cleveland will meet Jan. 21 and a hard battle is expected. Fenenga possesses 10 men of good caliber and both of his squads are well versed in the rudiments of the game. The Carondelet five is composed of rangy, heavy men and there has been too much hard play on the floor whenever they have been hard pressed. This is no doubt caused by the keen competition for place on the first team, but should nevertheless be corrected.

Yeatman Team Improves.

The North Side charges of Coach Barr showed much improvement Saturday night against Cleveland. The North Siders were erratic in shooting, mainly because of the fact that they were outweighed and outreached.

SPORT SALAD

By L. C. Daus

AN AWARD OF MERIT.

WHEN I was a lad I served a term
As charter member of a stick-up firm;
I took things easy and was fond of fun
And in my pocket I carried a gun.
I carried that gun so carefulee
That they made a game warden out of me.

When the night was dark I'd hit the trail
And go in search of the elusive kale.
I was so modest that I changed my name
While reaping honors in the stick-up game.
I played that game so carefulee
That they made a game warden out of me.

Now all young men who would cut some ice
Just give a listen to this sound advice:
All kinds of labor you must strictly shun
With your hand on the trigger of a well-oiled gun.
Be your purpose firm and your aim so true
That they'll make a game warden out of you.

QUITE SO.

Looks like the police have declared an open season on "honorary" game wardens.

Washington Five Loses Its Second M. V. Court Game

Missouri Basket Team Gains 45—26 Victory Over Applegran's Outfit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 10.—Playing clean, hard basketball, the Missouri Tigers won their second Missouri Valley Conference game here last night, defeating Washington University, 45 to 26.

The Pikers took a lead in the first few minutes of the game and were out in front for more than half of the opening period. Then the Tiger offense broke through and the Missouri five took a lead which it held for the remainder of the game. At the end of the first half the score was: Missouri 19, Washington 12.

The game was the cleanest exhibition of basketball ever staged here between Missouri and Washington. Both teams fought every minute of the way, but neither resorted to questionable tactics.

Thompson Stars for Pikers.

At the start of the game the Piker defense was iron-bound, and the Missouri attack was ragged. It was not until the second period was half over that the Tigers really broke away for a safe lead.

Tommy Thompson, Piker captain, was the outstanding star of the visitors, with 10 free throws out of 15 chances, and two field goals. Captain George Bond of the Tigers, however, carried off scoring honors with 21 points, eight field goals and seven free throws from 11 chances.

An injury to Thumser in the first period delayed the start of the second half. The Piker guard, however, was able to return to the game.

The lineups:

SEVEN BASKET GAMES SCHEDULED THIS WEEK BY MISSOURI SCHOOLS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 10.—President George H. Pritchard of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association has announced that seven members of the organization will engage in basketball games during the latter part of this week in various parts of the State. Five games are carded and three of them are conference battles. It is a light schedule for the opening of the season, but after this week things will begin to pick up. A score or more games will be played almost every week during the season.

Of special interest this week will be two inter-state games. One of these will be between McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill., and Central Wesleyan College of Warrenton, this being one of a series of games to unofficially decide the championship of Methodist schools of the two States; in the other the Cape Girardeau Teachers will play an Illinois quintet at Carbondale, Ill., Friday night, in the first of a series of games. The week-end schedule is as follows:

Thursday.

Friday.

Junior College of Kansas City and Missouri Valley, at Marshall.

Drury and Culver Stockton of Canton, at Springfield.

FABER EXPECTS GOOD SEASON WITH CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Urban "Red" Faber is back in Chicago after a vacation in his home town, Cascade, Ia., and the pitching ace of the White Sox says reports that he is looking forward to another great year with Comiskey's team.

The operation on his right knee two months ago, which gave rise to rumors that the big fellow never again would be the same, has proved a success, he asserts, and he has come here to take special treatments that are expected to hurry along his complete recovery.

The doctor who performed the operation is giving the joint electrical baths to restore a little more life to the affected points, it was explained. Several weeks of this is counted upon to put Faber back on his feet in excellent shape. However, it is pointed out that the real test of the success of the operation will be a tryout in the spring camp. Faber intends to stay in Chicago until the training trip, but if his physician feels that he should have a warmer climate, he says that he will go to Hot Springs, Ark., and stay there until spring.

Faber's contract with the Sox has one more year to run and even though his belief that he will regain accustomed form is incorrect, he is sure of his berth for that length of time, it was pointed out.

McHugh Beats Farese.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 10.—Terry McHugh, the Allentown (Pa.) bantamweight, defeated Harold Farese of Newark in 10 rounds here last night, having the better of eight of the rounds.

CIRCUIT OFFICIALS DO NOT FAVOR DETROIT

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—Prospects of Grand Circuit racing in the vicinity of Detroit this season did not appear very bright last night. Although nothing definite was given out, interviews with the stewards showed the majority not in favor of granting permits to Kenilworth Park managements. It also was said that the application of the Detroit Driving Club, which had planned to race at Devonshire, was received too late.

The Devonshire and Kenilworth tracks are situated at Windsor, Ontario, across the river from Detroit.

The annual meeting of the Grand Circuit Stewards opened yesterday with the rules and schedules committees in formal session. The results of the meetings were not announced, pending action by the stewards in executive session this afternoon.

The only official information given out was that Lexington will not curtail its meeting to one week, as had been reported. Lexington will continue its two weeks' racing card and also its past program relative to futurities and valuation of stakes.

WRESTLING BOUT WILL BE DECIDED BY ROUNDS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A world's championship wrestling match, which will be decided by rounds instead of by falls alone, will be held here soon, Johnny Meyers, middleweight champion, and John Kilonis last night posting forfeits for the contest on a date yet to be named.

The match will be held here under the new White Rules, which call for 15-minute rounds with a referee's decision. It will be the first in Chicago in more than a year and the first under the city's recently formed wrestling commission. The men agreed to weigh in at 160 pounds.

Intercollegiate Body to Take in Entire Country

Probabilities Strong That Michigan University Will Try to Land 1923 Games.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Expansion of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics of America into a nation-wide organization and staging of the annual championship games in sections of the country other than the East appear to be likely developments at the annual meeting here on March 4.

Proposed amendments to the constitution and statements made at the joint meeting of the Executive and Advisory Committees here last week are said to indicate a broadening of the scope of the oldest collegiate sport governing body of America.

One of the most important amendments will provide that a college holding membership in the I. C. A. A. A. would not be dropped in case it were not represented in the titular track and cross-country championships at least once in two consecutive years.

This, it is explained, would open the way for permanent membership for such institutions as California and Leland Stanford on the Pacific Coast and Michigan in the Middle West, which have competed in the past, as well as the leading universities of the South, Southwest and the Rocky Mountain sections with standard university eligibility rules.

Competition would hinge entirely upon membership and conformity to the I. C. A. A. A. A. regulations and eligibility code without compulsory restriction relative to continuity of such competition.

West May See Games.

That the adoption of such amendment might result in the 1922 championship games being held in the Middle West is not unlikely. It is reported that the first step in this direction will be made in the presentation of an invitation from the University of Michigan to stage the titular meet at Ann Arbor next May or certainly not later than 1923. Nominally the 1922 games would go to the University of Pennsylvania in the ordinary altercation between Harvard and Pennsylvania.

Last year's games were held in the Harvard stadium and were won by the University of California by half a point from Harvard. Pennsylvania athletic authorities have stated, however, that owing to the reconstruction of the Franklin Field stadium this spring the usual invitation will not be extended.

Work will start immediately after the annual Penn relay carnival and the field will not be suitable for further track competition until next fall.

The University of Michigan has an up-to-date stadium and field which compares favorably with the best in the East. The Wolverines have competed many times in the Eastern I. C. A. A. A. A. meets, scoring well up among the leaders. With California holding the track and field title, won last spring, it is thought that delegates to the meeting here in March will give far more than casual consideration to the invitation from Michigan, should it be presented with the sanction of the athletic council of the Ann Arbor University.

BURKETT IS CONSIDERING BOSTON COLLEGE OFFER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Jesse Burkett, the old-time Cleveland and St. Louis slugger, who was attached to the Giants as coach and scout last year, may not return to the world's champions for the 1922 season. After many years of successful coaching at Holy Cross College, Burkett came back to his old love, the majors, and now is considering an offer made by Boston College.

McGraw said today that Burkett was welcome to remain with the Giants, as he was considered a valuable part of the veterans' corps, of which Cozy Dolan and Hughie Jennings are the other members.

If Burkett accepts the Boston College berth, John Evers, who was the Giants' nemesis while a member of the Cubs, may have a place on McGraw's board of strategy.

QUINN IS SCHEDULED TO DEPART FOR SOUTH

Bob Quinn, business manager of the Browns, is scheduled to depart for the South today in search of a 1922 training camp for Lee Fohl's aggregation. The team trained at Bogalusa, La., last spring, but there is some misunderstanding with officials of that place. Quinn has received several offers from places in Louisiana.

The Browns will get an early start on spring training, the pitchers and catchers departing Feb. 22, while the regulars are booked to go South March 4.

Zbyszko Wins Match.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 10.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, world's wrestling champion, won two out of three falls from Armas Lallinen at the Auditorium here last night. Zbyszko won the first fall with a double arm roll in 2:10. Laitenen won the next fall with a headlock in 29 minutes. Zbyszko won the third fall with a flying mare in 11:20.

Fisher Defeats Hodnik.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 10.—Jack Fisher, lightweight wrestling champion of the world, successfully defended his title against Johnny Hodnik of Litchfield, here last night, winning in straight falls. Both falls came when Fisher applied a drop toe hold on his opponent.

Centre Team's 'Cursing' Vocabulary Impressed Referee in Arizona Game

By Robert Edgren.

(Copyright, 1922.)

SAW Centre play that submarine game with Arizona. Submarine is right. Nothing else could describe it. A solid week of rain turned Southern California into a lake. Bridges were out and roads were washed away. Trains stopped running; the great concrete stadium at San Diego looked down on a field the Romans would have used for a sea fight between galleys.

No turf—just pools of water and a watery, slithery soft brown mud. The game should have been played in bathing suits. Centre men compromised by leaving off their stockings. It wasn't football. It was water polo with variations.

As they don't have water over in Arizona, the Arizona team didn't know how to behave, but the Centre team paddled through opposition to the 38-0 score without needing a pulmotor.

After the game I asked Referee Evans what, in his opinion, was its outstanding feature. As he was down there in the swim he got a lot of inside stuff that couldn't be seen from the grand stand because of the splashing.

"Well," said Mr. Evans, "the thing I noticed most was the cursing. I've refereed a lot of games, but I never heard anything like it before. Arizona was just average at cursing. They had a few novel expressions from over in the horned toad country, but nothing at all startling to the trained ear. I don't know but that Stanford or some of the coast colleges could have laid over them a bit in originality and emphasis.

McMillin's Biting Tongue.

"But Centre! That's what struck me. Not a man in the lineup used a single cuss-word. Bo McMillin did all the cussing for the Centre team. I never heard anything like the line Bo pulled. The strongest word he used was 'marvelous,' but every time he snapped it out you could see the whole Centre team quiver as if he'd whiplashed 'em. When he wanted variety he'd use the word 'wonderful.' All the cussing I've ever heard was mild as milk beside the insulting, sarcastic bite Bo could put into those two words.

"When Centre's line cracked a few times in the second half and let Arizona break through down after down to Centre's five-yard line, Bo was fairly raving. The Arizona bunch would smash through and start to climb over Bo and as he made the tackle he'd yell:

"'Marvelous—marvelous!'

"Then as they lined up again Bo would say sarcastically:

"'Wonderful line—wonderful!'

"There isn't a cuss word in the language that would have sounded half as insulting to his men, and pretty soon they were so mad they tramped Arizona into the mud and walked on 'em. You saw it!

Nothing Escapes Him.

"Bo is some general, I'll say," went on Evans. "He sees everything and he criticises every man who doesn't play his position. After some plays he'd yell: 'Marvelous!—you didn't play out far enough on that end; you're up too high; you can't stop 'em that way.'

"He'd see everything and check up on everything that went wrong.

"It was funny—the line of talk Centre had. They'd call to each other:

"'Look out. I'm going around left end and I'm swinging wide this time. Here I come.'

"Then he'd do it.

"In the third period Bartlett went in for Armstrong. Centre had the ball seven yards from Arizona's goal. Bo was calling the plays instead of signals.

"'Roberts,' he said, 'you go back and take this over.'

"Roberts dropped back.

"'No, wait a moment,' said Bo. 'Check! Bartlett, you haven't made a touchdown yet, have you?'

"'No,' said Bartlett.

"'Well, Roberts you go back to the line. Bartlett, you take this one and go wide around left end, for the touchdown. Now'—

"Bartlett made it. Arizona knew where he was coming, and couldn't stop him—it was that easy! They took turns making touchdowns, one each for McMillin, Roberts, Armstrong, Covington, Bartlett and Snoddy."

Another Leonard Coming.

There has been an impression around New York for a couple of years that Benny Leonard was grooming Joe Benjamin to step into his shoes as lightweight champion when Benny grows too opulent or too heavy to go on fighting in the class. But nothing of the sort. If Benny ever had such a notion it has disappeared. It's rumored he even views Benjamin's increasing skill with annoyance.

The reason why? Benny has other plans. He thinks it would be much better to keep the championship—a fine financial asset—in the family. Benny has a younger brother, Joe Leonard, who has been boxing in gymnasiums for three or four years.

"He has more natural speed and fighting ability than I ever had when I was working my way to the top," Benny told me. "He's better built and he can box and hit like a champion right now."

Benny discouraged Joe's ambition to begin fighting at a tender age. He wants his brother to have a fair education and having gone through the fighting mill Benny knows how many chances for failure there are and how few for success.

There was brother Charlie, for instance. Charlie was a corking amateur, who won fight after fight with a quick, clean, one-punch knockout, and looked like a world beater. But somehow Charles never starred as a professional and has done well by forsetting the lure of boxing and going into business.

But the "kid brother" looks like the goods, and it wouldn't be surprise to see Champion eBnny in his corner before long doing his best to help Joe work up to the title. Not that Benny is weary of being champion. But what difference would it make if the old title remained in the family. Also it's no secret that Benny has designs on the welterweight crown.

RUTH'S VAUDEVILLE ACT INDICATES IT IS WELL HE TOOK UP BASEBALL

Babe Ruth made 59 home runs last season, but he's up against a better brand of pitching these days. Babe is trying to swing his bludgeon in the vaudeville league. He made his first apearance in St. Louis yesterday and if one did not know it was Babe Ruth one would not credit him even with a small foul. But one can't help knowing that it is the Bambino (himself) and the official scorer is forced to give him at least a safe bunt.

After that, Wellington Cross, who does not need a home run record to put him over on the boards, brings his trusty bat.

Babe was handicapped by a severe cold. That is, he may have been handicapped. Certainly he had a cold, but possibly it was a blessing in that it permitted him to get away without having to sing. The Babe appears first in his New York traveling uniform, demonstrates his home run swing, modified to a whisper, and then he changes to street clothes and struts and gives the ladies a treat. Several stories are told, with Babe the good-natured "goat." A burlesque of a mental telepathy stunt completes the act.

Kenrick Meets Central.

Two of the strongest preparatory school basketball teams, Kenrick and Central, are scheduled to battle at the Central gymnasium this afternoon. It will be the second meeting of the pair this season. Kenrick won the first game, 32-14. Kenrick will be without the services of its captain, Kringa, who is out because of illness. Kenrick also is scheduled to play Soldan and Sparta, Ill., this week.

Chaminade Plays Kirkwood.

Chaminade College and the Kirkwood High School basketball teams are scheduled to play on the Kirkwood court this afternoon. In an early season tilt between the two quintets, Chaminade won, 17-15.

KENRICK HIGH PLAYERS PLAN CHESS TOURNAMENT

The first local school chess tournament on record will begin this week at Kenrick High School, where 19 players have arranged a schedule to decide the school championship.

Each player will oppose each other player twice, for a total of 36 games for each boy. This means 342 matches to decide the event. The school authorities hope the tourney will pave the way to interschool chess competitions, later.

Yanks Release Outfielder.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Walter Christensen, an outfielder, who joined the New York Americans last season, was released yesterday to the St. Paul club of the American Association.

Glen Echo Plans To Change Links For Title Event

Three Holes Will Be Altered Before Start of Women's Western Golf Championship.

Women's golf in St. Louis received another stimulus yesterday, when it was learned that the 1922 tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association would be held at the Glen Echo Country Club, the starting date being Aug. 28. During last season the interest in the game among women increased to a marked degree. Regular weekly tournaments, with handicaps to make it interesting and gross score prizes to reward the good players, were held by the St. Louis District Golf Association and more women participated than had ever played on the links in St. Louis before in a season.

Glen Echo, where the 1921 district tourney for men was held, is excellently suited for a women's tournament. While the course is well trapped and beautifully arranged, it lacks the difficulties which make courses like St. Louis Country Club and Sunset Hill almost too difficult for the average woman. The course is one of the oldest in the district and consequently lacks the elevated greens and abysmal bunkers which waylay a golfer on the newer courses.

Course to Be Improved.

Several changes are planned, to be made before the women's tournament. The third hole will be discontinued and a more difficult one will be substituted. New greens will be constructed at No. 6 and No. 3.

The St. Louis Women's Golf Association was represented at the Western meeting at Chicago yesterday by Mrs. James A. Corbett, who has been active for several seasons in promoting woman's golf here. There was much competition among the clubs for the tourney, Kansas City particularly bidding for it. Mrs. Corbett's statement that 200 women from St. Louis would compete in the event if it were held here finally eliminated all opposition.

It will be the second time the tournament has been held in St. Louis. It was held at the Country Club when that organization's home was in Clayton.

Last Night's Fights

At Philadelphia—Joe Lynch beat Patsy Wallace in eight rounds, and Danny Kramer stopped Chalky Winter in the first round.

At New York—Eddie Hirsan beat Steve Johnson in 12 rounds; Sammy Sleger beat Mickey Brown in 12 rounds; Phil Henry beat Eddie Summers in 12 rounds, and Sammy Noble beat Harry London in 12 rounds.

14 Yachts to Compete.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—At least 14 six-meter yachts will compete for the honor of representing the United States in the international team race to be sailed off Oyster Bay this summer against British boats, the Sewanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club announced today. Eight yachts have been contracted for and contracts for the others will be placed in a few days. Noted yachtsmen interested in the race have commissioned well-known naval architects to design the craft.

Howley Signs Contract.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Jan. 10.—Dan Howley, coach of the Detroit Tigers, has signed his contract for the coming season, it was announced at club headquarters last night. It will be Howley's third year with the locals.

Reffer Champion Trapshot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Art Reffer of Paris, Ill., is the leading amateur trapshooter of North America for 1921, and Rush Ragee leading professional, according to official averages announced by the American Trapshooting Association.

Concentration

in St. Louis' ONE Big Newspaper

DURING 1921

Home Merchants concentrated their advertising in the POST-DISPATCH to a greater degree in 1921 than in any previous year. Many confined their advertising to the POST-DISPATCH exclusively. This pronounced and constantly increasing concentration in the ONE newspaper is the direct and natural result of far more profitable returns from their advertising investment in the POST-DISPATCH than from any other St Louis newspaper or combination of newspapers.

The Post-Dispatch was the Only St. Louis Newspaper to Gain —ALL the Others LOST

In HOME MERCHANTS' ADVERTISING, the Volume, the Comparison, and the Gain and Losses for Each Newspaper Follow:

POST-DISPATCH

1921	13,092,240	Lines
1920	11,389,280	Lines
GAIN	1,702,960	Lines

		LINES
Globe-Democrat	1921	6,023,400
	1920	6,885,300
	LOSS	861,900

The POST-DISPATCH carried over a Million and a Half lines more Home Merchants' Advertising than its TWO nearest contemporaries—Globe-Democrat and Star—COMBINED.

		LINES
The Star	1921	5,511,000
	1920	6,635,100
	LOSS	1,124,100

The POST-DISPATCH carried more than DOUBLE the Globe-Democrat's volume of Home Merchants' advertising, and more than two and one-third times that of the Star.

		LINES
The Times	1921	2,992,500
(No Sunday)	1920	3,105,900
	LOSS	113,400

The POST-DISPATCH Gain of 1,702,960 lines in Home Merchants' Advertising represents a shift in volume approximately equaling the combined Losses of Globe-Democrat and the Star.

OLD COURIER JOURNAL OFFICE BUILDING BURNS

Blaze in Historic Former Plant of Louisville Newspaper Causes $300,000 Loss.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 10.—Fire early today partially destroyed one of Louisville's historic buildings, the old Courier-Journal office building, Fourth and Liberty streets, for almost a half century the home of the Courier-Journal. Newspaper estimates, made after a hurried canvass of the owners of the building and the occupants, place the loss at approximately $300,000. Early estimates were double that amount.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight in the office of Herman Korfhage, electric clock manufacturer.

The flames soon spread to the Tinsley-Clingman Co. engravers, where they ignited benzine, causing an explosion that sprayed burning benzine over a wide area. From this start the blaze spread rapidly and soon the roof collapsed. The lower floors were one by one destroyed and it was not until the main floor was reached that the fire department, after calling out the entire force and more than a dozen suburban companies, got control of the situation.

The building, owned by the Courier-Journal Co., was built by the Haldemans, more than 50 years ago, and was first occupied by the paper in May, 1876. Ten years ago the newspaper was moved to another location and the old one converted into an office building.

The building was damaged to the amount of approximately $125,000, according to the owners, the remainder of the loss being divided among the occupants.

PRISONER, 70, ENDS LIFE BY STRANGLING SELF WITH BELT

Barber, Arrested Yesterday, Had Noosed One End Around Neck and Tied Other to Cell Door.

Emerson Phelps, 70 years old, a barber, was found dead, strangled with a rope he had used as a belt, when turnkeys were called by a fellow prisoner to a cell occupied by Phelps at the Central District Police Station at 12:30 a. m. today.

Phelps apparently had noosed one end of the rope-belt around his neck and had tied the other end to the bars of his cell door and had leaned away from the door, pulling the noose tight. Thomas Coleman, cellmate of Phelps, was awakened by Phelps' gasping.

Phelps was arrested yesterday in front of 714 Market street charged with general disturbance of the peace. He gave his address at that time as 114 North Broadway.

Arrested as Bank Robbery Suspect.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Samuel de Nova and his wife were arrested in their home here last night by city detectives on information furnished to Chief of Detectives Hughes that De Nova was believed to have been one of the five men who took part in the Maywood State Bank robbery in which the president of the bank, John Stoeffel, was killed. According to the police, information from postal inspectors was to the effect that De Nova had been the leader of a band.

3 AMERICAN WORKERS IN NEAR EAST HAVE TYPHUS

Relief Trustees Hear Another Has Typhoid and One Death From Smallpox Is Reported

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Three American workers in the Near East have been stricken with typhus and another with typhoid fever, according to dispatches made public last night at the annual meeting of the trustees of the organization.

The typhus victims, the cablegram stated, were Miss Elizabeth Bury of Pawtucket, R. I.; Cyrus P. Zimmerman of Schafferstown, Pa., reported recovering, and Miss Theda B. Phelps of Philadelphia.

Dr. Mark Ward of Suffern, N. Y., was reported seriously ill with typhoid.

Menno Shellenberger of Hesston, Kan., died Saturday of smallpox at Diarbekir, Turkey, another cable said.

Capt. E. A. Yarrow, Near East relief director for Transcaucasian Russia, reported that 3000 Armenians, the first of a contingent of 10,000 sent to Transcaucasia from Mesopotamia, are in desperate plight in Batum, while they were being transported by the authorities of Mesopotamia.

Edwin M. Bulklest, chairman of the Executive Committee, told the relief trustees that $9,729,760.68 had been appropriated for relief work in Transcaucasian Russia, Turkey, Mesopotamia, Syria and Palestine.

Dr. James L. Barton of Boston was elected chairman and former Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, Cleveland; H. P. Dodge, Hiran I. Elkus, Harold A. Hatch, William B. Millar, Dr. Stanley White and George A. Plimpton of New York and Walter George Smith of Philadelphia were elected members of the Executive Committee for the year.

DOGS TRAIL ESCAPED PRISONERS

Ringleader in Texas Jail Breaking Is Killed During Getaway.

By the Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Tex., Jan. 10.—Posses from Bowie County, Tex., and Little River County, Ark., last night trailed with bloodhounds nine white prisoners who escaped from the Bowie County prison farm late yesterday after B. M. Bourland, alleged ringleader in the break, had been killed by posse members and one of those escaping had been captured.

Bourland, who was sent to the farm from El Paso County, Tex., for robbery, officials said, engineered the escape, when he seriously injured a civilian guard.

Vitamines Without Drugs Quickly Restore Health

Weak, Tired, Nervous People Find New Health in Famous Vitamine Prescription.

Men and women who have that continual "half-alive" feeling—dull and prey to headaches—will quickly find new health through Alexander Vitamines, the prescription of a famous food chemist. Almost everyone is familiar with vitamines, those mysterious organic food substances so necessary to health and so lacking in the ordinary diet of today. They are rightly called the most famous food discovery of the age, for lack of vitamines, or "vitamine starvation," is responsible for practically every deficiency disease known.

Mrs. Margaret Condon says:

"Since taking Alexander Vitamines I have been able to do all of my housework—something I had been unable to do for several years. I owe it all to the Vitamines. They are simply wonderful. I have regained considerable weight that I had lost, and I can't remember when I ever felt better. Alexander Vitamines are all that is claimed for them and I intend to recommend them to all my friends."

If your weight is below normal, if you lack energy and rich, red blood, by all means go to a druggist today and get a box of Alexander Vitamines. They come in handy 5-grain capsules. Try them according to directions and within a few days you will find your weight becoming normal—new vigor and appearance will be yours. Be sure you get the genuine Alexander Vitamines, as they are not to be confused with vitamine products containing drugs. Alexander Vitamines are warranted to contain no drugs—pure vitamine concentrates need no help from any other source. For sale by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Seventh and Washington.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

BOND DEMAND IS FEATURE OF DAY ON STOCK MARKET

U. S. Government Issues Sought—Call Money Renewed at 3½ Pct. for First Time Since 1918—Foreign Exchange Strong.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Under conditions closely approximated those which influenced the stock markets yesterday, trading on the exchange followed no distinct trend today. Professionals continued to sell miscellaneous issues and succeeded in depressing prices a point or so, but their operations were carried out with an apparent lack of confidence. The whole affair was as unimpressive as any that has been witnessed in the new year. The really important development in the financial markets, apart from the strength in foreign exchange, was the better demand for bonds, especially United States Government issues. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent for the first time since the summer of 1918 and a new loan rate of 3 per cent was posted in the last hour.

Sterling Is Higher.

"Again taking its lead from London, the foreign exchange market showed farther gains at the opening here. Sterling started at $4.22¾, or 2 cents above yesterday's close. Local offerings again brought a reaction, but a partial recovery left the price at $4.22¾. French francs meanwhile gained another 10 points at 8.33c and Belgian francs made a similar advance. German marks, however, lost 1¼ points of their previous sharp rally and this change left them at 0.58 of a cent. The other Continental exchanges were irregularly firm.

"The progress being made at Cannes with the reparation question clearly is responsible for the latest demonstration of strength. The latest cables suggest that the annual cash payment is to be placed at approximately 720,000,000 gold marks, which is the amount needed for service of the 12,000,000,000 gold marks of series 'A' bonds now in the hands of the reparation commission. The idea apparently is that if service on these bonds can be established the bonds ultimately can be negotiated. It may be doubted, however, whether such an offering could be made in the near future, since Germany's ability to pay 720,000,000 gold marks a year in cash must be demonstrated in practical fashion and since the discount at which the bonds would have to be offered now would be excessive. The German experts meanwhile are on their way to Cannes and the outlook for an agreement is promising. Part of any revision agreed upon will be, of course, a stipulation that Germany institute budgetary and currency reforms.

Commodity Markets Weak.

"Weakness developed in the commodity markets. With export business in wheat still insignificant, disappointed holders for a rise seem to have become tired and let go. In any event, liquidation assumed considerable proportions and the May delivery lost 2¼ cents at $1.09½. Cotton started well on the Census Bureau's ginning report, but then reacted rather sharply. March went as high as 18.54c and then broke to 17.97c for a net loss of 36 points. The ginning report showed that only 91,000 bales were ginned between Dec. 13 and Jan. 1. Bulls argued that a downward revision of the last Government crop report is indicated, a conclusion which traders on the other side of the market were by no means disposed to accept."

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—For the first time since the summer of 1918 call loans were renewed on the Stock Exchange at 3½ per cent, while in the case of time money most of the business was done at 4¾ per cent. Some few special transactions as low as 4½.

The Bond Market.

Today's bond market once more took its cue from developments in the money market. The evidence of a great excess money supply for which it was difficult to find employment at the loan counter naturally led to the assumption that a considerable part will have to flow into the investment bond list. In consequence there was a renewal of active buying all along the line, with the United States Government bonds in the lead. New highs in the movement were made in both Victory issues and in the third and fourth Liberty loans. In the foreign government group Zurich 8s were up a point and Republic of Uruguay 8s nearly 2 points at a new high of 105. English, French and Belgian bonds were steady, but without much change.

In the railway section there was a sharp recovery in the Erie convertibles and in the Erie general 4s which were so weak yesterday.

Minneapolis Rediscount Rate Cut.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 10.—Discount rates of the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis were reduced to 5 per cent on all maturities at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the bank today. The former rate was 5½ per cent.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Total sales of bonds on the Stock Exchange today were $27,110,000, against $18,611,000 yesterday, $14,778,000 a week ago, $12,033,000 a year ago and $18,085,000 two years ago. From Jan. 1 to date, $122,322,000, against $110,365,000 a year ago and $148,134,000 two years ago.

Following is a complete list of bond sales today. Total sales of each security and the high, low and closing prices are given:

CURB MARKET TRADE IS DULL AND UNIMPORTANT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Trading on the Curb Exchange today was dull and unimportant. There was little or no outside business. The market was more than ever in the hands of the professional element. Prices followed a very irregular and uncertain course.

Stocks that were strong included Goodyear Tire among the industrials and Phillips Petroleum and Refining among the oils.

Bar Silver.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Foreign bar silver, 66⅝c; Mexican dollars, 50⅝c.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Bar silver, 35½d per ounce. Money, 2½ per cent. Discount rates—Short bills, 3¼ per cent; three months' bills, 3⅝ per cent.

COTTON MARKET IS NERVOUS AND PRICES ARE IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 8 to 17 points, with active months selling 15 to 22 points net higher after the call, on the steady showing of Liverpool, firmness of foreign exchange and the census report showing slightly less cotton ginned to Jan. 1. This bulge met realizing and scattered Southern selling, however, and after selling at 18.55c March contracts soon worked off to 18.40c, with the market rather irregular and unsettled.

The market was easier later under scattering liquidation and selling of March and May. Reports of an unsettled tone in the stock market served to check fresh buying and the market was without much support on the decline which extended to 18.16c for March and 17.73c for May or about 16 to 18 points net lower.

A renewal of local and Wall street liquidation in midafternoon weakened March to 18.05c and May 17.66c, representing 23 to 27 points net loss following heaviness in grain and an absence of outside support.

Cotton futures closed steady: January, 18.03c; March, 18c; May, 17.65c; July, 17.16c; October, 16.38c.

7,884,272 Bales Cotton Ginned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Cotton ginned prior to Jan. 1 amounted to 7,884,272 running sales, including 123,320 round bales counted as half bales; 30,093 bales of American-Egyptian, and 3106 bales of Sea Island. To Jan. 1 last year, 11,584,[illegible] bales were ginned, including 202,127 round bales; 64,262 bales of American-Egyptian and 1449 of Sea Island.

Ginnings by states to Jan. 1, this year, were: Alabama, 584,335; Arizona, [illegible]; Arkansas, 781,823; California, [illegible]; Florida, 12,098; Georgia, 817,263; Louisiana, 281,773; Mississippi, 811,830; Missouri, 67,919; North Carolina, 783,598; Oklahoma, 476,279; South Carolina, 770,[illegible]; Tennessee, 295,380; Texas, 2,117,[illegible]; Virginia, 16,078; all other states, 8347.

DEMAND FOR CATTLE IS FAIR AND MARKET STEADY

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., Jan. 10.—Today's estimated receipts: Cattle and calves, 4500; hogs, 18,500; sheep, 4000; horses and mules, 550.

CATTLE—With receipts moderate and demand fair, the market ruled steady today in virtually all departments. Strength was again manifest in the sales of some of the handy-weight yearlings. Quality of receipts was again plain. The top was $7.65 per 100 lbs. paid by an order buyer for the east for a drove of medium-weight steers. A few sorted veal calves sold up to $11.00, but this was out of line, $9.00 to $9.50 catching the bulk of good lights offered. The market averaged strong.

Quotations: Beef steers, high $9.25; low, $4.75; bulk, $5.50 to $6.75; butcher yearlings, high, $10.25; low, $3.00; bulk, $4.00 to $7.00; butcher cows, range, $3.50 to $5.75; bulk, $3.75 to $5.00; cutter cows, bulk, $2.75 to $3.25; canner cows, bulk, $2.25 to $2.50; beef bulls, bulk, $5.00 to $6.00; bologna bulls, bulk, $3.75 to $4.75.

HOGS—Market averaged 10c to 15c lower on a supply of 18,500 hogs, although the market rallied late and closed up practically steady on light and handy-weight butchers. Pigs remained lower throughout. The top on pigs and lights, weighing 150 pounds and down was $8.15, good light butchers selling from $7.85@8 on the close, compared with $7.65@7.80 earlier in the session. Heavier butchers sold from $7.60@7.65 largely with some late sales at $7.75 for hogs weighing 200 lbs. Bulk of all classes brought $7.60@8.

SHEEP—Market active and strong for fairly liberal receipts of sheep and lambs, the estimate calling for 4000, and spots showed 15@25c higher, the top moving up to $12.15, a new season high mark. Bulk of lambs brought $11.50@12; yearling wethers, $11@11.25, and fat sheep, which were steady, $5@6.

HORSES AND MULES—Notwithstanding another large run, trade got off to a good start this week in virtually all departments, movement averaging fairly good at steady to strong prices. Two hundred horses were cleared at auction Monday and other consignments were available today. The offerings of mules out of first hands approximates 1000 head for the two days.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER ON SOUTHWEST RAIN

Wheat futures ranged lower in the trade on the Merchants' Exchange today, the weakest part of the session being in the last hour, when prices were down nearly 3 cents. Corn futures were fractionally lower. Easier wheat cables and reported slack export demand were among factors in the market.

The late wheat market was weak. A late report was that some export sales at the Gulf had been canceled. Corn was aided some by export business.

The local cash wheat market was dull. Light sales of new wheat were made at 1c to 3c lower prices. Hard was 2c to 3c lower to sell. Cash corn was steady to ¾c lower. Demand was slow, but offerings were cleaned up. Mills, elevators and exporters bought in a limited way. Cash oats were dull and 1c to 2c lower. There was light shipping demand.

Wheat and corn futures both opened lower and ruled easier in the forepart of the session. Rain was reported in the Southwest and the trade considered this favorable for the wheat. Argentine quotations have been lower this week. On the other hand, foreign exchange quotations and light local wheat receipts were commented on. Enlarged country offerings of corn were reported.

May wheat opened at $1.09, July wheat, 98½c; May corn, 51⅝c, and July corn, 53⅝c.

St. Louis wheat receipts today were 12 cars local and 10 through, against 50 cars and 80, respectively, last year; local corn, 155 cars, against 61 year ago; through corn, 12, against 9; local oats, 19, against 23, and through oats 9 cars against 27 year ago.

McDougal Heads Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Robert McDougal, for many years a national figure in the grain industry, was elected president of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. He succeeds Joseph P. Griffith, who served three terms, 1916, 1917 and 1921, and who was not a candidate for re-election.

Mr. McDougal, who was born at Peoria, Ill., in 1868, became the representative of a large Philadelphia house on the Chicago Board of Trade in 1894, and has held important official posts in the association. During the war he was associated with Walter Dill Scott, now president of Northwestern University, in the personnel division of the War Department.

WHEAT FUTURES SELL OFF ON RAIN IN SOUTHWEST

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Fresh declines in the price of wheat took place during the early trading today, largely as a result of rains in the Southwest. Opinions were expressed the moisture would prove to be the salvation of the Kansas crop. On the other hand, strength in foreign exchange was virtually ignored. Initial prices, which ranged from ¼c to ¾c lower, with May $1.11@1.11¼, and July $1.00½@1.00⅝, were followed by a moderate additional setback.

Cancellation of some export sales at the gulf counted later as a bearish influence, and so, too, did reports of bank troubles in France. The close was heavy, 2⅝c to 3c net lower, with May $1.08¾ to $1.09 and July, 98¼c to 99¼c.

Enlarged country offerings of corn had a bearish effect on the corn market and on oats as well. After opening unchanged to ¼c lower, May 53¼c to 53⅜c, corn continued to sag.

Subsequently keen demand from export interests tended to check declines. The close was easy at ½c to ⅝c net decline: May, 52⅝c.

Oats started unchanged to a shade lower; May, 38⅝@¾c to 38⅝c and then weakened a bit more.

Notwithstanding downtourns in the hog market, provisions showed firmness because of lack of any aggressive selling.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The early raw sugar market was steady and unchanged at 1 15-16c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 3.54c for centrifugal. Trading in the raw sugar futures was fairly active, and prices, after declining 1 to 3 points under trade selling, rallied on covering and buying by Wall street interests.

The market for refined was unchanged to 4.80c to 4.90c for fine granulated. There was a good inquiry.

Refined futures were without transactions. Sugar futures closed steady; approximate sales, 8700 tons. March, 2.19; May, 2.37; July, 2.56; September, 2.67.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Cotton goods were steady yesterday, blanket orders coming in frequently. Wash goods inquiry was better. Raw silk was higher. Cotton yarns were steady but quiet. Burlaps were barely steady. Raw wool prices tending higher, forced yarns up. Knit goods were firm.

SLOWING DOWN OF INDUSTRY IS SHOWN BY SURVEY

men employed in industry throughout the United States, continuing the succession of increases noted since August. Small decreases occurred in both number employed and total payroll in New York and Wisconsin. A decline also was reported from Wisconsin in the average weekly earnings for November, and postal savings continued to recede. Immigration and emigration were considerably curtailed in October, and both were lass than half of the 1913 average.

Bank clearings and debits to individual accounts showed little change in November for New York City, but declined perceptibly in the rest of the country. Federal Reserve note circulation and discounts continued to decline, and reserves and deposits again increased. A slight increase occurred in total loans, rediscounts and investments of Federal Reserve member banks, but demand deposits increased further. Interest rates on call loans and commercial paper continued their drop, both classes approaching close to a 5-per-cent rate.

Business failures in November again increased by 16 per cent over the previous month, and were the largest in any month for several years, but the total liabilities were about the same as in October. Dividend and interest payments were almost 30 per cent greater than a year ago.

Prices of stocks and bonds advanced from 2 to 4 points in November, and the yield on municipal bonds fell from 5 to 4½ per cent. Sales of both stocks and bonds also increased perceptibly, chiefly the corporation and foreign government bonds.

BRITAIN PLEDGED TO AID FRANCE IF GERMANS ATTACK

egation which is to discuss the German reparations questions with the allied Supreme Council arrived in Paris from Berlin today. The delegation, comprising 16 members, headed by Dr. Walter Rathenau, found an invitation from the Supreme Council to proceed to Cannes awaiting them at their hotel.

RUSSIANS TO ATTEND ECONOMIC PARLEY

Doubtful, Though, Whether Lenine, 'Overloaded With Work,' Will Be Present.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—Soviet Russia gladly will send a delegation to the international financial and economic conference in response to the invitation from the Allied Supreme Council, but it is extremely doubtful whether Premier Lenine himself will be able to go.

Russia's reply, sent by Foreign Minister Chitcherin, expresses satisfaction at having received the invitation and states the question of the appointment of a Russian delegation will be solved by an extraordinary sitting of the Central Executive Committee. M. Chitcherin's note further points out that, even if Premier Lenine should not be able to attend the conference, because he is overloaded with work chiefly connected with the famine crisis, at any rate the Russian delegates' powers would be equally as authoritative as though Lenine himself participated.

In some soviet circles it is said to be regarded as extremely improbable that Premier Lenine will leave Russia. Not only is every moment of his time occupied with internal affairs, but inner soviet circles fear that he would face great personal danger if he were outside Russia.

The Russian delegation probably will be headed by M. Litvinoff and will include Leonid Krassin, soviet trade representative, and M. Hagdanoff, chief of the Economic Council.

COUNCIL OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS MEETS

Sixteenth Session to Consider Danzig, Alands, the Saare, Vilna and Albania Questions.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—The delegates of eight countries will convene here today at the sixteenth session of the council of the League of Nations under the presidency of Paul Hymans of Belgium. Cecil B. Harmsworth, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, will represent Great Britain; M. Hanotaux, France; the Marquis Imperiali, Italy; Viscount Ishii, Japan; Tang Tsai-Fou, China; M. Da Cunha, Brazil, and Count Quinones de Lean, Spain.

The council's program consists for the most part of routine matters affecting Danzig, the Aland Islands, the Saare area, Vilna, Albania and Upper Silesia, but certain points respecting the mandates on Africa and the Pacific Islands, the security of Christians in Cilicia and Russian epidemics also will be considered.

The council will take up in connection with new business the matter of the appointment of an international committee of 12 on intellectual co-operation, to co-ordinate and develop scientific research and intellectual work in all countries. It is unofficially suggested that Prof. Albert Einstein, Gilbert Murray and an American scientist be invited to join. It is announced that the council hereafter will elect a president in the alphabetical order of the member countries. M. Hymans of Belgium will be succeeded by a Brazilian, and the latter by a Chinese. The league has not yet received a report on the Vilna plebiscite.

Washington Cabinet Undecided on Joining in Economic Parley.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—An authoritative statement was made following today's Cabinet meeting that no decision had been reached by President Harding and his advisers regarding the invitation extended to the United States by the Allied Supreme Council to participate, along with Russia and Germany, in the European economic conference to be held at Genoa in March.

French Press Attacks on Briand Grow in Severity.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Attacks on Premier Briand by the French press grow in severity and distrust of England increases as more becomes known regarding the agreements reached at the Supreme Council meeting in Cannes.

Andre Tardieu, writing in former Premier Clemenceau's new organ, the Echo National, which appeared for the first time today, leads off with a diatribe captionad, "The Cannes Retreat." He writes:

"In four days Briand has aggravated irremediably the situation created during the past year by his policy, and has torn up the promises he made in December to the Senate and Chamber."

Premier Briand appears to have few friends in the press. The Figaro echoes the Echo National, saying the Franco-British agreement would, not in itself be a bad thing, adding: "Far from it. Very serious difficulties exist between England and France. They can be solved but must not be juggled."

L'Eclair says: "France ardently desires the British alliance, but does not want to conclude it for the sole benefit of Germany. When one allies one's self with another one does not first of all ask him to disarm if one is sincere, for his force adds to yours. The intentions of Lloyd George are disquieting, since he only consents to unite with an enfeebled France."

The general view is fairly well summarized in the prevailing opinion of members of the Chamber of Deputies, printed in the Le Journal as follows:

"If the Premier brings us the British alliance, which was promised and then refused to Clemenceau, giving us at the same time the assurance that the alliance does not involve for France renunciation of any of the guarantees she holds under the treaty of Versailles and that it entails neither reduction of the sums due us nor the premature evacuation of the Rhineland, he can be assured of one of the finest majorities he ever had."

The Temps takes it for granted that such a special agreement with Great Britain is needed to replace the unexecuted pact among France, Great Britain and the United States proposed at the time of the signing of the treaty of Versailles.

A Check In Your Mail Four Times a Year

Owners of Union Electric Light & Power Company 7% preferred shares get dividend checks in the mail four times a year—Jan. 1, April 1, July 1 and Oct. 1. Each $100 share pays $1.75 every three months.

Our preferred shareholders, nearly all St. Louis district men and women, are drawing more than $325,000 a year in safe and sure cash income from this business. Their number, and their share of the net earnings of the business, are steadily increasing. On Jan. 1, 1922, more than 7600 men and women individually and jointly owned more than $4,600,000 of these preferred shares.

They are helping to finance the constant growth of Missouri's largest and fastest growing electric service institution. They get a standard business income from their savings. They know that, in case of need, they can always get full cash value for their shares through our Securities Department.

This certainty of 7% income, with this protection against loss of principal, each year attracts a larger number of St. Louis district savings investors into this business. We expect to have more than 10,000 home shareholders by Jan 1, 1923.

If you have money tied up in unproductive property, it will pay you to sell it and buy Union Electric 7% preferred shares; their dividends will soon make good your loss on the other investment.

TEACHERS OPPOSE MILITARY TRAINING AT HIGH SCHOOLS

Movement Started by Educators Is Indorsed by Two Leagues of Women.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A nation-wide campaign against military training for high school boys has been started here by the headquarters of the American Federation of Teachers. The first organization to pledge co-operation with the teachers is the League of Women Voters, of which Mrs. Harriet Treadwell Taylor is president. A close second is the Illinois League of Women Voters, whose Executive Board, through its president, Mrs. Henry W. Cheney, has indorsed the movement.

The federation's opposition to military traning in the public high schools is based upon three arguments:

1. Because not even Germany deemed it advisable to maintain military training for schoolboys in time of peace.

2. Because military training is not an adequate substitute for physical training.

3. Because militarism should be discouraged, not encouraged.

The appeal is being sent to organizations throughout the United States.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

J. F.—A $2.50 gold piece dated 1840 is worth only $2.50.

C. V. B.—There is no premium value on a ten dollar gold piece dated 1882.

P. H.—The population of small towns in Missouri several years ago, may be obtained at the public library.

O. K.—Submit your Egyptian coins to a coin dealer for an estimate of their value. The addresses of coin dealers may be found in the directory.

J. H. B.—The directions for making a cement for glass, porcelain, etc., are as follows: Isinglass 50 parts; gum ammoniac 4 parts; gum mastic 2 parts; alcohol, 95 per cent, 10 parts; water, q. s. Soak the isinglass in cold water overnight, or until it has become swollen and soft throughout. In the morning throw off any superfluous fluid and throw the isinglass on a clean towel or other coarse cloth, and hang it up in such a way that any free residual water will drain away. The strength of the cement depends upon this being done thoroughly. After the drainage has been completed, put it into a flask or other container and place in the water bath and heat carefully until it has become fluid. It should not be allowed to boil as this injures its adhesive properties (the same fact is true in regard to glues and gelatins of all kinds. Dissolve the gums in the alcohol and add the solution to the gelatin after it has been removed from the water bath, and let it cool down to about 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Stir well together. The following precautions must be observed: The surface to be joined must be perfectly clean. Where the cement requires the application of heat before use, the objects to be united should also be heated to a point at least as high as the melting point of the cement. The thinner the layer of cement the stronger the joint; avoid using too much cement. Cover both surfaces to be united and press together as closely as possible. Bind the parts securely together, and allow to remain undisturbed without loosening or attempting to use the article for 2 or 3 days or longer. A liquid cement acquires its full strength only after evaporation of the fluids used as solvents, and this can occur only from the infinitesimal line of exposed surface.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(Prepared by a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

PAGE.—"A" can compel "B" to sign the deed and accept the money, even though agreement was made on a holiday.

PUZZLED.—A man does not require a license to drive his mother's car, but a license is needed in case of driving for hire.

HERMIT.—You will need Missouri and Illinois fishing licenses, to fish with a drop net on this or the other side of the Mississippi River.

BILLY.—Notice of an increase in rent must be given for the month ahead, i. e., given any time in January for the month beginning Feb. 1.

A. B. C.—The insurance company pays whatever amount the policy provides. If we have misunderstood your question please write again giving more facts.

X. Y. Z.—The soldier's wife will receive an allowance if his death was due to injuries or disabilities contracted while he was in the service, otherwise not.

TRIX.—You must give your tenant one month's notice to vacate and if at the end of that time he has not moved you can sue him out, in a Justice of the Peace Court.

G. L. W.—You can marry any where in the state, obtaining the license at any county seat in Missouri, but the issuance of the license will be a matter of public record.

BOB.—The insurance company will have to pay if death occurs in Missouri, after one year. We do not have any information regarding the company you name. Write to the State Insurance Commissioner, Austin, Tex.

PLEASE TELL ME.—The Postoffice will accept a parcel post shipment of venison. The law permits shipment in Missouri where the person offering it for shipment has a license issued to him.

PERPLEXED.—H does not have to pay income tax on the $5000 principal, but only on the interest which he receives on that principal. The interest on the Liberty Bonds, in H's case is exempt.

S. R.—(1) There is a law in St. Louis forbidding showing of picture show in tents. (2) This also applies to St. Louis County. (3) You will need a license or permit to operate a picture show.

LENA.—No one should buy real estate without having the title examined. No matter how poor you are it should be done, then you will know who owns the property and who should sign the contract.

MRS. S.—If your cousin succeeds in breaking the will, and there is no previous will, the estate will be divided equally among the nephews and nieces. Write to the Probate Court in which the suit is pending, for information regarding it. It is not necessary for you to file suit.

ILLINOIS.—There is no fixed length of time in which you can remain in the house. When you default in payments they can notify you to "pay rent or move," as they did, and you will then have to do so, unless you can come to some agreement with them. Consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

R. F. P.—This condition is incident to your age. We advise your seeing a physician.

WORRIED.—Keep the hair and scalp clean by sufficient washing. Rub the following lotion into the scalp night and morning with the finger tips: Sulphuris praecipitati ½ ounce, olei racini 2 ounces, olei theobromae 3 drams, balsami peruviani ½ dram.

E. T. M.—We believe you could have done with less salvarsan, but should now take a prolonged course of mercury and iodide of potash. Do not make the mistake of discontinuing treatment. The discolorations will no doubt clear up in time, but the scars will remain.

ANXIOUS.—A lung trouble with hemorrhage is very likely tubercular. The sputum should be examined for diagnosis. Persons with this condition would not likely have a strong constitution. The length of time they would live under such conditions could not be estimatd, marked improvement would essentially have to occur for the time to be lengthened.

R. S.—If there is an ear affection and the enlarged glands are in the neck, the ear trouble is no doubt causing them. All such cases should be treated by an aurist. If the ear affection is simply an itch without other symptoms the glands may be painted with tincture of iodine. Take internally 15 drops syrup iodide doses in water, a half hour before meals.

The Magic Spell of a Woman Spy

The Trial, Sentence and Execution of

MATA-HARI THE DANCER

By FERDINAND TUOHY.
(Late British Intelligence Corps.)
FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

Mata-Hari's liaisons with the German Crown Prince, the Dutch Prime Minister, two high members of the French Ministry and two members of the German Espionage Service, brought out in her trial, have been recited in previous chapters. This installment brings the dancer-spy to the last days of her career.

NOW we are at St. Lazare. • • • The condemned woman is located in cell No. 12, in which Mme. Steinheil and Mme. Caillaux had been installed before her. It contained three beds, two being occupied by Sisters of Charity engaged in surveilling the prisoner. Mata-Hari, who was of Jewish origin but a convert to Protestantism, showed the utmost hostility at first to the sisters. One of the sisters, "Petite Marie," who used to talk slang to the prisoners when necessary, was worried about the attitude of Mata, who used even to be impertinent. But a few days before the execution the dancer relented of her brutality and begged the sister's pardon. Mata was visited in prison only by her lawyer, who would arrive all excited with flowers and candy. He would do his best to console his client. On the eve of her execution—was it a presentiment—Mata was very down on her luck.

"You must pull yourself together! Dance a little!" insisted "Petite Marie." "You will forget your art. Besides, we should like to see how you dance."

And Mata-Hari danced, and began to hope and to smile again. Clearly she was not made for prison . . . or for celibacy. She was brimming over with vitality. She had caused the director of the prison to come to her and had declared: "I desire to take a bath every day. My calling and my temperament call for it!"

On Oct. 14, 1917, I was advised by telephone that "Marguerite Gertrude Zelle, born Aug. 7, 1876, known as Mata-Hari, is to be executed tomorrow morning at 5:47." She had been found guilty by unanimity:

"Of having penetrated in 1916 in the intrenched camp of Paris with a view of procuring information in the interest of an enemy power, named, Germany.

"Of having procured in France and abroad information for this Power capable of causing harm to the French Army.

"Of having abroad, maintained intelligence with diplomatic agents of Germany with the object of facilitating the enterprises of our enemies by communicating to them secrets relative to our interior policy and to the spring offensive of 1916, etc., etc."

Recalling the interventions of influential personages with a view to saving the life of the ballerina, the narrator adds that it was the Netherland's Government which was most energetic on behalf of Mata-Hari. However, the President of the republic refused to allow his resolution to be shaken. M. Poincare considered that when so many French soldiers were falling each day he could not spare traitors and spies who were causing their deaths from the rear.

After explaining how he saw to the completion of the necessary arrangements, including the make-up of the firing party, the narrator goes on to describe the final morning at St. Lazare prison.

The accused was still calm and confident. However, the recent visit of her lawyer, who had just returned from the Elysee (the President's Palace) seemed to have depressed her somewhat. Her great preoccupation up to that moment had been the lack of funds. Her little stock of money had been seriously reduced by the expense of the conveyances which she had employed on her visits to the office of Capt. Bouchardon, for she declined to travel in the prison van. There remained hardly 50 francs. I have since learned that she had an account and a safe at the Bank of Paris and the Netherlands.

While waiting in the office of the Governor of the prison, there arrived successively the amiable Capt. Bouchardon, Captain-Clerk of the Court Thibault, Government Commissioner Wattine, Pastor Darboux, Dr. Socquet, a member of the court-martial which had condemned Mata—and then—her defender. The arrival of the last-mentioned caused a disagreeable impression. The affection of the lawyer for the dancer, and the confidence she had in him was well known. What was going to happen? Painful scenes of despair were to be feared. Perhaps the accused would cling to her defender, who had led her to believe she would be pardoned. However, while we were reflecting over the troublous possibilities, the lawyer addressed the Government Commissioner.

"Mata-Hari cannot be executed this morning," he declared. "I formally oppose it and I invoke the Penal Code, Book I, Chapter I, Article 27, which states: If a woman who is condemned to death declares, and the affirmation is verified, that she is about to become a mother, she cannot suffer the death penalty until afterward.

We looked at one another with stupefaction. "Impossible," exclaimed the Governor. "No man has been in the cell."

"Yes, I have," retorted the lawyer.

"You!" cried Lieut. Wattine, "at your age. Why you're over 75."

"No matter," answered the lawyer, "I insist on the observance of article 27."

The cortege advanced slowly along a sombre corridor, which could scracely be said to be lighted by the few, flickering lamps. The sound of heavy steps echoed noisily along the corridors.

It is the custom thus to tramp heavily when walking to the cell of one who is condemned to death, making as much noise as possible in the hope of finding the prisoner already awake. There was a tragic moment preceding the arrival before the fatal door. Each time that I have been in the lugubrious cortege about to knock at the cell door of a condemned person—and I have led to death a score of traitors and spies—I have felt my heart beat with violence and have endured an ineffable agony.

And, this time it was a woman who was concerned, a woman still young, celebrated in all the coterie as the goddess of the dance, the priestess of love, the incarnation of poesy and beauty. "Her undulating figure floated with an infinite grace amid the disorder of veilings and the intoxication of perfumes," declared one of her adorers—and all this rosy beauty, living, thinking, palpitating, would be, in a few hours, nothing but a corpse.

But I recalled swiftly Lieut. Wattine's magisterial address to the court, evoking the death of our soldiers, the sufferings of the wounded, the tears of mothers and children—"the harm that this woman has done is unebievable; she is perhaps the greatest woman spy of the century." On, on, without pity.

The door! The key rattled noisily in the lock. The door opens.

Mata-Hari's bed was at the far end of the cell, to the left. There were two other beds, one at each side. The women guardians, their occupants, awakened with a start, sat up, rubbing their eyes, hesitating what to do in the midst of so many men who began to surround them. They decided to dress.

Mata-Hari was sleeping. Some one shook her gently.

"The hour of justice has arrived," said the Governor. "Your appeal has been rejected by the President. You must get up. • • • Have courage."

"Imposible, impossible," cried Mata. Then, "Officers?"

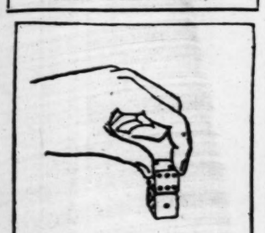
She perceived her lawyer. "Thanks for having come," she said, holding out her hand. The lawyer leaned toward her and spoke of his final plea. "Marguerite, if you wish?"

Mata sat up brusquely. With a movement of revolt, speaking in a strong voice, she exclaimed, "No, no, no! I am not about to become a mother. I will not resort to that subterfuge. I am going to get up."

Rebuked Her Aged Lawyer, Who at the Hour of Her Death Sought to Save Her by a Legal Subterfuge.

(The last installment of the story is the tragic execution at Vincennes, where Mata-Hari bore herself with all the assurance and nonchalance that might have marked one of her appearances on the stage. Tragic? True, but entirely in keeping with a spectacular career.)

After-Dinner Tricks



No. 6—The Magnetized Dice.

A PAIR of dice are taken and the five side of one placed against the five side of the other. This causes the dice to become magnetized, so that they adhere to each other. It will not work when any other sides are used and the spectators are unable to do it at all.

The trick is accomplished by secretly moistening the five side of one dice. When the dice are placed together they will adhere. When they are drawn apart the thumb quickly wipes off the moisture. Of course, it will work with any sides of the dice, but by laying the "magnetic power" to "peculiar properties" of the five side, suspicion is drawn from the real secret.

Uncommon Sense

INSTALLMENTS.

YOU owe many things to yourself, and most of them are difficult to pay.

In the first place, you owe yourself an education. In the second, respect; in the third, a life of reasonably hard work.

You cannot pay all these things at a time. Indeed, few are able to pay them all in a lifetime.

But you can at least make an installment arrangement with yourself, and get the most of the debt discharged while you still have the will and the energy to make the payments.

Begin with education. If you haven't got the college sort, pay off an installment every day by reading good books, by talking with intelligent people, and, above all, by thinking about what you read and hear.

You will find that these installments will be increasingly easy to pay as you go along.

The gain of knowledge becomes a very fascinating occupation, once you have made a start. At the end of a few years you will see a possibility of paying yourself all the education that was a debt to you at your birth, and it will not be nearly as much trouble to pay it as you may fancy.

The labor which you owe yourself will have to be paid whether you want to pay it or not, unless you are one of the very few unlucky enough to have so much money that they do not need to work for a living.

But you can make those labor installments larger right along. You can pay yourself more than you owe.

And labor performed accumulates. It accumulates in better mental and physical development, and in knowledge and wisdom which will be capital by and by.

There is not a large-salaried man in business who is not drawing a very important part of his salary because of work he did years ago, when he was, he imagined, underpaid.

Pay yourself respect—self-respect in regular installments. You have to have self-respect to have self-confidence. If you have no regard for yourself, others will have no regard for you. You can overdo self-esteem, but you cannot overdo self-respect.

Begin this partial payment system early in the year, and it will have become a habit by 1923. You may discharge the whole debt in the end. And that will be profitable and comforting in your old age.

The Heart of a Girl

—By—
Caroline Crawford

ESCAPING FROM A PEST.
CHAPTER 32.

EVERY girl has at some time in her young life had to run away from a masculine pest. There is always some young man who has an exaggerated opinion of himself and imagines a girl cares for him when in reality she simply detests him.

Cyril Budd, with his spats and his musical ambitions, was just the type Peggy considered a pest. She knew he would be waiting for her the next morning upon the apartment house steps, but just to be certain, she opened the living room window and leaning out caught a glimpse of his far too small fedora and the edge of a tan spat.

"Take me to the top floor, please, James," she said to the elevator boy as he responded to her ring. "I'm going over the roof."

James grinned from ear to ear at this.

"Indeed, I know why, Miss Peggy," he said. "I saw what was waiting for you yesterday morning and I caught another view of him this morning. I reckon you don't like the color of his spats."

Peggy lived in a chain of tall apartment houses so that she could skip over the roofs for at least half a block and come down through another building. She felt somewhat like a burglar as she scooted along over each ledge, but when she emerged from another building and looked up the street at Budd reading his book quietly waiting for her she chuckled to herself.

This new scheme of hers worked for three straight mornings and then, much to her chagrin, she found Cyril Budd waiting at the car line upon the fourth morning.

"You little rascal," he laughed. "You can't get away from me with your roof tricks. I just caught a glimpse of your red hat the other morning and it dawned over me how you had been dodging me. I was on the verge of writing to you, but now I've solved the solution."

"If a young woman didn't want to walk to the car line with me and I were a man I'd quite ignore her," said Peggy.

"But I want to tell you about the song I composed about you," persisted Budd. "It's been accepted."

Peggy was a bit taken back for a moment.

"And I changed the name from 'Florentine' to 'Peggy,'" continued Budd. "I can't write a song about a girl and not use the real name. So, by this time next month everybody will be singing a song about you, 'Peggy of the brown-bobbed locks.'"

"I don't care if you write 10 songs about me," announced Peggy as she opened a novel and began to read it while she waited for the car.

"And you are still going to run into telephone booths when you meet me, and skip over roof tops to avoid me?" asked Budd half laughingly and half seriously.

"I most certainly am," came from the book.

"All rightie," declared Budd, rather optimistically. "I won't give you any reason to go over roof tops. I won't come near your house or go to any socials at Marion Minton's for one whole month. Then, when my song comes out, when you see a sketch in color of a girl on the cover who looks very much like you, and see your own name, 'Peggy,' printed out in large gilt letters you'll realize how much I care about you. I don't believe in bobbing up at the wrong time, Miss Dayton, but verily, verily, you have not seen the last of me."

With this brilliant speech Cyril Budd walked sedately down to the other end of the platform as the car rolled up. Peggy saw the spats and little fedora disappear down the street.

She did feel rather flattered at the idea of having a song composed about her. It would be amusing if the song should really become popular. Marion Minton would be wild with envy and Townley and Billy Bracton would be tickled to death.

"But no matter how famous that song becomes, I'll still dodge Cyril Budd," laughed Peggy to herself. "A curly haired husband who wears spats and composes music would never suit me."

USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Preparing Meals as a "Career"

Marguerite Martyn Shows That, "I DO Admire Women Who Do Things" Applies to Those Who Cook Dinners as Well as Those in Business or Professions.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

"HOW IN-teresting your work must be! I do admire women who DO things!" How often must the woman engaged at the so-called CAREER listen to that plaint from the woman who is only—a homekeeper!

"If I were only doing something worth while, something that would employ my brain," she sighs. "As a child I could draw and in school my compositions always received high marks. I have always felt that if I hadn't got married, I might really have done something. But now," she adds with another deep drawn sigh, "I can only cook and keep house and take care of children. I have tried to take up drawing again, but no sooner do I get my drawing board set up and my materials together and my mind to a point of concentration where a bright and original idea might possibly take shape, than in romp Tom and Harry from school upsetting everything. Once, when the children had gone to visit their grandmother, I thought I'd see if I could bring back some of my old skill at writing, and tried my hand at a short story. Three nights in succession Tom Senior came home to find his dinner not started. There had been so many interruptions, the door bell, the telephone, the ice man. The time had gone so fast and my thoughts, since my mind was so out of practice, had come so slowly. It is this mental determination which distresses me so. I think it is really a crime against civilization to throw away your mental gifts as a housekeeper has to do."

Some of them are a great deal more impatient than this and come seeking advice on the final step of abandoning domestic limitations, children, husbands and the other incidents, for the wider call of the world upon their brains and talents. Every woman credited with "doing things" is familiar with the plaint of the discontented home maker and some fall into the habit of accepting the adulation implied and thriving upon it. But a woman whom I know very well, a woman accustomed to the envy-laden expression, "How IN-teresting your work must be," found herself cast temporarily in the domestic role the other day, guests having been invited to dinner and the combination cook and housekeeper having arrogated to herself a holiday unannounced, explaining later that it was because everybody else was taking holidays—it was Christmas week—and being sure of greater indulgence afterward, too.

The guests invited, each at some time had expressed the highest regard for the professional attainments of the woman in her profession, but she was not so far deceived as to expect that as a hostess she could satisfy them with only a literary or artistic feast. Along about dinner time, the most intellectual of us demands something else. So—there being no alternative, in fact—she decided she'd just cook and serve the meal herself.

It ought to be no trick at all to a woman noted for resourcefulness in more responsible fields and upon far more conspicuous occasions. She knew how to cook, or how it ought to be done. Hadn't she instructed and developed out of raw material, half a dozen cooks? And she did cook and serve the dinner, and it was a success—so much so that she had the satisfaction of seeing the food disappear almost without comment, until afterward, when, upon leave-taking, one of her less intellectual but more observing guests came to her and confidently remarked: "I didn't know you could cook. I am agreeably surprised. I didn't know you had it in you."

And now, in the light of that experience in the kitchen, the woman says no praise for any attainment, literary or artistic, ever gave her such a thrill, for she is never sure the average appraiser of her art knows whereof he speaks, while this man is the husband of an excellent cook and housekeeper, and all men are competent judges of these arts—though they accept them too much as a matter of course—that is their fault, and may account for some of the discontent of the housewives.

And in the light of her experience with that meal, never again, this woman says, will she permit anybody to tell her there is not scope or intellect, for all the faculties employed in an alleged career—within the confines of a kitchen.

The woman is a newspaper worker, and in her particular capacity is required to exercise many other faculties beside the essentially literary ones. She must gather the material for her productions, elsewhere than in imagination sometimes, and she must, besides including mere facts, seek to make her story attractive and readable; and at times she must work fast, under pressure, against the "dead line" of going to press.

In the light of that one experience in the kitchen, she concludes that a cook is confronted with difficulties not dissimilar to those encountered in the production of a newspaper article. Certainly the cook must think and work fast if her product is not to be overdone, or stale or cold or half-cooked. She must make her production attractive, appetizing, stimulating. And there is always the hour set when everything must be ready at once, which is not unlike the "dead line" of going to press.

Going to market is not unlike going out on an assignment. You must search for the ingredients needed for your menu or your story. You must sometimes haggle with the market man as you sometimes must haggle with the possessor of information unwilling to impart it.

Coming upon articles with whose proper preparation the cook is unfamiliar, she knows she may have recourse to the cookery book which is in the nature of having recourse to the files or other avenues of research with the reporter. Having a choice of many articles for the assembling of a well balanced and complete menu, that is comparable to the managing editor's job in the newspaper office.

Indeed, as she proceeded with the analogy, it became more and more apparent to the woman, that the setting forth of a good dinner brought into play many faculties beyond those required of one reporter covering one assignment, rather exercising the mental functions an entire staff contributes to the making of a newspaper, with the effect upon the consumer much the same.

The appetizer in effect is like unto what the headline writer produces. The soup is analogous to the "filler," reading matter not of urgent news value already set in type and left to simmer for days at a time. The piece de resistance, the roast or fowl or whatever is the main dish of the meal, may be likened to the news for which primarily the newspaper is disseminated. The vegetables which accompany it are the local items, fresh, homely, out of neighboring gardens, preferably; the feature stories, the entrees, somewhat superfluous, but always the accompaniment of a complete menu. The salad is to be compared to the work of the columnists, not essentially nourishing but contributing zest and savor to revive the jaded appetite. The conversation which a good meal is expected to generate is the editorial comment; the floral decoration in the center of the table is of the cartoon appealing to the senses through the eye. And all the garnishes may be compared to the illustrations which are used to enhance the articles. The doilies, the linen, the silver, the china, so essential to woman's enjoyment of the repast, but not so necessary to men—they are comparable to the women's page. The desert, catering to the sweet tooth left over from childhood taste, is to be likened to the comic section. Cheese, which is said to be indigestible itself but helps to digest other foods—it is the unsavory, the revolting stories of crime and scandal which make one more appreciative of the more wholesome chronicles. Bread, the staff of life, is that essential element which journalism hopes it contributes to the greater good of society. The coffee, depending upon its effect upon the individual, depressing or stimulating, keeping some awake nights, just like the market page? The and cigarettes, since they are posed not to interest women, haps they are analogous to the page. The advertising, where it find its place in the figure? are not many dinners given for sake of advertising the host's will and his willingness to courtesies, supposedly social, sometimes material?

Whether or not the same processes are engaged in the aration of a single viand or production of a newspaper the woman is not prepared to but she does contend that the effort—the preparation of the —employed her mind to the its capacity for the time being she could have kept a corps sistants busy at the manual just at handing her things, employed all her mentality in direction.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Farmer Brown's Boy Looks in Vain.

By Thornton W. Burgess

FARMER BROWN'S BOY was as puzzled as was Farmer Brown by the mystery of the disappearance of that package of meat from their basket; neither of them could understand it at all. He couldn't see how it could have fallen out of the sleigh, but it was gone and there was just a chance that it might have fallen from the sleigh somewhere along the road home. He began to put on his things.

"Where are you going?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"To harness up and drive back to look for that meat," replied Farmer Brown's Boy, and started for the barn.

Old Man Coyote, snugly hidden under the pile of straw in the barnyard, heard the steps of Farmer Brown's Boy and peeped out. He saw him lead the horse out of the barn and hitch him to the sleigh. Then Farmer Brown's Boy jumped in and jingled out of the yard and off up the road. Old Man Coyote watched him out of sight.

"I wonder where he has gone now?" muttered Old Man Coyote. "I hope he will bring back some more meat." He licked his lips, grinned and crawled back to the comfortable place he had made under the middle of the stack of straw and there curled up for a nap.

Farmer Brown's Boy drove slowly, watching both sides of the road. He knew that no one had been along since he and his father had driven home. Clear to the village he drove, but of course he saw nothing of that missing package. Then he turned around and drove home again, and all the way he puzzled over the mystery of that vanished meat.

"It couldn't have walked off itself," said he. "If Bowser had been around the yard when we drove in I would suspect that the old rascal had helped himself to that meat from the basket while we were in the barn. But he was in the house, so he couldn't possibly have taken it. It is too much for me."

After putting the horse in the barn again he went out to where the basket had been left on the return from the market that morning. Carefully he looked all around for some sign of a possible thief. But the snow was hard-packed and frozen and there were no footprints. Over on the doorstep sat Black Pussy the Cat. For a moment or two he scowled at her suspiciously. Then he laughed.

"If you were about twice as big as you are, or that package had been half as big as it was, I would think you might know something about it," said he. "But you simply couldn't have carried away that meat. Of that I'm certain."

Still he looked around back of the house and back of the barn and behind the stack of straw. You see, he thought he might at least find the paper in which that meat had been wrapped. But he looked in vain and finally gave it up.

"Father was right, it is a mystery. It is the greatest mystery I have ever known. But I have an idea that some day I will find out what became of that meat," said he.

Could Old Man Coyote have heard him he would have chuckled. But Old Man Coyote didn't hear. He was under the stack of straw with a full stomach and feeling very comfortable and contented. No mystery was bothering him. You see, he knew exactly where that meat had disappeared and how. And I guess you do, too.

The Fortune Hunter

(AN ABSORBING LOVE STORY)

By RUBY AYERS

NINETEENTH INSTALLMENT.

Five thousand pounds! Where in the wide world was he to find such a sum; he might just as well have made it 5,000,000 while he was about it. He walked out into the Strand and looked about for Foster; it was rank bad luck that he should have turned up just at that moment; of course, he would take the first opportunity to tell Anne of the unfortunate meeting. But there was no sign of Foster anywhere, and the Fortune Hunter got on to a bus.

When he had paid his fare, it left him with but 5s in the world and a return ticket to Somerton, and yet he had given his word of honor—if it was true that there was such a thing as honor among thieves!—that he would send Irenie Claver 5000 pounds in a week's time.

He laughed drearily at the very thought; he might as well have promised her the moon.

There was no train to Somerton for an hour, and it was 6 o'clock when he walked up the village towards Cherry Lodge.

He was thankful to get back; it seemed an eternity since he had left that morning; he was longing to see Anne; with the knowledge of her love he felt himself ready to fight the world; without her—well, nothing mattered.

But Anne was in her room.

Tommy met him in the hall.

"You've got back, then," he said affably. "You'd better hurry up, dinner's at 7 tonight. Uncle Clem's going out to play that everlasting bridge."

The Fortune Hunter went up to his room; he hurried through his dressing and downstairs, hoping to find Anne alone, but the house seemed deserted.

It was only when the gong sounded that he heard her bedroom door open and her step on the stairs.

He was out in the hall in a moment, his handsome face alight with eagerness, but something in the cool little smile with which she greeted him touched his heart like a cold hand.

"You've got back, then?" she said.

"Yes—I"—— The eager words died on his lips as Mr. Harding came down the stairs behind her.

"Got back safely, John," he said breezily. "Well, and how's London looking?"

"About the same—I rushed through my business and got back as soon as possible."

"Ah! There's no place like the country, though when I was your age I thought London and the big cities the only spots in the world worth a visit."

"I've seen all the big cities I want to see," he said.

"Ah—yes! Of course! I forgot for the moment what a great traveler you've been. My dear, where's Tommy?"

Tommy came in from the garden at that moment and they all went in to dinner.

Most of the conversation fell to Tommy and Mr. Harding. Anne was pale and silent and it seemed to the Fortune Hunter that she carefully avoided looking at him.

He knew, although he tried to deny it to himself, that already the seeds of distrust and suspicion had been sown in her heart. There was the affair of the photograph; the mistake he had made in playing the piano and, probably, a hundred and one other small instances in which he had unconsciously given himself away.

Every nerve in his body felt like a wire stretched to snapping point. He could think of nothing but the half-kindly, half-mocking smile in Irenie Claver's eyes and her last words to him:

"I shall hear from you in a week's time, then?"

Five thousand pounds! The sum danced before him in letters of fire. Twice Mr. Harding spoke to him, and he was too lost in his unhappy thoughts to reply till Tommy touched him on the arm.

"Have you gone to sleep, John?" There was an amused grin on the boy's thin face, and the Fortune Hunter came back to a realization of the present with a tremendous start, flushing hotly.

"I beg your pardon, sir. I'm afraid I was dreaming."

He looked appealingly at Anne, but her eyes were downcast.

"I was saying," Mr. Harding repeated rather dryly, "that if you care to come with me tonight—I'm going down to Dr. Gilmore's—if you care to come and have a game of bridge, I am sure they will be delighted to see you."

The Fortune Hunter's face hardened. He wondered if this had been Anne's suggestion in the first place. If it was he had no intention of being disposed of in such an easy fashion.

"Thanks—thanks very much," he said. "But as I've been out all day I would rather stay with Anne." He looked at her appealingly and she laughed.

"Oh, please don't consider me. I can easily amuse myself."

"I would rather stay with you," the Fortune Hunter insisted obstinately.

"As you like, of course," Mr. Harding said casually. "And I think, if you'll excuse me, my dear, I won't wait for sweets tonight."

He arose from the table, laid a caressing hand on Anne's shoulder as he passed and walked out of the room.

There was an uncomfortable silence when he had gone, then Tommy looked across at the Fortune Hunter and winked.

"I don't know that I want any sweets, either," he said, and rose from his chair.

He meant it kindly, but it seemed somehow to anger Anne, for she turned on her brother sharply.

The Fortune Hunter echoed her words harshly. "Yes, please stay, Tommy."

"Oh, well—if you really mean it."

He sat down again. The rest of the meal passed in uncomfortable constraint and as soon as it was over Tommy made his escape.

"I don't know what the dickens is the matter with everyone tonight," he growled as he limped out of the room and shut the door behind him.

The Fortune Hunter was to his feet instantly; he went round to where Anne sat and, stooping, took her hands, drawing her unwillingly to her feet.

"What have I done to be treated like this?" he aswed hoarsely. "If you are trying to drive me mad"—— He broke off suddenly, releasing her as someone tapped at the door and a maid entered. She looked at the Fortune Hunter.

"If you please, sir, Mr. Foster would like to speak to you. He is in the study. He says that he will not keep you long."

"Foster!" The Fortune Hunter echoed the name sharply, then he laughed, shrugged his shoulders, and without another look at Anne, walked out of the room and across the hall.

A secret that made a remarkable change

How an ordinary girl changed over night to a girl who was really attractive—how a girl who was always a wall flower, became thronged with admirers, sounds like an impossible happening.

And yet, that is exactly the experience of thousands who have learned a wonderful new secret.

Some of these women had hair that was dull, lifeless, impossible to arrange properly, and worst of all—full of dandruff. And this secret helped them all.

The hairdresser's secret

A new treatment, discovered by hairdressers, soon brought soft, wavy, tresses that everyone admired.

These simple directions will change your whole appearance too. You will be surprised to see how quickly you begin to get results—how light and silky and full of life your hair becomes.

Second: Apply Wildroot Liquid Shampoo and rub to a rich, creamy lather. Rinse with clear, warm water.

Third: Apply more Wildroot Liquid Shampoo, massaging lightly, and rinse three or four times. Dry thoroughly.

Fourth: Apply Wildroot Hair Tonic to the roots of the hair, massaging thoroughly with the finger tips.

Fifth: Moisten a sponge or cloth with Wildroot Hair Tonic. Wipe your hair, one strand at a time from the roots clear to the ends. Dry carefully.

These Wildroot products are sold by all drug and department stores, barbers and hairdressers with a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Wildroot Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

IN THE TIME OF TRIAL.

IN our town years ago we had for a City Judge a fine old gentleman, typically Southern in manner and air and voice and habit. He liked a toddy before his dinner; sometimes he liked one after his dinner. He was a first-rate judge of the merits of distilled liquors.

Perhaps that was why he looked with private disfavor upon the products of a little one-horse distillery which presently started up in the vicinity. These products were more famous for fire and potency than for purity or mellowness. I heard a seasoned imbiber say once that when you took a slug of the stuff you immediately had all the sensations of having swallowed a lighted kerosene lamp. Be that as it may, it was fighting whisky. Guinea pigs were prone to insult fox hounds after a swig of it.

On a certain day our Judge was decanted against the edge of his favorite bar. Court had adjourned and he was refreshing himself with a toddy. In came a friend.

"Judge," said the newcomer, "have you ever tried any of the stuff they're making at that new still house out on the Mayfield road?"

"No, son," said the Judge, "but I reckin I've tried nearly everybody that did try it."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

LOOKING BACKWARD.

A rich westerner is going to buy a ball team and make it invincible by feeding the players on monkey meat.

And their muscles get into bad shape,
And medicine proves unavailing,
They are fed on the meat of the ape.
And then they no longer are jaded;
They trot 'round the diamond with ease,
Being somewhat paternally aided
By their grandfathers up in the trees.

If results so astoundingly splendid
Can be gained by retracing the track
On which, as a race we descended,
We had better go all the way back.
The ape lived a long time before us,
In forests, hot, misty and dim;
But the bony-winged ichthyosaurus
Lived quite a long time before him.

This beast was quite modern in features,
A product of aeons of time
Compared to the jelly-like cretures
That crawled in primordial slime.
These things, unresistent and idle,
Are found, in their primitive forms,
In marshes and salt-reaches tidal
When the sea has ben battered by storms.

And, therefore, a trainer prophetic,
Who is anxious to build up some day
A team so alert and athletic
It will win in every game it may play,
Who wants to achieve a sensation
With a nine that don't know how to lose,
Will diet his whole aggregation
On the creatures that feed on the ozone!
